NEW SUBWAY LINE-UP CHECKS COMPROMISE

Mayor and Mitchel Vote Down Proposal to Give Interborough Demanded Guarantee.

B. R. T. DEAL THREATENED

Rumors of Taxpayers' Suits to Enjoin Contracts Unless Terms Are Also Made with the Interborough.

A new alignment developed in the Board of Estimate yesterday morning when that body met in executive session to renew its consideration of the subway problem. Overnight Borough President McAneny and Controller Prendergast had decided to give their support to a modification of the Interborough demand for a preference of 9 per cent. on $125,000,000, against the earnings of the extended subway in advance of the city's taking out of the income pool the sinking fund and interest on its own securities issued for construction.

The McAneny-Prendergast proposal was that the Interborough should receive a preference to the extent of this 9 per cent. for the entire term of the lease of the new subways, but that at the end of fourteen years the city should itself take a preference over the remaining charges against the income of the subway of $1,750,000 a year additional. This was to continue for fourteen years longer, after which period the city and the Interborough were each to draw out of the subway pool $3,750,000 a year in advance of the payment of interest on the city's bonds and the division of profits, if any remained.

President John Purroy Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen rejected all day yesterday this basis of settlement with the Interborough. In the afternoon session of the Board of Estimate he was joined by Mayor Gaynor and Borough Presidents Steers of Brooklyn and Gresser of Queens. Their nine votes defeated the proposition.

Last night, the representatives of the Interborough had Messrs. McAneny, Prendergast, and Mitchel at dinner with then at the Metropolitan Club, where further efforts were made to bring these three officials around to agreement with the company. After the dinner it was said that no progress had been made. Besides the three officials mentioned, there were present Borough President Miller of the Bronx, Theodore P. Shonts, J. P. Morgan, Jr., Henry P. Davison, Andrew Freedman, E. M. Grout, and Seth Low.

Now Demands $10,000,000 More.

The Interborough is not satisfied even with the McAneny-Prendergast compromise. It has increased last week's demand for a guarantee of $11,250,000 a year, being 9 per cent. on $125,000,000, the alleged cost of construction and equipment, by an additional $10,000,000, which it declares it will need in the first ten years of operation to purchase additional equipment. The company demands 9 per cent. annually on this amount, thereby increasing the total guarantee from $11,250,000 to $12,150,000, exclusive of the assurance in the report of the McAneny committee that it will be able to reserve out of the net earnings of the third-tracked elevated lines a sum equivalent to the present profits—$1,400,000 a year—before the division of profits on the elevated begins with the city.

Up to the time when Messrs. McAneny, Prendergast, and Mitchel went into conference with the Interborough representatives at the Metropolitan Club last night no one of them was prepared to grant this enlarged demand. Several of the members of the Board of Estimate, however, believe that the McAneny-Prendergast compromise is sufficiently near to the Interborough's own demands to be accepted eventually, and it is urged in its support that complications will be avoided and promised litigation staved off if the city finds some terms of agreement with the Interborough.

In this connection it was learned that Borough President McAneny, who previous to Sunday night's conference at the home of Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission had not agreed to the guarantee of 9 per cent. on both the new and old capital of the Interborough, was the principal object of attention for the Interborough representatives at that gathering. Ex-Mayor Seth Low, Chairman of the Subway Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, who participated on behalf of the Interborough, was, it was learned, especially insistent upon the proposition that unless Mr. McAneny made terms with the company he would lose all of the public support that his committee had gained by its subway report and would be responsible for throwing the entire situation into chaos.

It was openly stated at this session that if terms were not made with the Interborough, taxpayers would begin suits to restrain the fulfillment of the arrangement made with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, based upon the prior lien granted to the B. R. T. against the earnings of the extended system for an amount equivalent to its present net earnings, in compensation for the turning over of its existing elevated lines. Yesterday morning renewed predictions were made that such litigation would be started, and the talk in subway circles had it that papers had already been prepared in one or more actions.

Basis of the Opposition.

The McAneny-Prendergast compromise basis was opposed by President Mitchel of the Aldermen on several grounds. One was the position taken, in substance, last week by his colleagues, the Controller and the President of Manhattan, that, inasmuch as the Interborough's bankers have not demanded in any of the conferences an assurance that anything more would be guaranteed than the carrying charges on the capital they provide, the Interborough was not entitled to an additional 3 per cent. on the $75,000,000 which it proposed to expend for new construction and equipment. Representatives of J. P. Morgan & Co. have, it is learned, even gone so far as to say specifically that they do not join in the demand for a 9 per cent. guarantee upon the proposed new investment.

The second point raised by Mr. Mitchel against the arrangement is based on the calculations of figures agreed to in substance by the various parties at interest in the tranction situation. The figures show that if a guarantee of 9 per cent. were made on $75,000,000 new capital and upon $50,000,000 present investment, and the Subway thus extended were operated on a basis of 45 per cent. of the gross earnings, the deficits on the payment of this guarantee to the Interborough would not disappear until 1921 and the deficits upon the city's own interest would not disappear until 1928. Operating the Subway on a 50 per cent. basis, including taxes, which has been assumed in other computations made by the conferrees, the deficits on the Interborough's guarantee and on the city's interest do not disappear until two years later in each instance.

According to the figures showing the anticipation of future traffic and corresponding to the estimates used in the McAneny report, an increase of 5 per cent. a year in the traffic of the Subway is taken for the purpose of these calculations. The McAneny-Prendergast compromise, however, proceeds on the theory that such a traffic increase is to continue during the entire period of the lease. Here is where the chief objection of Mr. Mitchel lies for taking the 50 per cent. operating basis, the subway would have to carry considerably over 600,000,000 persons a year before the deficit on the guarantee

HE WAS A GOOD BUYER.

Young Man Who Ordered $50,000 Worth of Goods Is Arrested.

July is one of the slow months in the cloak and suit trade, so that the various houses in this city which received visits from a young man calling himself Edward D. Khan recently were especially pleased at the sizable orders which the young man left. He said he represented D. B. Loveman of Chattanooga, Tenn., who has a large department store, and asked that the goods he ordered be shipped for August delivery.

All told, Kahn bought about $50,000 worth of goods, and apparently intended to keep right on buying, when Felix Lillienthal of Baer & Lillienthal, 40 West Twenty-second Street, New York buyer for the Loveman store, heard of young Mr. Kahn's activities. He telegraphed his house and learned, he says, that Kahn was unknown to the Loveman house. Mr. Lillienthal notified the trade here, and about ten cloak men came near to shedding tears when they learned that the orders they were already starting to fill were not wanted.

Last night a representative of one of the firms with which Kahn had dealt had an appointment with him in the Hotel Cadillac to take him to Coney Island. This man agreed to detain Kahn until detectives could be sent for, and shortly after 8 o'clock Detectives McMahon, Devote, and Berry arrested the surprised young man and took him to Headquarters.

Kahn insisted that he had been with the Chattanooga firm for eight years, but on Mr. Lillienthal's complaint he was locked up, charged with attempted grand larceny. None of the goods he ordered had been shipped, so no one has lost anything by the young man's orders.

Later Kahn told the police that his real name wasn't Kahn, and that he was a member of a good New York family. He said he had met Mr. Loveman when the latter was on a business trip here, and that afterward he had seen Mr. Loveman's advertisement for a buyer. He said he had thought to show Mr. Loveman what a hustler he was by giving all the orders. He had intended to cancel them afterward, if Mr. Loveman did not want the goods.

ATWOOD HEAVY LOSER.

Aviator Likely to Have to Pay Expenses of Washington Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Harry N. Atwood, the winner of THE NEW YORK TIMES trophy, given in recognition of his flight from Boston to Washington, is back here to-day after a hurried trip to New York and Atlantic City.

Mr. Atwood, it is likely, will not only have to bear all of the expenses of his flight from New York here but his personal expenses as well, notwithstanding the fact that he was asked to fly here by the local Chamber of Commerce and urged to the feat by the Aero Club of Washington. The Chamber of Commerce sent a personal representative to New York and Atlantic City to urge Atwood to come to Washington, and while no absolute promise was made that his expenses would be paid the impression conveyed was that Atwood would not lose anything.

This impression was so strong that Atwood when his own machine failed him borrowed the aeroplane of C. K. Hamilton to reach Washington, and when he got as far as College Park, rather than leave the course unfinished, purchased Hamilton aeroplane to complete his flight to the White House grounds.

When Atwood was asked about the matter to-night at the New Willard he said:

"It was a pleasure for me to accept the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce of Washington to come here, and I appreciate all the courtesy which has been extended to me since I came here. The honor of being received by the President is something I always will remember. The trip here, however, proved a very expensive one for me."

TO RESTORE HER MEMORY.

Lawyers Believe Miss Byington, by Suggestion, Will Recall Thefts.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17.—Recalling a lost past by suggestion is the principal means by which lawyers for Mrs. Margaret B. Armour hope to recover the balance of the $142,000 worth of bonds stolen by her companion, Miss Harriette Byington. This method of procedure by the lawyesr has brought forth these quesions, which have long ago been answered in the affirmative by psychic experts:

"Is it possible for a woman to regain her memory under a cross-fire of questions from lawyers?"

"Can a woman who has taken another woman's property and forgotten what she did with it be made to recall the hiding place when she is answering under oath?"

The bonds were taken from the safety box of Mrs. Armour in the New England National Bank by Miss Byington. The attorneys will begin this week to take depositions in the suit for $142,000 filed by Mrs. Armour against Miss Byington last week. Miss Byington admits taking the bonds and has returned some of them, together with rugs, jewelry, and other things which she purchased with the money realized from the sale of others. But theer still are thousands of dollars to be accounted for. Miss Byington declares that she cannot remember whether she ever took any bonds, other than those accounted for, and if she did take them, she says she cannot remember just what she did with them.

The suit probably will be dropped when the depositions have been taken.

BRYAN'S THIRTEEN QUESTIONS

Every Democratic Presidential Candidate Requested to Answer Them.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., July 17.—William J. Bryan wants to put every Democratic candidate for the Presidency upon record as to just what he does and does not advocate, and he will appeal to the country to arose sufficient public sentiment to cause these candidates to answer the following questions:

Do you favor a tariff for revenue only?

Do you favor free raw material and the placing of a revenue duty on only manufactured goods?

Do you believe that in the revision of the tariff the element of protection should be given consideration?

Do you believe the three branches of the Government are co-ordinate, and that each should keep within its constitutional sphere?

Do you approve of the recent Standard Oil decision wherein the Supreme Court "legislated" the word "unreasonable" into the Sherman anti-trust law?

Do you favor the repeal of the criminal clause of the anti-trust law, or believe Congress should make it clear that all restraint of trade is unreasonable?

Do you favor popular election of Senators?

Do you favor the income tax?

Do you believe it is the duty of the American people to promise independence to the Philippine Islands immediately, and give it to them in the same way it was given to the Cubans?

Do you believe in publicity of campaign contributions?

Are you willing that the source of every nomination shall be made public?

Do you favor support of State Governments in all their rights?

Do you indorse the labor planks of 1908, strict regulation of railroads, the Aldrich currency scheme, asset currency in any form, establishment of a central bank, and a law compelling banks to insure depositors?

Mr. Bryan appeals to the newspapers to publish the list and to demand that candidates state their position.

NEW STATE OFFICES ARE FILLED BY DIX

AHEARN MADE FIRE MARSHAL

The Governor's Nominations.

Conservation Commissioners—GEORGE E. VAN KENNEN, Ogdensburg; JAMES W. FLEMING, Troy; JOHN D. MOORE, New York.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 17.—Tammany Hall, through State Engineer John A. Bensel, who was selected for that place by Boss Murphy, will henceforth control the construction and maintenance of the State's highways with all that involves in the way of patronage and of methods profitable from a political point of view to the dominant element in the Democratic machine. That became apparent to-night, when Gov. Dix sent to the Senate for confirmation his nominee for State Superintendent of Highways.

This nomination was only one of a number that went to the Senate to-night, and which constitutes the most important appointments the Governor has made since he took office. The nominations included, besides the Governor's selection for executive member of the reorganized State Highway Department, those of heads for his new Conservation Department, the nomination for State Fire Marshal, a place created by the present Legislature, and two more appointments for Trustee of the New York State Hospital for the Treatment of Incipient Pulmonary Tuberculosis and for manager of the Willard State Hospital.

The nominations were:

For Conservation Commissioners—George E. Van Kennen of Ogdensburg, Chairman; James W. Fleming of Troy, and John D. Moore of New York City; salary, $10,000 a year each.

For State Fire Marshal—Thomas J. Ahearn of New York City; salary, $7,000.

Bensel Backed Catlin.

The appointment of Mr. Catlin had been advocated very earnestly by State Engineer Bensel in the face of the contention that the State Superintendent of Highways ought to be an engineer well versed in the art of road building. Mr. Bensel, it is said, was anxious that the man to whom is to be entrusted the task of constructing good roads for the State should be not be an engineer. The appointment of Mr. Catlin, it is generally regarded here, will leave Mr. Bensel, who is an engineer, the dominant figure on the new State Highway Commission which is to be composed of Mr. Catlin, Mr. Bensel, and State Superintendent of Public Works Treman.

Tammany members of the Senate were jubilant, and, contrary to precedent, confirmed Mr. Catlin's nomination without referring it to the Committee on Finance, in the face of a vigorous protest from Senator Harvey D. Hinman of Broome, on behalf of the Republican minority. The excuse for confirming Mr. Catlin at once was found in the fact that some twenty years ago he had served in the Assembly with Senator Grady, and that he is the step-father of Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright, the Republican Senator of Westchester.

Senator Brtckett said that information given him led him to believe that Mr. Catlin was as high class a man and as well qualified for the position as could be hoped for from a Democratic Governor.

Mr. Catlin has lived in Westchester for more than forty years, and, in addition to managing his extensive farm near Port Chester, has devoted much of that time to the development of real estate. He is considered an efficient road builder.

"Politically," says a statement issued from the Executive Chamber, referring to his legislative career, "he was classed as a Cleveland Democrat. During the first administration of President Cleveland, Mr. Catlin was appointed by the President to take charge of the extermination of pleuro-pneumonia in cattle in all the Eastern States. This work involved the expenditure of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 per year, and the employment of some 2,000 persons. The success of Mr. Catlin's administration was instrumental in opening the ports of Great Britain, France, and Germany to American cattle, upon which, prior to that time, there had been an embargo."

Tammany Bars Republican.

In connection with the appointment of his Conservation Commissioners, also, Gov. Dix was compelled to enter upon a compromise with the legislative leaders representing Tammany Hall. Gov. Dix had slated for one of the places on this commission John B. Burnham, at present Deputy Forest, Fish, and Game Commissioner and an authority on wild life. Mr. Burnham is an active Republican. But the men who represent Tammany Leader Murphy in the Senate told the Governor early in the day that Mr. Burnham could not be confirmed, that they wanted no Republicans on the Conservation Commission. So the Governor decided not to send in Mr. Burnham's name, substituting for it the name of George E. Van Kennen.

Mr. Van Kennen, who is a prominent lawyer and at present Mayor of Ogdensburg, cannot possibly be ranked as a Democrat amenable to the Tammany boss. He is a Democrat of the independent type, who enjoys the highest reputation in the County of St. Lawrence, where he lives. Since Gov. Dix took office he has been associated with William Church Osborn in the executive legal department at the Capitol, and has conducted the investigation of the State Prison Department.

James W. Fleming, one of the other Conservation Commissioners, was recently appointed Forest, Fish, and Game Commissioner by Gov. Dix to succeed Thomas Mott Osborne. Mr. Fleming is 44 years old and is a graduate of the Troy Academy and the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is a Democrat, but not active in politics. His family made a fortune in the liquor business. He is a Director in the Manufacturers' National Bank of Troy, of the Troy Gas Company, Vice President of the Manhattan Navigation Company and of the Casualty Company of America. His appointment was very pleasing to the Murphy machine in Troy.

John D. Moore, the New York City man nominated for the Conservation Commission, is a Consulting Engineer at present employed by District Attorney Whitman as an expert in connection with the investigation of the Triangle Waist Company fire. He is 37 years old and has an office at 30 Church Street. He lives at 404 West 115th Street. He has served on several commissions, but has never held public office with a salary attached

DIED IN CHERRY TREE, HANGING HEAD DOWN

TRAPPED IN FORKED LIMB

Coroner Believes Victim Must Have Been Overcome by the Heat and Unconscious When He Fell.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 17.—Laborers on the Sire estate in Morris Plains who went into a cornfield early this morning to start their day's work, noticed something hanging from the branches of a cherry tree which stands just outside the field and within view of the railroad, the trolley line, and the Sire home. They found the body of a man hanging from a forked limb in which the legs were caught. Later the body was identified as that of William Eakley, yardmaster of the Lackawanna Railroad at Hoboken, who disappeared from his home in Newark a week ago yesterday.

It is the theory of Coroner George L. Jackson that Mr. Eakley was overcome by the heat while he was in the tree picking cherries and that he fell, after losing his senses, and caught in the forked branch. Had he simply lost his balance and fallen the Coroner thinks that he would have been able to extricate himself, or at least to have attracted the attention of some of the farm hands on the Sire place. His hat, filled with cherries, was found resting on some branches near the top of the tree.

Since Mr. Eakley's disappearance his family and friends as well as railroad detectives have been searching everywhere for him. Parties of searchers have scoured the woods and underbrush along the Watchung Mountain, between Morris Plains and Mount Tabor, but no sight of Eakley rewarded their efforts, though all the time the man's body was in full view of every train of the Lackawanna on the Morristown division, and of every trolley car that passed the Sire estate.

Eakley was last seen alive on Sunday morning a week ago when he waved a farewell to the brakeman of a passing train from the Morris Plains Railroad station. It is supposed that he noticed the heavily laden cherry tree and climbed into it, with no thought of the excessive heat of the day.

Coroner Johnson believes that Mr. Eakley died as he hung from the branch, without regaining consciousness. Had his senses returned to him even for a moment he could have extricated himself or summoned aid.

Mr. Eakley's body was taken to a local morgue, where members of his family, summoned from Newark, identified it. It was taken to Newark to-night.

INSECT BITE HALTS WEDDING.

Bishop Kinsman, Stung on Knee, Could Not Marry Young Couple.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 17.—The illness of the Right Rev. Frederick J. Kinsman, Episcopal Bishop of Delaware, who is suffering from the sting of an insect, prevented the wedding of the Rev. Guy Emery Shipler of St. Louis and Miss Margaret Strong of Chicago, daughter of Col. Joseph H. Strong of that city. The announcement was made to-day. The marriage was to have been performed by the Bishop in the chapel adjoining his residence in Wilmington. The father of the young bride-elect stated to-night that the marriage will probably take place in the Fall.

The Rev. Mr. Shipler who will soon become rector of St. Philip's Church, Laurel, Del., was recently ordained. He is a former newspaper man having been connected with the Boston Transcript. He is now visiting his mother at Yonkers, N. Y. Miss Strong is at Ocean Beach, N. J. The fact that the prospective bridegroom is to become attached to the Delaware diocese was the cause of the selection of Bishop Kinsman as the officiating clergyman.

Th Bishop was bitten on the knee by an insect while a guest near Cooperstown, N. Y., several weeks ago. The injury was so serious that he was treated at a hospital in Cooperstown. He returned to Wilmington only a week ago, when the injury again became so painful that he was forced to go to Bryant Pond, Me., a Summer resort, where he will remain until September.

TO STOP ELECTION BRIBERY.

Bay State Act Gives Defeated Candidate Incentive to Enforce It.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 17.—The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a Corrupt Practices act which is pronounced an epoch-making enactment and one that is not unlikely to be widely copied. The present law has not provided any incentive for anybody to enforce it.

The new act provides that "Whoever is convicted of willfully violating and provision of law relating to corrupt practices in elections shall be deemed ineligible to hold public office for three years following the date of conviction, and if a person elected to public office is convicted of any willful violation of the law relating to corrupt practices in connection with the election in question, his office shall thereby be vacated and a new election shall be held for the purpose of filling the same."

This section holds out an inducement to defeated candidates and defeated parties for taking the initiative in bringing offenders into court.

A provision that will doubtless attract attention is that which restricts any candidate from spending more than $5,000 or more than $25 for each 1,000 voters in his district; the use of more than one carriage or other conveyance at any one polling place by any one committee is prohibited.

Furthermore, the hiring of workers at the polls is no longer permissible, and personal expenses are to be reported.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR FULL PUBLICITY

Federal Candidates Must Tell of Campaign Funds Before Primaries and Elections.

LIMIT OF $10,000 IS FIXED

Senators Must Spend No More, and Limit for Representatives Is $5,000 —House May Resist Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Senate laid aside reciprocity to-day, and after six hours' debate passed without a roll-call the bill providing ante-election as well as post-election publicity of campaign contributions. It had previously adopted the committee amendment extending its provisions to primary elections of Senators and Representatives, as well as to general elections. This amendment was once adopted in the House, but it caused such consternation among the Southern Democrats that that body at once reconsidered the matter.

In the Senate only seven members—all Democrats—voted against the amendment, and it was adopted by fifty affirmative votes. The seven voters were Senators Bacon of Georgia, Bailey of Texas, Bankhead of Alabama, Bryan of Florida, Johnson of Alabama, Overman of North Carolina, and Taylor of Tennessee. A few of these carried their hostility against the amendment to the length of voting against the bill, but some accepted the first roll-call and voted for the final passage of the measure. The amendment will cause a struggle in conference.

A volley of amendments was directed at the bill on the floor, but the only other one adopted came from Mr. Reed of Missouri. It sets a limit on legitimate expenditures for campaign purposes; providing that the campaign expenses shall not exceed the limits prescribed by the States, that they shall not exceed 10 cents for each vote cast, and that finally they shall not exceed $10,000 for a Senator and $5,000 for a member of the House. This amendment is taken out of the penalty clause of the bill and stands alone.

Indirect references to the Lorimer scandal were many and Senators spoke sharply of the taint resting against Congress by the airing of charges of corruption. That this corruption existed, said Mr. Root, there can be no doubt.

"We know it not only through the newspapers," said Mr. Root, "but through what has occurred right here in the Senate. We need adequate laws against campaign corruption, so that honest men may not have their rights taken away from them by corrupt men."

"One candidate for the Senate spent $2 for every vote he got in the primary elections," said Senator Reed of Missouri. "The law of Wisconsin requires candidates to file statements of their expenses, yet one of them sits in this body to-day who admitted having spen $107,000 o secure votes in the primary elections. If that is not a bar to his holding a seat in the Senate, it ought to be."

This reference was to the statement of campaign expenses filed by Senator Stephenson after his recent election.

The passage of the bill by Congress is largely due to a long campaign made by Perry Belmont and other citizens. Under it all general election expenses must be made public before the election, beginning fifteen days before election, and making publication each six days until election. All promises of political jobs must be made public. It will be illegal to promise political places in order to obtain election support, or to aid in influencing the election of any member of a State Legislature.

STREET ROWDIES SENTENCED

Eleven of the Gopher Gang Go to the Workhouse for Six Months.

In response to complaints from the neighborhood of Tenth Avenue and the Twenties, a district that is overrun with the Gopher gang, Police Commissioner Waldo sent Lieut. Becker and four detectives into the heart of the district at dusk last evening. At the corner of Twenty-sixth Street a crowd of about thirty young men were indulging in the familiar forms of concerted rowdyism, insulting passersby, and holding up the more prosperous for the price of drinks.

Becker and his squad charged the crowd. There was trouble at once. More men and boys materialized from shadowy doorways. Soon several hundred were surging about the corner, and out of the crowd came suggestions that the police be beaten. The five from Headquarters laid hand on eleven offenders, and, for good measure, picked up two who were most threatening in their talk. Fearful that these would get away from them, they called on the reserves. Even then it was with the greatest difficulty that they escorted their prisoners to the West Twentieth Street Station. The crowd followed, and outside the station, while the prisoners were giving their names, the rebellious clamor was deafening.

At the Night Court Magistrate O'Connor sentenced the rowdies to six months in the Workhouse on a disorderly conduct charge, and fined the two who tried to interfere $10 each. He set a fine of $5 each for two boys whom the police had picked out of a crowd of crap-players on the corner opposite the one where the disturbance occurred.

Becker confessed that he had rarely been up against such a rough lot. As an evidence of Commissioner Waldo's attitude toward the street rowdies, he said that within the last three weeks he and his squad had arrested 161 offenders and had the pleasure of seeing 150 convicted. The gang west of Tenth Avenue have been giving no end of trouble lately. A man was shot there only a week ago, and recently a policeman was met with a shower of stones.

"Duke" Thompson's Will Is Brief.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 17.—The will of the late William J. Thompson, Democratic leader in South Jersey, who was known as the Duke of Gloucester because he ran the old Gloucester racetrack, and who died in Europe a few days ago, was filed to-day for probate. It reads:

> I will bequeath and devise all my real and personal property to my wife, Sarah Thompson, and appoint her sole executrix.

It is the shortest will ever filed here. It was executed July 16, 1890, when Thompson was very wealthy. He was in bankruptcy at the time of his death.

BRUSSELS, July 17.—The Belgian aviator Olieslagers in a monoplane to-day made a flight of 626 kilometers, (388 miles,) at the Aerodrome here without a stop.

ALL BULL'S-EYES.

Eighteen Perfect Shots Made at a Floating Target.

A great record at target shooting was made at the Sandy Hook Proving Grounds yesterday by the 137th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, under command of Lieut. Miles. Fire was directed against a floating target, which was towed past a battery on the north shore at Fort Hancock. Three-inch, rapid-fire rifles were used and eighteen rounds were fired. Every shot made was a bull's-eye.

CARUSO WINS A LAWSUIT.

Trustee for a Bankrupt Corporation Tried to Collect on Shares He Held.

Enrico Caruso won yesterday in the Supreme Court a suit for $3,000 instituted by Conrad Milliken, Trustee in bankruptcy of the Standard Nitrogen Company. Justice Lehman held that the complaint failed to state sufficiently whether or not stockholders of the concern were to be subject to future calls for money.

Caruso bought 1,000 shares of stock at $5, each paying $2,000 on account. The concern afterward went into bankruptcy, and Caruso was sued for the remainder.

House Committee Wants Morrison Punished Also.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A favorable report on the resolution of Representative Dent of Alabama arraigning the State Department emergency account methods and recommending dismissal of Consul General W. H. Michael at Calcutta and Disbursing Officer Thomas Morrison of the department was adopted by the House Committee on State Department Expenditures to-day.

The Dent resolution declares it to be the sense of the House that the State Department had no right to take money from the emergency fund to pay for portraits of former Secretaries of State, and recommended the dismissal of Morrison and Michael on account of their connection with the $1,600 unaccounted for on a voucher for $2,450 for a painting of Secretary Day. Michael was at the time chief clerk of the department.

POPULATION CENTRE MOVES.

Now 31 Miles Further West and Slightly to the North.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The centre of population of the United States is four and one-quarter miles south of Unionville, Monroe County, Ind., according to a Census Bureau announcement to-day. Since 1900, when it was six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind., it has moved thirty-one miles westward and seven-tenths of a mile northward. The westward movement was more than twice that of the 1890-1900 decade. This acceleration of the westward movement is attributed by census officials principally to the growth of the Pacific and Southwestern States.

The geographical centre of the United States is in Northern Kansas, so that the centre of population therefore is about 550 miles east of it.

GIVES AWAY WRECKED AUTO.

Tourist, Ditched in Indiana, Lets Boy Keep It—Sold for College Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Cecil Hancock, 12 years old, who lives on his father's farm in Jasper County, Ind., to-day received a $2,000 touring car as a gift from an exasperated New York transcontinental auto tourist, who met with an accident near the Hancock farm. The tourist refused to give his name, but the auto license was No. 8,605 N. Y.

While descending a hill near the farm, the New Yorker, who was en route to Chicago and was the sole occupant of the car, lost control of the machine when the steering knuckle broke and the car landed in a ditch, bottom side up. Young Hancock helped the irate owner out of the wreck, and the air immediately became blue with oaths.

"I will give the car away just to get rid of it," said the New Yorker.

"Give it to me," said the boy.

"Take the nuisance and welcome," replied the owner.

He then hired the boy to drive him to the nearest railroad station, where he could get a train for Chicago.

Hancock sold the car to an auto dealer for a good price, and will invest the proceeds in a college education.

Owing to the fact that the Auto License Department of the Secretary of State's office in this city was closed last night it was impossible to learn the name of the owner of the car.

BRANDS BABY WITH HOT NAIL.

A Mother's Way of Trying to Cure It of Fever—Child in Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 17.—Mrs. Farra Adekel burned nine crosses into her child's flesh with a hot nail, in order to drive away the evil spirit that made her child ill. As a consequence the baby, 6 months old, is at the City Hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Adekel is a Syrian Greek. She said the treatment of American doctors had been of no avail, so in desperation she resorted to the remedies which she says are advocated by priests of Syria, her home.

She got a nail, heated it red hot, and burned two Greek crosses on each of the baby's temples. This was to drive away the high fever. She re-enforced them with a cross in the middle of the forehead. To drive away the stomach complaint she seared the child's stomach with three more crosses, and under them scattered miscellaneous scars. The child grew worse steadily, and on Wednesday was taken to the hospital.

CABINET TO DISCUSS WILEY CASE TO-DAY

ONE WILEY AID DROPPED

Floyd W. Robinson Dismissed Secretly by Wilson—Wickersham Said to Have Overruled an Assistant.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Something of a sensation was created here this afternoon by the publication of a categorical statement to the effect that President Taft had sent word to the Department of Agriculture that he wanted all the papers in the case of the charges against Dr. Wiley and his assistants growing out of the employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby, and that within thirty-six hours after discussion with the Cabinet the President would settle that case.

Inquiry at the White House and the Department of Agriculture brought forth the declaration that the only substance behind the statement lay in the fact that it had been surmised at the White House this morning that in case Secretary Wilson received by to-morrow morning the replies of Dr. Wiley, Dr. Bigelow, and Dr. Kebler he would probably take them with him to the Cabinet meeting, along with the reply of Dr. Rusby, which he has already received.

That the matter will come before the Cabinet is very probable. Dr. Wiley completed his answer to the Personnel Board charges to-day, and but for the time required for typewriting, it would have been in the hands of Secretary Wilson to-night. He expects to send it to the Secretary by 9:15 in the morning, and the Secretary will be able to take it to the Cabinet meeting at 11 o'clock. The answers made by Dr. Bigelow and Dr. Kebler probably also will be ready at the same time.

An effort has been made in quarters antagonistic to the President to make it appear that whichever way he decides he will be put in an awkward position, especially if he concludes not to act upon the recommendation of the Personnel Committee that Dr. Wiley be permitted to resign." It has been argued that such a decision would be an affront to Attorney General Wickersham, who approved the finding of the Committee on Personnel, and declared that Dr. Wiley's action merited "condign punishment." It was pointed out to-day, however, by a high Administration official that the recommendations of Cabinet members do not come to the President with the force of a command, and that it is far from unusual for the President to take action different from that recommended without thereby reflecting upon the Cabinet member whose recommendation is not followed.

From the first publication in THE NEW YORK TIMES of the charges against Dr. Wiley Administration circles have steadily fostered the impression that the President did not take the matter so seriously as the Department Committee on Personnel and the Attorney General had done. There is no doubt that Dr. Wiley has done and said things which have annoyed President Taft, just as he did and said things which annoyed President Roosevelt.

Dr. Wiley is interested in a great many matters outside of the work of the Bureau of Chemistry, and he has his own way of expressing his opinion about them. The range of his sympathies runs from woman's suffrage to the annihilation of the tobacco habit, including some philosophic thoughts on how to be cool by imagining that one is not hot. There has been times when high Administration officials have thought it would be better all around if Dr. Wiley did not put forward his opinions on such subjects in a manner to attract so much publicity, but these things have never been considered as important, and are not so regarded now.

A charge of much more weight which is not infrequently made against Dr. Wiley is that he is "cranky." Amplified, that charge means that he takes extreme views of the meaning and force of the pure food law, and fights for his views with tenacious vigor. Several times he has come into conflict with executive authority on such points, and has never been known to yield his opinion, although he has always bowed to the exercise of superior power.

One of his most stubborn fights was over the placing of a statement of the presence of benzoate of soda on the labels of packages of products containing this drug. The law simply requires that the label shall carry the statement, without specifying where. Dr. Wiley has contended that the plain intent of the law was that the statement should be so placed and in such conspicuous letters as to make it certain to be seen, and has insisted that this be done. Other officials of the Government who have to do with the enforcement of the law in the courts do not take kindly to such procedure, on the ground that the courts do not sustain it.

It is well known that President Taft would be pleased if he had less of that kind of controversy to settle, but he has never intimated in any way that he regarded it as at all a serious hindrance to Dr. Wiley's work, or that he would consider it a cause of terminating Dr Wiley's connection with the Bureau of Chemistry. On the contrary, he has made it clear that he recognizes and appreciates the strong stand Dr. Wiley has taken for pure foods and drugs, and the good work that has been done by the Bureau of Chemistry under him.

For these reasons the impression prevails in Administration circles that the President will find a means between the dismissal of Dr. Wiley and the incontinent rejection of Attorney General Wickersham's recommendation that will continue to give the country the benefit of Dr. Wiley's services and leave Mr. Wickersham a member of the Cabinet.

Despite the reassuring tone of the White House talk, however, there were two developments of the Wiley matter to-day that tended to stir up things more. It was learned that Floyd G. Robison, one of Dr. Wiley's most valued assistants at New York, had been dropped by Secretary Wilson, and there was a story about that the House inquiry would show that the Attorney General had rejected an opinion of one of his assistants in the matter of the legality of the Referee Board and accepted one drawn by Solicitor McCabe of the Agricultural Department, who has consistently opposed Dr. Wiley, and is now demanding his dismissal.

It is a curious story that is told about the opinion of the Department of Justice as to the appointment of the so-called Remsen Board in the Department of Agriculture, which overruled Dr. Wiley on the benzoate of soda controversy. It was to the effect that when the legality of the appointment of that board by President Roosevelt was called in question, early in the Taft Administration, Secretary Wilson asked the Department of Justice for an opinion about it.

Attorney General Wickersham is said to have referred the question to Assistant Attorney General James A. Fowler, and that Mr. Fowler prepared an opinion holding that the appointment of the board was not in conformity with the law. As the board had already incurred expenses aggregating several thousand dollars, this was a serious matter for Secretary Wilson. According to the story, Mr. Wilson thereupon talked the matter over with Solicitor McCabe, who prepared the draft of an opinion sustaining the appointment of the board, and this draft was submitted to the Attorney General and made the basis of the opinion promulgated by him in April, 1909, declaring the board to be legal.

Efforts to obtain confirmation of this story were not very successful to-night. Mr. Fowler would not discuss it much. He said that the Attorney General had prepared the only opinion on the subject ever promulgated by the Department of Justice, and that anything which had passed between the Attorney General and himself was purely a department matter and could not be discussed.

Chairman Moss of the House Committee, which is about to begin an investigation of the whole Wiley controversy, had heard this story, and it is expected that the committee will endeavor to ascertain the facts about it.

Mr. Robison was dismissed from the Bureau of Chemistry on June 30 on charges of insubordination. He was a member of Dr. Wiley's staff of experts in New York City. Although his dismissal was important, it was not brought to the attention of Dr. Wiley. Dr. Wiley said to-day that Robison had been dismissed from the department, but that he did not know officially why or when he had been discharged. Dr. F. L. Dunlap, assistant chemist of the department, declined to discuss the matter, except to say that it had been done within the last two months. It is known, however, that the action was taken by Secretary Wilson on the advice of Solicitor McCabe and Dr. Dunlap.

Secretary Wilson said that Robison had been relieved of service because of insubordination. The insubordination, in effect, was a refusal to carry into effect an order of the Secretaries of the Departments of Agriculture, Treasury, and Commerce and Labor in the matter of the use of benzoate of soda mixed with food. The controversy arose over the interpretation of an order which provided "that each container or package of such food be plainly labeled to show the presence and amount of benzoate of soda." Mr. Robison insisted on being more severe in this matter than certain superiors desired.

The dismissal of Mr. Robison, the Secretary declared, had nothing to do with the recommendation for the dismissal of Dr. Wiley by the department board. It is known, however, that Mr. Robison took the same view of the deleterious effects of benzoate of soda as Dr. Wiley took, but they were rejected by the referee board of consulting scientific experts.

Mr. Robison was formerly State Chemist of the Michigan Food and Dairy Board. Several years ago he was appointed Chief Chemist of the Food and Drug Inspection division of the Bureau of Chemistry, after passing a civil service examination. After this service he was sent to the New York laboratory, where his work was highly appreciated by Dr. Wiley. A curious fact is that he has been subpoenaed in the case in which Indiana is trying to stop the use of benzoate of soda as a preservative.

Late in June he was obliged to go to Detroit on business of a private nature and he tendered his resignation to the Secretary of Agriculture, expecting, however, to perform per diem work in chemistry for the Bureau, as the Bureau desired to make use of his services. Soon after returning from Detroit he received notice from Secretary Wilson that he was "dismissed for the good of the service." Like Dr. Rusby, he took exception to this treatment as his professional work had been regarded by his superiors as good.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan is taking an interest in the matter and will, it is said, appeal to the President for fair play in the case, holding that no good purpose could be served by dismissing a man just as he was going out of the Government employ and in a manner that would besmirch him in after life and work.

It was said at the Department of Agriculture to-day that as quickly as possible the request of the Moss committee for all the papers and records in the pure food cases relating to the controversy over Dr. Wiley would be answered. Copies of the papers are being prepared. Compliance with this request, it was said, had nothing whatever to do with the answers from Dr. Wiley and the officials involved with him to the charges of the Committee on Personnel, and there would be no delay on that account. It will be several days, it is expected, before the papers can be assembled and sent to the House committee. The committee will not proceed with any witnesses until this matter is received.

A portion of the papers desired by the committee was sent to the Senate late this afternoon in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Gronna of North Dakota asking for all papers bearing on the decision of the question "What is whisky?" This resolution was adopted June 7 and has involved a great deal of labor in getting together the data sought. The President in his message accompanying the documents asked that the papers be returned as soon as practicable. A large package went with the message, and everything was referred to the Printing Committee.

GIRL'S FIANCE WEDS ANOTHER

Ceremony Goes On While She Waits for Him to Call on Her.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., July 17.—Arthur H. Pechner a young barber of this village, was married to Miss Anna Mackin yesterday afternoon at St. John's Church by the Rev. Father McAleer while Miss Mabel Eastwood, another Fishkill girl, to whom Pechner had been engaged for some time, waited for him to take her out to Van Wyck's Lake to spend the day.

Pechner came here about two years ago from New York. He was a dapper-looking youth and always well dressed. A few months ago the local newspapers announced his engagement to Miss Eastwood, who is highly respected in the community. In honor of her engagement her friends gave her a linen shower, and it was said the marriage was soon to take place.

On Saturday, in the presence of Miss Eastwood, Pechner arranged for the renting of a flat, and it was understood they were to wed some time in August and go to housekeeping on Sept. 1. On Sunday afternoon Miss Eastwood waited for her fiancé, as he had arranged to take her out for the afternoon and evening. When he did not show up nor telephone, she wondered what it meant, and this morning she completely collapsed when girl friends informed her of Pechner's marriage.

Miss Mackin, whom Pechner married, has for many years been housekeeper for John P. Rider, President of the Matteawan National Bank.

ANGRY NEGRO SHOOTS TWO.

Sends Bullets Flying in Crowds Near Pennsylvania Station.

Armed with a loaded gun and a very nasty temper a young negro named David McCall raged about in the neighborhood of the Pennsylvania Station early last evening, and two wounded men are in the New York Hospital as a result of McCall's sudden outburst.

The man began to get ugly and abusive when he was thwarted in his attempt to get into a house in West Thirtieth Street. A negro named Robinson helped to persuade McCall to go away, but later when he and another negro, Frederick W. Summer, left the house to walk toward Seventh Avenue, McCall confronted them, had some things to say about his treatment at the house, and ended by drawing his gun and firing.

The two men fled to Seventh Avenue and turned uptown. At the corner a bootblack named Sporta got into the way of the second shot and rolled to the curb wounded in the thigh. The chase continued up the street and Summer had been shot three times before he fell exhausted at the entrance of the Pennsylvania Station. Patrolman Murphey was due for the next shot, but McCall ran out of cartridges and several policemen were able to close in upon him and get him away from a threatening crowd.

BABOON ESCAPES AT FAIR.

Causes Panic at Fargo, but Is Caught and Put in Canvas Bag.

Special to The New York Times.

FARGO, N. D., July 17.—"Chacama," an 85-pound baboon, being exhibited at the Inter-State Fair as part of the park shows, this forenoon broke loose from his cage and caused a panic among the hundreds of people on the grounds. Only after an exciting chase of over two miles by armed trainers in an automobile was he finally captured and placed in a huge canvas sack.

The baboon, in making his escape, made for the booth of the First Presbyterian Church of Moorehead, near by. Here he seized one of the small girls present, throwing her to the ground, but not injuring her. He then upturned all the tables in the place and proceeded to the roof. He tore off shingles, drove away four carpenters, and then ran across country. Automobiles followed, and he was finally captured in a greenhouse not far from the city.

CHOLERA KILLS BOY; EIGHTH DEATH HERE

All Other Suspected Cases Now in Quarantine and Show No Alarming Symptoms.

GUARD AT ALL PORTS

Federal Government Is Taking Extra Precautions to Prevent Disease Coming in from Italy.

The sixth death from cholera since the arrival in this port from Naples of the steamship Moltke, thirteen days ago, occurred yesterday at Swineburne Island. The victim was Francesco Farando, 14 years old.

With the Moltke's other steerage passengers Farando was sent to Hoffman Island as soon as the vessel arrived. He showed symptoms of intestinal trouble on Hoffman Island several days ago, and was immediately hurried to Swinburne Island in a transport, where he joined the little colony of fifteen cholera patients or suspects. His condition rapidly became worse, and on Sunday he was reported to be suffering from an undoubted case of cholera. He died early yesterday morning. His body will be cremated, as were those of the other cholera victims.

Farando's is the eighth death which has occurred in the neighborhood of this city as a result of the recent cholera epidemic which is going on in Naples, Palermo and the other Italian ports. Two of the steamship Abruzzi's passengers, who reached this port over a fortnight ago, were the first to die. Both these victims got through Quarantine before the disease was identified. One died in Auburn, N. Y., and the other, a woman, died in Brooklyn. The next to die were three steerage passengers of the Moltke. They had been detained on Hoffman Island and for almost a week, because there had been some cases of intestinal complaint among them, and because Dr. Doty, knowing that they came from the Italian cholera belt, didn't want to let them go through Quarantine. These few suspicious cases were taken to Swinburne Island and all the other Moltke passengers were taken to Hoffman Island.

For a week after the passengers had been on the two islands under observation they all seemed well. Dr. Doty, according to his statement yesterday, felt so sure that none of the passengers had cholera that he allowed Patrick Cushing, a night watchman, to leave the island and go to his home on Staten Island. Last Monday and Tuesday, however, three of the Moltke's detained passengers gave unmistakable signs of cholera, and died in a few days. The discharged watchman, after loafing about Staten Island for four days, also took sick, and died last Saturday. On Sunday one of the Moltke's women passengers died, and Farando died yesterday. All five Moltke passengers and Cushing died in the completely isolated cholera pavilion at Swinburne Island.

No new cases of cholera developed at Hoffman Island yesterday, and at Swinburne Island none of the suspects developed alarming features. Neither did any of the 261 passengers and 91 crew of the steamship Perugia, which Dr. Doty held up at Quarantine on Saturday. All the latter are under observation by the Perugia's own surgeon, by Dr. Doty's staff, and by one of the Special Commissioners which the Italian Government during the present epidemic is sending over on each boat.

Dr. Doty Tells of Precautions.

Dr. Doty said yesterday that he expected a visit either to-day or to-morrow from one of the bacteriological experts of Gen. Walter Wyman's Marine Hospital Corps at Washington.

"The visit of this expert shows the increased precautionary methods which are being taken by the United States Government all along the coast to prevent Italy's present outbreak of cholera from entering this country," Dr. Doty said. "The Government is going into the bacteriological side of this threatened cholera invasion with unusual care. Bacteriological examinations of all passengers on all ships coming from the cholera-infected districts of Italy probably will be made. The United States, indeed, plans to do all along the coast what we have been doing at this Quarantine station for some time. The expert, together with Dr. Herman Biggs, chief bacteriologist of the New York Board of Health, and myself will go over to Hoffman and Swinburne Islands either to-morrow or next day and will take cultures from the intestinal tracts of many, if not all, of the detained passengers.

"The great thing in fighting cholera is to isolate each case as soon as it is suspected, and, secondly, to take care that there is no local infection, like the contamination of the water supply, in the place where the suspected cases are isolated. That is why I detained all the passengers of the Moltke, although at the time there were no absolute cases of cholera among them. I let the crew take the vessel back to Europe, but refused to allow any of them to come ashore.

"There has been no local infection on Hoffman or Swinburne Islands. You can't make this statement too emphatic. All this talk of sewage getting into the Hoffman Island drinking water through a cistern is nonsense. I have sixty employes on Hoffman Island, who are all drinking the island's water, and not one of them has become sick. An example of the precautions we are taking on Hoffman Island among the detained passengers is that whenever they want a drink of water they have to get a cup out of a pail containing sterilizing fluid, and after using the cup they put it back into the sterilizing pail again.

"Great precautions are also being taken at Italian ports to keep the cholera from leaving them and getting to this country. The American and Italian Governments and the steamship companies themselves are combining to segregate all prospective passengers on large floats in Italian harbors for several days before the ships actually sail for this country. Preliminary symptoms of illness are carefully watched for. All private stocks of foodstuffs and fluids are taken away from the passengers and bacteriological examinations in many cases are made.

"The United States Government, I am informed, is considering the adoption of a plan which I have been practicing at this port for some time. When a passenger dies at sea an agreement is made with the ship's surgeon or the Government Commissioner on board to take a culture from his intestinal tract before the body is given its sea burial. In this way we can tell to what sort of infection the rest of the passengers have been exposed. The cultures are brought from the incoming vessels to my laboratory at Quarantine in little hand ice chests, and hundreds, if necessary, can be analyzed in a day."

No vessel from the cholera-infected Italian ports is expected to arrive in this port for the next three days, Dr. Doty said yesterday.

Inquiry Goes On To-day.

Dr. Doty refused to discuss the Quarantine investigation, the hearing of which will be resumed this morning at the County Court House. Dr. Doty also laughingly refused to discuss the attack on him which Commissioner Bulger, who was appointed by Gov. Dix to conduct the investigation, is quoted as having made in a Sunday newspaper.

Dr. Doty seemed to think yesterday that he would not testify at the investigation unless the Commissioner himself should direct him to do so. George S. Scofield, his son-in-law, who is a lawyer at 63 Wall Street, will be present at all sessions of the investigation from now on, and will take notes of what is going on and what kind of testimony is going down on the investigators' records.

The names of a number of lawyers who have been connected with recent cases of National interest were mentioned to Dr. Doty yesterday, and he was asked if he intended to get his side of facts regarding Quarantine before the public by engaging any of them.

"That matter is entirely in Mr. Scofield's hands," Dr. Doty answered.

Mr. Scofield said he was not prepared to discuss the matter at the present time.

No Danger on Staten Island.

Dr. John T. Sprague, Assistant Sanitary Superintendent of the Health Department on Staten Island, said yesterday that there was not the slightest danger of the cholera spreading on Staten Island.

"All the people who came in contact with Cushing, the Hoffman Island watchman, between the time he appeared at St. Vincent's Hospital on Staten Island and the time, several hours later, that he was taken to Swinburne Island, have been strictly quarantined," said Dr. Sprague. "This includes not only Cushing's own family and the Mills family, who lived with him at 14 Fingerboard Road, but also the three patients, the one nurse, and the one orderly who were in the same ward with him at the hospital. The latter five have been kept in the same ward in the hospital ever since, and will be kept there for ten days. None of them and none of the Cushing and Mills families have developed any suspicious symptoms, and the intestinal cultures taken from them to-day are negative."

While talking about the Quarantine investigation, Dr. Sprague said that he had known Dr. Doty for fourteen years and had fought several epidemics with him in Bellevue and elsewhere in former years.

"I haven't seen Dr. Doty since the present cholera scare, Dr. Sprague said, "but he is the best bacteriologist that I know in this country. If they can get a better man for Health Officer of the Port, I would like to know who that man is. I say this, too, although Dr. Doty is a Republican and I am a Democrat."

Mrs. Williams and her daughter Cora, who live in the same house on Fingerboard Road, within a stone's throw of Quarantine, with the quarantined Cushing and Mills families, returned home yesterday after spending a week out of town. Patrolman Elwood of the Health Department, who is stationed in front of the quarantined house, told them that. If they went into the house they couldn't leave the premises again for ten days. The two women decided to re-enter their home and take their chanes on the Cushing and Mills families coming down with cholera.

CHOLERA CASES EXAGGERATED

The Dead at Palermo Said to Number 230, Not 2,300.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, July 17.—The London reports of the number of cholera victims at Palermo, Italy, since May 2 are exaggerated, according to information received here. Although it cannot be known with official exactness the dead at Palermo may reach 230, but not 2,300 as has been stated.

The cholera situation both at Palermo and Naples is now said to be improving. In Palermo the daily average is 20 and at Naples 12. At Leghorn there have been a total of 13 deaths since the epidemic first appeared, while at Spezia the fatalities have numbered 7, at Brescia 3, and at Pisa one.

The official estimate of the cases of cholera and consequent fatalities made by the Italian Government in obedience to the rule of the health conference at Paris is as follows: From July 7 to July 11 there were in the City of Naples 76 cases and 24 deaths; in the Province of Caserta 31 cases and 12 deaths; in the Province of Salerno 53 cases and 12 deaths; in the City of Palermo 84 cases and 27 deaths; in the Province of Palermo 6 cases and 3 deaths; in the City of Rome one case, and in the Province of Rome one case.

The first communication from the Government regarding the prevailing cholera was issued on June 12. Since then 12 other communications have been issued from which it appears that the City of Palermo had altogether 366 cases and 102 deaths, and the Province of Palermo 33 cases and 14 deaths.

ITALY IS CO-OPERATING.

Aiding the United States to Keep the Cholera Out.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Every possible effort is being made by this Government to prevent cholera getting into the United States. With the most rigid quarantine in force at New York, the public health service has strengthened its inspection abroad and detailed instructions have been issued to all health officials as to the best means of facing the menace.

In furtherance of this vigorous policy the Treasury Department has issued the following order relating to cholera bacillus carriers:

"To diminish the danger from cholera bacillus carriers, steerage passengers coming from ports or places where cholera prevails and arriving on vessels upon which cholera has appeared shall be detained ten days for observation, unless after five days' detention they are found not to be bacillus carriers. The same provision shall apply also to other persons arriving on said vessels who, for special reasons, are deemed liable to be thus infected."

Assistant Surgeon General Cofers is watching the situation in New York for the public health service, keeping in close touch with Surgeon General Wyman and co-operating with Dr. Doty, at quarantine.

"We have tightened up all along the line, from Baltimore to Boston," said Surgeon General Wyman, "and every port and every vessel is being thoroughly inspected."

The latest report received by the Department from Naples was sent June 24 by Passed Assistant Surgeon King, who said the United States Quarantine regulations prescribed for cholera-infected ports were in force at Naples.

"Steerage passengers from infected or suspected points," he reported, "are lodged in the emigrant barracks, where they are held isolated and under observation for a period of five days before sailing. If coming from non-infected or nonsuspicious places, the detention is only for the time spent in passage through the city. In passing from the railroad station to the barracks and again to the wharf they are under guard. This service is under the charge of a medical officer of the Royal Navy.

"The second-class passengers are handled in practically the same way, except they are isolated in a small hotel, maintained by the steamship companies. First-class passengers are required to give evidence as to their whereabouts during the five days preceding embarkation and are held if circumstances warrant.

"The carrying of foodstuffs on board is prohibited, and all that is found after search is confiscated and destroyed. The sale of fruits and vegetables by bumboats alongside the steamers is prohibited."

Auburn Drops Quarantine.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 17.—The cholera quarantine which has been in force here since the death of Tomaso Birardi, an immigrant from the steamer Duca Degli Abruzzi on July 1, was officially declared off to-day and no secondary cases are now anticipated.

to the Interborough would be made up, and it would be carrying 974,000,000 persons a year before the deficit in the city's interest was made good.

For the year ended June 30, 1910, the Subway carried 270,000,000, and the theory has been that the extensions proposed for the Interborough system would do something more than double this capacity. However, to produce nearly four times the capacity of the year of greatest congestion thus far experienced, is something that Mr. Mitchel cannot figure out, and, assuming that this indefinite extension of the capacity of the Subway was not realized, he has been unable to view the 9 per cent. guarantee in any light except as creating permanent deficits on the city's interest payments in case it took up with the 9 per cent. proposition in any form.

In the last few conferences that have been held between the representatives of the Interborough and those of the city, the Interborough people have declared that $3,750,000 a year over and above their interest charges on the Interborough Rapid Transit Company proper and the interest on the collateral trust bonds of the Interborough Metropolitan Company, which represents the stock of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was the smallest amount the company would accept from the city in connection with the subway matter. This is approximately equivalent to the present net earnings of the Interborough, and does not include the $1,400,000 profits on the elevated system which, under the McAneny report, the company is to be allowed to retain out of the net profits of the extended elevated roads.

Mitchel Warns Against Delay.

Mr. Mitchel declared yesterday morning in a meeting of the Board of Estimate that he could see nothing in this situation but a guarantee by the city of a dividend on both the preferred and common stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. The board started to go into executive session as soon as it had passed the corporate stock budget, but Mr. Mitchel interrupted, saying:

"I do not wish to unduly press this matter, but I see no basis on which to come to any settlement with the Interborough which the city can adopt. I think this board ought to take action reasonably soon, in line with the recommendations of the Conference Committee. I hope this executive session which we are about to hold will be productive of something, but I doubt it, and I wish to give notice that I will move to-morrow to proceed to carry out the report of the Subway Committee and award the remaining lines in accordance with that report.

"The only basis of settlement which the Interborough will accept is so advantageous to the company and so disadvantageous to the city that I don't see how any one can consider it seriously. The city is to pay not only $11,250,000 a year, but by 1930 it would be paying the full dividend on the preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company and a substantial dividend on the common stock of that corporation. I think that ought to be clearly understood, and I wish to state it now in giving my reasons for the resolution which I shall introduce to-morrow."

THEY HAD MET ON A TRAIN

Hines Declared to Have Claimed All the Credit for Electing Senator in Chicago Club.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Senate select committee investigating the Lorimer scandal to-day heard testimony corroborating that already given to the effect that the lumber interests had put up large sums of money for the election of Mr. Lorimer.

William Burgess, a business man of Duluth, Minn., told the committee a remarkable story of an experience in a smoking car in March, 1911, where the subject came up in the course of conversation with fellow-passengers. There, he said, C. F. Wiehe, an associate of Edward Hines, told him that a "jackpot" of $100,000 had been raised for the campaign, and that he had contributed $10,000 to the fund himself. This story the counsel for the defense made desperate efforts to weaken by showing Mr. Burgess's memory to be at fault in details, but without apparent effect. Burgess minutely described the conversation, and even sketched a plan of the smoking room, showing where various men were sitting.

Besides this, the committee again heard a direct account of Mr. Hines's alleged boast in the lobby of the Union League Club, in Chicago, of having personally elected Mr. Lorimer. Names of other persons who are alleged to know of the boast were also obtained.

Mr. Burgess, who is Manager and Treasurer of an electrical company at Duluth, testified as he had before the Helm investigating committee of the Illinois Senate that on a train running out of Duluth, about March, 1911, he met Mr. Wiehe. He and Mr. Wiehe had not met before that day. They began conversing in the smoking car. Mr. Burgess made a remark about the Lorimer election, which finally led Mr. Wiehe to remark that he "did not know very much about it."

Shortly afterward, according to the witness, Mr. Wiehe said: "There was a jackpot for Lorimer's election. I know what I am talking about, because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

An affidavit made by Mr. Burgess on April 17 last was produced at the afternoon session. It declared that during the train conversation Mr. Wiehe had said that a detective employed by H. H. Kohlsaat had confessed to a Father Green that he was employed to get "trumped-up" charges against Mr. Lorimer. The priest was reputed to have refused absolution unless the confession was put in writing.

Mr. Hines asked why the witness did not mention "trumped-up" charges in his direct examination.

"I don't know," responded the witness. "I cannot say whether he used those words or not, but that was the substance of it."

Henry Turrish of Duluth, Minn., gave evidence that pleased the Hines partisans. Mr. Turrish was present at the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago about May, 1909, when, according to Wirt H. Cook, Mr. Hines remarked that "old Stephenson, after I elected him," was working for free lumber and "the Southern Democrats" in Washington would not stay put. Mr. Hines denied this alleged conversation when on the stand.

Mr. Turrish, who was a business associate of Mr. Cook, testified that during this conversation the demand for lumber on the Pacific Coast and in the South and the tariff fight at Washington were discussed.

"I said," declared Mr. Turrish, "'I supposd Senator Stephenson, being a lumberman, was all right,' and Mr. Hines replied, 'No, Stephenson is an uncertain quantity.'" The witness said he did not hear Stephenson referred to as "old Stephenson."

He could not recall anything being said about the Southern Democrats, nor about Senator Aldrich, and he said he was certain he would have recalled the mention if he had heard it.

Herman M. Hettler, President of the Herman H. Hettler Lumber Company of Chicago, was the next witness. At the Helm investigation he swore that Hines boasted to him at the Union League Club in Chicago of electing Mr. Lorimer. Mr. Hines on the stand denied the story.

Mr. Hettler, who admitted that there had been ill-feeling between Mr. Hines and himself, said that Mr. Hines at the Union League Club about the time Mr. Lorimer was elected asked if he knew the name of the new Senator, and that Mr. Hines then added: "I elected him; I did it myself personally."

"It was the formation of his sentence which caused it to be impressed on my memory, because I considered it quite egotistical," declared Mr. Hettler.

Mr. Hettler said that afterward a cigar stand employe at the club told of overhearing Mr. Hines's remark. Mr. Hettler said some lumber men were joking him about the remark, and he questioned that employe in order to ascertain how they found it out. Mr. Hines pressed the witness for the names of the jokers. Mr. Hettler protested, adding:

"The fellow who was responsible for my being here isn't popular with me."

Finally, Mr. Hettler reluctantly gave the names of James P. Soper, Eugene Pierson, and Charles T. Hinkley as the jokers.

WILL FORGER IN JAIL.

Dr. Sherman, Paralytic, Surrendered by Bondsmen, Awaits Sentence.

BOSTON, July 17.—Carried into the United States District Courtroom in the arms of two court officers, Dr. Smith L. Sherman, a Fitchburg man whose lower limbs have become paralyzed from a shock, was surrendered by his bondsmen to-day.

Dr. Sherman was indicted last Winter on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. It was alleged that he attempted to secure the $44,000 estate left by Dr. Sarah Jane Williams, former City Physician of Springfield, Mass., by forging a will and then applying to the executors of her estate. Dr. Sherman claimed to be the sole heir of Dr. Williams.

Sentence has been pending in the Federal court since Dr. Sherman entered a plea of guilty. To-day A. J. Littlehale and G. S. Cushing of Fitchburg, who went on Dr. Sherman's bond, decided to surrender him.

STILL DIVIDED ON WOOL.

Senate Insurgents Not Inclined to Fall in with Democratic Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Senate Republican insurgents to-day declared that they had come to no agreement with the Democrats on the wool tariff. Some of them even say that on Aug. 1, the date agreed on for a vote upon wool, every measure will be voted down and that the only chance for legislation on the subject will come two days later, when the La Follette wool bill will be presented as an amendment to the Free List measure. They believe then that the Democrats may be forced to support their measure as the best thing in sight. In the unanimous consent agreement they insisted on the Free List bill coming last, so that such a manoeuvre would be possible.

Talk among the Democrats, however, is otherwise. They have been counting on sending a bill revising the woolen schedule—which Mr. Taft has condemned as wholly unjustifiable—to the President without any riders, so that he will be forced to prejudice the sincerity of his attack on schedule K by vetoing the bill. That plan to embarass Mr. Taft would be largely neutralized, they think, by attaching it to a Free List bill. They seem to incline to concessions to Mr. La Follette, so as to send some sort of a wool measure to Mr. Taft on its own merits.

The insurgents have large plans for the Free List bill. This measure appeals to them as a heavy blow at the Eastern interests, which they feel have abandoned the farmer on reciprocity. To this they now plan to offer as amendments the woolen bill of Mr. La Follette, a cotton bill also drafted by him, a sugar measure already presented in vain by Mr. Bristow as an amendment to reciprocity, and a revision of the steel schedule, prepared by Mr. Cummins.

TAFT AGAIN URGES TREATIES.

But Senate Shows No Enthusiasm for Central American Conventions.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Again urging action on the Nicaragua and Honduras financial treaties, the President to-day sent to the Senate a message supplying the form of amendment desired in connection with the Nicaraguan agreement. The change was made to meet Nicaragua's wishes, and it will make the compact correspond more completely with the Honduras agreement.

The Senate did not manifest any disposition to act, despite President Taft's earnest efforts to obtain ratification.

Both treaties provide that the United States shall assist the two countries in paying their debts by agreeing in case of default to accept responsibility for their revenue collections and to make settlements in accordance with the contracts of indebtedness. The treaties are in connection with proposed loans by American capitalists to be used to refund the public debts of the two republics.

GOMPERS CASE POSTPONED.

Technical Attempts to Stop Contempt Proceedings Prove Futile.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Protests against further hearing before Justice Wright on the ground that he already had formed and expressed an opinion against the defendants and attempts to stop the hearing by technical objections having proved futile to-day, Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, will appear in the District Supreme Court again next Monday to insist that the latest contempt charges against them in connection with the Bucks Stove and Range case be made more specific.

Continuance for a week was agreed upon after the prosecutors had demanded the two days allowed by law to answer a motion of a bill of particulars.

The American Federation officials today showed no disposition to offer the apology, which the report of the committee of lawyers suggested might end the proceedings. In fact, the order of the court citing them to appear and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt was interpreted to-day as affording them no opportunity to apologize, even had they been so disposed.

With the motion for a bill of particulars, the last of a series of technical moves, the defendants filed affidavits denying certain specific charges contained in the committee's report.

If the various motions by the defendants are dismissed an answer to the order will be filed within the next two weeks. Should the court hold that the answer raises a question of facts, the case will go over until October, when all the members of the District Supreme Court probably will sit with Justice Wright as advisers. This was announced by Justice Wright to-day.

NAME MRS. ROY IN LOVE CASE.

Ex-Actress, Known as Glacia Calla, Involved in Wife's Cross Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—Marjorie Burnes Love of New York City, in her cross-complaint in the divorce suit begun by her husband, Sydney Love, former broker of New York and Chicago, names Mrs. Paul Roy of Washington, New York, and Boston, better known in the East as Glacia Calla. Mrs. Roy's name has hitherto been suppressed in the case, but is now a matter of record at Baker, having been filed by one of Mrs. Love's attorneys.

The case will be resumed at Baker on Thursday, when Mr. Love is scheduled to begin putting in his rebuttal evidence. Mrs. Love's attorneys intimate that tomorrow other women will be named, including one well-known in New York. Mrs. Roy is referred to in the papers as Glacia Calla and Barefoot Lil. As Glacia Calla she figured prominently in the news for some time, when her life in Washington, D. C., and in Boston was aired in connection with a sensational scandal.

Mrs. Love is worth several millions of dollars, and her fortune is held in trust until her two-year-old daughter, whose custody Mr. Love now asks, becomes of age, the mother controlling only the income of the fortune.

to it. He is a student of hydraulic engineering and forestry and is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is an enrolled Democrat, but has never been active in politics. He is a native of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Fleming was confirmed immediately. This is in accordance with custom, as Mr. Fleming already holds an office for which the Senate had confirmed him. The names of the other two Commissioners went to the Senate Finance Committee.

Minority Leader Brackett inquired of Majority Leader Wagner if Mr. Moore was a Republican.

"I don't know," replied Senator Wagner.

"I think, in all propriety," continued Senator Brackett, "that an objection could be made against these nominations and the minority could well vote against them. It looks as though it is a packed board, full of Tammany representatives, and not a single one to represent any other interests. They lend color to the accusations of a deal by which the State Conservation bill was passed."

Mr. Van Kennen is to serve until Dec. 1, 1916; Mr. Fleming until Dec. 1, 1914, and Mr. Moore until Dec. 1, 1912.

The Conservation Commission is to take over the powers and duties of the Forest, Fish and Game Commission, the State Water Supply Commission, the Forest Purchasing Board, and the Black River Power Commission, the law creating it having been recommended by Gov. Dix.

The appointment of Thomas J. Ahearn as State Fire Marshal met with general satisfaction among the New York City members of the Senate, Democrats and Republicans alike. Senator Timothy D. Sullivan moved for his immediate confirmation, reciting his long and heroic service in the New York Fire Department, and Senator Grady strongly supported this plea.

"The Governor never made a more meritorious appointment," said he. "There is no man in the State of New York better fitted or more entitled to the office for which he has been appointed than Chief Ahearn." The nomination was then confirmed.

Mr. Ahearn is a brother of John F. Ahearn, the Tammany leader who was removed from office by Gov. Hughes while President of the Borough of Manhattan. Mr. Ahearn was formerly a Deputy Chief in the Fire Department, but was retired on full pay early this month. He was severely burned about ten years ago while making a heroic rescue of a child from a burning building. Owing to defective hearing he was not permitted to take the civil service examination for Fire Chief to succeed Chief Croker. James Creelman, President of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, and Fire Commissioner Johnson, however, recommended to Mayor Gaynor that Mr. Ahearn be retired on a life pension of $4,200 a year.

William H. Catlin, at his home in Port Chester last night, said of his appointment as State Superintendent of Highways:

"My appointment came as a big surprise to me. Politics has absolutely nothing to do with the appointment. The office came to me unsolicited. I have been interested in road building all my life, and have built many miles of roads on my farm. With the advent of the automobile, I appreciate that the great problem is the maintenance of roads after they are built, and this phase of the work will have my immediate attention."

READING ROAD SUED FOR COAL DEALINGS

Government Says Coal Companies Are Subsidiaries and Asks Bona Fide Dissociation.

PARALLELS SUIT ON LEHIGH

Second Step in Washington's Fight to Separate Coal Carrying Roads from Control of Coal Business.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A Government suit to compell a bona fide dissociation of the Reading Railway Company from the Reading Coal Company was filed to-day in the Federal court at Philadelphia. The action parallels a recent one against the Lehigh Valley, and is the Government's second move in its new fight to separate the coal-carrying railroads from their virtual control of the coal business.

The Government's suit takes the form of an amended complaint to the original commodities clause action of 1908, which is in conformance with the commodities clause decision of the Supreme Court.

It is charged by the Government that the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, the Fulton Coal Company, the Locust Gap Improvement Company, the Tremont Coal Company, the Mammoth Vein Coal and Improvement Company, the Preston Coal and Improvement Company, and the Delaware Coal Company are merely dummies of the Reading Railway Company and the Reading Company, which is the holding corporation.

As in the Lehigh Valley suit, the Government charges that the Reading Coal Company and its subsidiaries are buying anthracite from independent operators along the line of the Reading Railway, with the object of removing competition, transporting it to market at a loss, and there regulating the selling price. The coal company loses on such transactions, the Government alleges, that the railway company may profit from the freight charges.

As a further evidence that the coal company is not a bona fide corporation, but a mere adjunct of the railroad and a device for evading the commodities clause of the Inter-State commerce law, the Government charges that the officers of the railway company and the coal company are the same, and that the railway company has advanced more than $70,000,000 to the coal company, which is carried as an open charge.

The Government cites that the railway company has paid as high as 4 per cent. for money for the coal company's operations, while the coal company has seldom paid any interest at all and never more than 2 per cent. to the railway company. The Government's bill traces the formation of the present Reading holding company. It recites how the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company in 1896 acquired the National Company, a Pennsylvania corporation of $50,000 capital, but with no property or business, increased its capital from $50,000 to $140,000,000, changed its name to the Reading Company, and made it a holding corporation.

Aside from the fact that a holding corporation is involved, the suits parallel the one against the Lehigh Valley. When the Lehigh Valley suit was begun, it was considered to be an action of little importance, and more or less a friendly suit. It is now known that the Department of Justice intends to fight for a strict compliance with the terms of the commodities clause by all the coal-carrying railroads.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., July 17.—Attorneys for the three Reading companies appeared surprised when informed to-night that the Government had instituted action to dissociate the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company in the mining and transportation of anthracite coal. George F. Baer, President of the three Reading Companies, is in Europe, and no one else in authority would talk of the suit.

While the action taken is an amendment to the suit brought some years ago, it is practically a new move. When the original suit was brought against nearly all the anthracite roads under the commodities clause of the Hepburn Railroad act of 1906 prohibiting railroad companies from transporting commodities in which they are interested, the Reading Railway and the Reading Coal & Iron Company were named among the defendants. The Reading in its answer to the Government declared that the Reading Railway Company did not own one share of Reading Coal and Iron Company stock; that the stock was owned by the Reading Company, a holding corporation and not a transportation company. When the final argument came up the Reading Companies were not called upon to defend themselves, and the decisions of the Circuit Court and the United States Supreme Court did not include the Reading Companies.

TAFT PROMOTES WEMPLE.

Duveen Prosecutor to Represent Attorney General on Customs.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Among the nominations sent to the Senate by President Taft to-day was that of William L. Wemple of New York to be Assistant Attorney General. He succeeds Frank D. Lord of New York, who died recently. His salary will be $10,000 a year.

Mr. Wemple will be in charge of the presentation of cases before the new Court of Customs Appeals. He has for eight years been connected with the Federal District Attorney's office in this district, and recently has been assigned to customs litigation. He had charge of the prosecution of Duveen Brothers, which resulted in a compromise settlement of $1,200,000 and the imposition of heavy fines.

FINDS PRICE OF ICE PUT UP BY GREED

Waldo Says the Facts Unearthed by the Police Lead to this Conclusion.

OLER MAKES A HOT REPLY

Takes Issue with All the Commissioner's Statements, but Admits He Has 600,000 Tons Up the Hudson.

Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo sent yesterday to Mayor Gaynor the report of the police investigation of the ice situation during and since the recent hot spell. The Commissioner stated that from the facts they gathered "it would appear that the present situation is largely due to the greed of the ice companies in refusing to take measures necessary to supply the city's wants." He referred to an interview that one policeman had with President Oler of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, against which the present investigation is principally aimed.

The policeman, Commissioner Waldo said, asked Mr. Oler what his company intended doing to relieve the situation in the event New York was afflicted with another hot spell such as the last one.

"Nothing we can do can improve the situation. God help the public," was the reply of President Oler, according to the Waldo report.

The Police Commissioner stated that his men interviewed 430 independent ice dealers, and that of this number 229 complained of the situation generally, while 38 made affidavits which will be turned over to District Attorney Whitman and the Attorney General.

Mr. Oler was in conference with District Attorney Whitman when the Waldo report was made public. A TIMES reporter met him as he was leaving the District Attorney's office and told him what Commissioner Waldo's report said. Mr. Oler was indignant when told that Mr. Waldo said he believed the facts showed that "the greed" of the ice companies was responsible for the situation and he characterized that deduction as "damnable!"

"Waldo may be a good Police Commissioner," he said, "but he does not know much about the ice business."

Here is the report that Mr. Oler so bitterly criticised for its alleged inaccuracies:

Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor, City of New York, City Hall.

Sir: This department has interviewed 430 independent ice dealers, of whom 29 complained against general conditions and 38 have agreed to submit sworn affidavits, which will be forwarded to the District Attorney and to the Attorney General of the State as soon as prepared.

President Oler of the Knickerbocker Ice Company was interviewed personally. In response to a question as to what would be done in case of further hot weather, he said: "Nothing we can do can improve the situation," and remarked: "God help the public." Oler alleges that they have not taken advantage of the present situation to raise their price.

Investigators from this department state, however, that about July 1 the price of ice was raised by the Knickerbocker Ice Company from $2.25 to $3 a ton, and that at Ninety-first Street and the East River the price of ice was raised to $5 a ton.

From investigation by this department the amount of ice stored in the icehouses along the upper Hudson appears to be plentiful. Reports from investigators of this department from the ice district state that the Knickerbocker Ice Company has more than 300,000 tons in storage on the Hudson River. The reason that this ice is not brought to New York is alleged to be that the company is unable to obtain the necessary men to handle it. This reason is not believed to have any great weight, as there are to-day a large number of men in this city out of work, who might be employed by the ice company on this work. The need of very skilled labor is not believed to be necessary to load and unload ice.

John Cairns, proprietor of the East River Ice Company, one of the independent dealers, alleges that the Knickerbocker Ice Company had sixty barges less in operation this year than last, although the supply of ice in storage is greater now than then.

From these facts it would appear that the present situation is largely due to the greed of the ice companies in refusing to take measures necessary to supply the city's wants. Every effort should be made to insure against a recurrence of the suffering entailed upon the people in the congested districts, where the price of ice became prohibitive.

I attach the thirty-eight affidavits from retail dealers stating that they were refused delivery of ice by the Knickerbocker Ice Company, or that an increased price was demanded, although quantities of ice were available on the barges tied up alongside the ice pier. One retail dealer makes affidavit that when he asked for ice a hose was turned upon him by the employes of the Knickerbocker Ice Company and he was driven from the dock. Very respectfully,

R. WALDO, Police Commissioner.

Mr. Oler said that he had been incorrectly reported as saying "God help the public." He did not say what his words were on that occasion, but was positive he had not made the remark quoted. His denial that the Knickerbocker Company had raised the price of ice from $2.25 to $3 a ton on July 1 was followed by a reporter's asking if it was true, as stated in a newspaper yesterday morning, that a receipt was in existence which showed that on July 7 an independent dealer had been charged $7 a ton at the East Ninety-first Street dock.

"I called in the Superintendent of that district this morning and asked him about that case," he replied, "and the Superintendent made an explanation that was entirely satisfactory to me. When the proper time comes that explanation will be offered in evidence. Until then I will not discuss it."

"How about the statement that the Knickerbocker Ice Company has more than 300,000 tons of ice stored in its houses up the Hudson?"

"That shows how inaccurate this report is," Mr. Oler replied, "for if that were true, the outlook for New York would be bad indeed. Instead of 300,000 tons, we have at least twice that much in storage."

"What have you to say about the statement that your company is operating sixty barges less this year than last?"

"That is false in every particular," Mr. Oler answered hotly, "for instead of sixty less we are operating ten more. Last year we had 125 barges in our fleet. This year we have 135 barges and 16 tugs."

The next question referred to the "greed" of the ice companies, which Mr. Waldo said appeared to be the cause of the present ice shortage.

"That is damnable!" Mr. Oler replied angrily, and added: "The whole situation appears to be this: First we are damned because it is alleged we have a monopoly, and now that we control only 38 per cent. of the trade in the city we are damned because we do not supply everybody."

Asked about the allegations of independent dealers that they are discriminated against and unable to get any ice, for any price, from the Knickerbocker, Mr. Oler said the records of his company proved this to be untrue.

"We can prove," he said, "that in July this year we have sold 7,000 more tons to the independents than we did in the corresponding period last year. That does not look like discrimination, does it?"

Mr. Oler took exception to Mr. Waldo's statement that he did not believe "very skilled labor" was necessary to load and unload ice.

"That is not so. It takes about two weeks to teach a man to handle ice skillfully."

Concerning the hearing that is to begin before Magistrate Appleton this afternoon, Mr. Oler said his company would be represented by counsel, but that he did not expect to attend.

"I will be busy selling ice," he said.

After Mr. Oler had gone District Attorney Whitman said he had written a letter to Mayor Gaynor relative to the ice investigation, but refused to make known its contents. He said:

"The first complaint brought through the investigation will go to Magistrate Appleton to-morrow afternoon in the library of the District Attorney's office."

Mr. Whitman said that Mr. Oler volunteered to produce any officer of the company without subpoenas, and that he would send the books of the company for examination if they were desired.

Among the independent ice dealers who made affidavits against the ice companies was Domenico Lungo of 207 Sullivan Street. On July 4, he said, he tried to get fifteen tons from the dock at the foot of West Tenth Street, but was told he could not get it at $10 a ton. On the same day ice was refused at the Franklin Street dock. He says he saw plenty of ice on the dock.

Joseph Figioli of 227 Mott Street said ice was refused to him on July 10, although there was at the time a loaded barge at the foot of Grand Street. On July 12, he says, he was charged $5 a ton, and paid $9 for 3,500 pounds. Previously he had to pay only $2, he said. Michael Florio of 501 East Eighty-seventh Street said he was told he could not lay in a supply at $10 a ton.

Peter Delio is the man on whom Commissioner Waldo says a hose was turned. Delio, who is in business at 400 East Eighty-seventh Street, says he was charged $5 a ton at the East Ninety-first Street dock. Later, ice was refused altogether, and when he tarried they played the hose on him, he says.

In a supplementary report yesterday to Commissioner Waldo, Mr. Oler stated the amount of ice the Knickerbocker Ice Company had at the beginning of each business day from July 1 to 14, inclusive, with a statement of the amount on hand on the corresponding days last year. The statement is as follows:

--Tons.--

In the same report he stated that on July 1 last year the company was operating 583 wagons, 125 barges, 10 tugs. On July 1 this year it was operating 563 wagons, 134 barges, and 16 tugs.

RUNAWAY HORSE RAMS CAR.

His Head Demolished Rear Door, and a Passenger Was Injured.

A horse attached to an empty express wagon belonging to the Overland Express Company of 796 Sixth Avenue ran driverless on Forty-second Street from Sixth Avenue in the direction of the Hudson River early yesterday afternoon and struck, headforemost, a south-bound pay-as-you-enter Seventh Avenue surface car at Times Square. The force of the blow was such that the rear platform door of the car was demolished completely, the body of the horse remaining wedged in the débris. It was said that the horse was killed at the moment of impact.

Charles Workman, 44 years of age, of 302 West Thirty-fifth Street, had just dropped a nickel into the slot on the platform of the car when the horse and shafts of the wagon came crashing through the door. He was knocked down, bruised generally, and cut severely about the head with flying glass. The conductor, Edward Waldo, of 200 East Fifty-sixth Street, protected by the iron rail at the cash box, was uninjured.

Inside the car there were about fifteen passengers, one of them a woman. These tried to rush out of the car, but found the rear exit blocked and the front exit bolted. Glass flew in every direction, and one of the shafts of the wagon protruded through the side of the car, smashing a rear seat on which Al Lazarus of 168 East 103d Street, and a boy named William Gulic of 290 East Ninety-third Street were seated. When it was learned that only one man had been hurt the conductor and motorman succeeded in quieting the passengers. They left the car after they had given their names. Dr. Everingham of the New York Hospital was summoned and attended to the injured man, who had remained in the car.

About a half hour after the accident William Haper, colored, of 505 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, arrived at the scene and told Patrolman McNeill that he was the driver of the express wagon. He said that he had delivered a package at 136 West Forty-second Street, and that he had found his horse and wagon missing when he returned to the sidewalk. He was held at the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station awaiting a further investigation of the runaway.

Police reserves were called out to keep order at the scene of the accident and to help regulate traffic at the street crossing. The body of the horse was not removed from the street until three hours afterward.

PREACHER-POSTMASTER FELL

Veteran of Civil War Will Resume His Ministry in Penitentiary.

William B. Bidwell, a veteran of the civil war and an itinerant preacher as well as a wandering painter and paper-hanger, halted twelve years ago at Hardenburg, Ulster County, N. Y. He liked the place because he was an ardent trout fisherman and the Beaver Kill was quite handy. Soon "Old Bill" enjoyed the confidence of all the residents of Hardenburg and because of his army record they procured his appointment as village Postmaster. He was a good story teller and not by any means a teetotaller.

When on July 1 Postmaster Bidwell's bond expired and no steps were taken to renew it, Inspector James was sent to Hardenburg to go over the postal accounts. He found a shortage of $373, and learning that the old man was without funds to make up the deficiency communicated with his niece, who resides at Walton, N. Y. She declined to assist her uncle out of his financial difficulties. Then Bidwell, who is sixty-eight years old, was arrested and indicted for embezzling postal money.

When arraigned yesterday before Judge Archbald, in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, the disgraced Postmaster, acting as his own counsel, entered a plea of guilty. He was then sentenced to three months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

While serving this short term Bridwell expects to return to preaching and to warn his fellow-prisoners of the evils of intemperance.

ST. REGIS PATRON RESTRAINED

Forbidden by Court Order from Returning to Germany Without Permission.

Judge Hand, sitting in the United States Circuit Court on Saturday, signed an order preventing Hugo E. Bremer, a wealthy resident of Neheim-on-the-Ruhr, now stopping at the Hotel St. Regis, from leaving this country without the court's permission.

Leonard R. Carley, general manager of the Universal Button Fastening Company, asked for the order, stating that Bremen was indebted to his company to the amount of $4,398, and that he was preparing to return to Germany.

NO TRIAL FOR HYDE UNTIL NEXT FALL

OUTRAGE, SAYS OSBORNE

Ex-City Chamberlain's Counsel Protests at Delay—Whitman's Move Took Him by Surprise.

Any hope that former City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde might have held for an early trial was lost yesterday when District Attorney Whitman showed Mr. Hyde's counsel, James W. Osborne, an order from Justice Ingraham of the Appellate Division staying all proceedings in the case pending Mr. Whitman's appeal from Justice McCall's decision on July 13 in which the case of the former City Chamberlain was transferred from the Supreme Court to General Sessions.

The case cannot be tried now until next Fall as Mr. Whitman's appeal cannot be heard by the Appellate Division until then. The order came as a great surprise to both Mr. Hyde and his attorney, who admitted that they fully expected to see the case put on the call calendar for General Sessions yesterday.

Mr. Osborne and his client entered the courtroom immediately after the District Attorney. Mr. Osborne had no sooner taken his seat than the District Attorney walked over to him and handed him a paper. First Mr. Osborne looked surprised, and then he stood up and putting on his glasses again looked at the paper and said:

"Your Honor, I've just been served with an order to show cause, or something like that. With your Honor's permission I will look it over."

Mr. Osborne proceeded to look it over, and finally said, with a great deal of annoyance:

"Your Honor, I should like to know under what section of the Code this order was obtained."

"We are not here to discuss the wisdom of Justice Ingraham's order, and I refuse to discuss the legality of the question," replied Mr. Whitman.

Mr. Osborne then started to protest, but Judge Crain silenced him by saying, "There will be no argument. The matter is closed."

District Attorney Whitman then asked Judge Crain to put Mr. Osborne's name down as attorney of record in the case. Judge Crain did so, and without further adoo the District Attorney left the courtroom, followed by Mr. Osborne and his client.

"I never heard of such a thing; it is an outrage," Mr. Osborne said in the corridor. "Justice Ingraham is down in Atlantic City, and I never heard of a District Attorney adopting this means in order not to show his hand. This only goes to show how anxious the District Attorney is to convict this man."

District Attorney Whitman in the affidavit on which the stay was granted says in part:

On the 29th day of June, 1911, Mr. James W. Osborne, counsel for the defendant Hyde, appeared before Mr. Justice McCall in the Supreme Court and made a motion in behalf of his client to transfer the indictment from the Supreme Court to General Sessions. I appeared in person and opposed the motion on the ground that the court had no power or authority to sustain such a motion on the application of the defendant. I called the attention of Mr. Justice McCall to the section of the Code of Criminal Procedure relative to the application of defendants in criminal cases for the removal of indictments from one court to another.

I submit and allege that Mr. Justice McCall had no power or authority to grant such an application or motion or to make an order transferring and removing the aforesaid indictment from the Supreme Court to the Court of General Sessions.

Justice McCall was not sitting in court or holding court at the time he rendered the decision on July 13, nor at the time the entry was made in the minutes. The June term of the court had adjourned and Justice McCall was not then performing the functions of the court, but was merely a Justice out of court.

I submit and allege that the public interests require that the indictment against the said Hyde, which is an indictment for bribery committed by him in the capacity of a public officer, be tried in the Supreme Court in which it was found and presented and not in the inferior Court of General Sessions, and I further submit that the said decision of Justice McCall is erroneous under the law and the statutes, and that the said indictment has been unlawfully removed to the Court of General Sessions.

The affidavit goes on to tell about the number of prisoners in the Tombs awaiting trial and mentions the fact that, as a rule, only those cases where bail cannot be furnished are tried in General Sessions in the Summer. District Attorney Whitman ends his affidavit by saying:

I believe it is the intention of the attorney for the defendant to apply to the Court of General Sessions to force the trial to proceed at an early date and that such will impair and injure the rights of the people of the State of New York. I regard the said order as an order in a special proceeding instituted by the said Hyde for the reason that there is no authority in law for the making of the aforesaid application in the criminal action in which he is the defendant.

TWO SOUND PIRATES CAUGHT.

Belong to Gang Which Has Been Plundering Yachts and Motorboats.

Vigilant efforts to jail the gang of Sound pirates which has been looting yachts and motor boats since the opening of the season have been set afoot by the members of the Seawanhaka Boat Club, whose headquarters are on Flushing Bay, off Corona, L. I. The first arrests were made yesterday, and John Gerber, 25 years old, and Henry Bennett, 21 years old, both giving the address of 194 Park Street, Corona, were each held in $500 bail by Magistrate Fitch, in the Long Island City Court, on a charge of grand larceny. They are accused of having plundered the twenty-six-foot motorboat Georgie, owned by Anthony Novey of 101 Lincoln Street, Corona, Secretary of the club.

With a party of friends, Mr. Novey started on Saturday for a sail on the Sound. It was found, however, that thieves had taken from his craft about everything that was movable and of any value. Suspicion pointed to a nameless motorboat which was anchored some distance away. Detectives Killane and Fordham joined the club members in a hunt for the pirates. Equipped with powerful marine glasses, the detectives, with Mr. Novey, Fred W. Turnbull, Marc Violet, and Fred W. Teeves, took up points of vantage on boats and the shore, and all Saturday night and part of Sunday they kept watch on the suspected boat. They were finally rewarded by seeing two men, who afterward proved to be Gerber and Bennett, place something heavy, which was recognized as part of an engine, in a rowboat, and then pull off to the nameless boat and clamber aboard. About the same time several rowboats, with the watchers aboard, shot out from different points, and the pair were captured redhanded.

It is said that more than $100 worth of equipment was found aboard the boat, every article of which was later identified as stolen property.

Gerber and Bennett were unable to get bail, and were sent to the Queens County Jail to await examination to-morrow.

Won't Release Seized Furs.

Judge Hand, in an opinion rendered yesterday in the United States District Court, refused to direct United States District Attorney Wise to surrender to the firm of Charles Weinschenker & Co. of 45 West Twenty-seventh Street, furs valued at $150,000, which were seized on June 30 last on the ground that they were imported at less than their true value. After the seizure the Government brought suit in the Federal District Court for the forfeiture of the furs. Judge Hand held that the seizure must await the result of the suit.

AGAINST RUSSIAN TREATY

Assembly Requests It Be Abrogated, as Americans Are Unfairly Treated.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 17.—The Senate to-night adopted the resolution of Assemblyman A. J. Levy, which directs the officials of the Legislature to urge Congress to terminate the treaty of 1832 between the United States and Russia, on the ground that the treaty has been violated by Russia in discriminating against American citizens who pass through or visit that country.

Senators McClelland and Grady favored the resolution, declaring that as a result of Russia's conduct American citizens are subjected to degradation on account of religious belief. Senator Brackett said it was not the business of the Legislature to consider such questions. He said the members of the Legislature are ignorant of the questions involved in the abrogation of a treaty.

Senator Pollock said the treaty in question referred only to passports.

"The interest of the State in this matter," the Senator added, "is the interest any State must have in the affairs of the Nation in the maintenence of its dignity. It is incumbent upon this Government to see that the rights of all our citizens are protected abroad and to abrogate a treaty with another nation when it fails to carry out its bargain."

The resolution was adopted by a viva voce vote, a few of the Republicans voting in opposition.

DIX DEMANDS PRIMARY BILL.

Will Send Message Requesting Official Ballot and Other Features.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—About the only important legislation, aside from the appropriation bills, which awaited action by the lawmakers when they assembled to-night for the expected last week of the regular session was the proposed Direct Nominations bill. This measure is expected to cause considerable trouble during the closing week.

Under orders of Tammany Leader Murphy, it has been trimmed to provide for the direct nominations of only Assemblymen, Aldermen, and members of the Common Council, and the leaders who do Mr. Murphy's will at the Capitol have done away with the official ballot, which was provided for in the Governor's Direct Nominations bill originally.

Gov. Dix at last has determined to assert himself, and a special message will be sent to the Legislature to-morrow, urging that body to redeem the pledges made in the Rochester convention and pass a genuine direct primaries bill.

It is known that Gov. Dix will insist that the proposed direct primaries law be made to apply to all offices except those voted for by the people of the entire State; that delegates to State conventions and members of the State committees be elected directly at the primaries, and that the official primary ballot be restored.

The Democratic leaders in the Legislature more than hinted that any direct nominations bill as radical as the Governor desired would be defeated. Neither the machine Democrats nor the machine Republicans have the slightest intention of giving their support to any bona fide direct nominations bill.

On the other hand, there is a large group of up-State Democrats and Republicans who were elected on the direct primaries issue who feel they cannot afford to enter upon any compromise with Tammany on the question of Direct primaries. The result may be a deadlock and no direct primaries legislation at all.

Gov. Dix said to-day that he fully expected to see a satisfactory direct primaries bill pass before the Legislature adjourns next Friday, leaving only the Congressional apportionment and the New York City Charter for the after recess session of the Legislature, which is planned for September.

FAILS TO OVERRULE VETO.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—Senator McManus to-night asked the Senate to pass over the veto of Mayor Gaynor the McManus-Boylan bill, which sought to compel the New York Central Railroad Company to remove its tracks from Eleventh Avenue. The Mayor vetoed the bill on the ground that it was unconstitutional in that it did not outline a route for other tracks to take the place of those which are a menace to life.

Senator Grady opposed the McManus motion, declaring that the McClelland-Walker bill authorizing the city and the railroad company to reach an agreement for the removal of the tracks was adequate. Senator McManus said his bill would supplement the McClelland-Walker bill and supply a penalty which the other bill left out. The McManus motion was defeated by a vote of 15 to 16. A vote of 26 is necessary to pass a bill over the veto of the Mayor. The McClelland bill is now before Mayor Gaynor, and he has expressed approval of the principle of that measure, declaring that it would be accepted by the railroad company.

REAPPORTIONMENT HEARING.

Chief Judge Cullen Fixes July 26 as Date to Hear Pleas on Act's Legality.

ALBANY, July 17.—Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals to-day called an extraordinary term of the Court to meet on July 26 at 10 A. M. for the purpose of hearing arguments in the proceedings brought to declare unconstitutional the reapportionment of Senate and Assembly districts of the State made in 1907.

Three actions were brought to set aside the act on the ground that the population was not equitably distributed in the various districts; that the districts are not made up of contiguous territory, and that a reapportionment should be made at a regular session of the Legislature, whereas the one contested was made at an extraordinary session called by Gov. Hughes. The lower courts have refused to declare the reapportionment illegal.

Judges Bartlett and Gray are abroad on their vacations, but seven judges, constituting a full court, are expected to hear the arguments.

ASSEMBLYMAN LEVY FREED.

Not Guilty of Fast Driving, Tannersville Justice Decides.

ALBANY, July 17. — Assemblyman Aaron J. Levy of New York and his secretary, who were arrested near Tannersville, Greene County, yesterday, charged with fast driving, were arraigned in court before a Tannersville Justice to-day and discharged.

The Assemblyman, his secretary, and two other men hired a team at Hunter to drive to Tannersville, five miles away. When a Tannersville officer halted the rig two of the men got away, leaving Mr. Levy and his secretary to face the situation. They demanded an immediate hearing, and were remanded in custody of counsel until this morning, when they were discharged.

LAFAYETTE TRUST PAYING UP.

Supt. Van Tuyl Sends Depositors Another 10 Per Cent. Dividend.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17.—Supt. Van Tuyl of the State Banking Department to-day mailed to the 2,200 depositors of the Lafayette Trust Company of Brooklyn checks for a fourth dividend of 10 per cent. on their deposits. This makes 50 per cent. in dividends that has been paid to the depositors and creditors of the institution.

The trust company closed its doors on Nov. 30, 1908, and the last previous dividend of 10 per cent. was paid on May 30, 1910. The institution had deposits of about $2,500,000 when it ceased doing business.

VICTIM OF ALBANY SHOOTING.

George Schermerhorn Had Come Back for a Visit to His Former Home.

ALBANY, July 17.—The man who was shot and instantly killed yesterday when an innocent bystander during a fight in the Italian quarter, was identified this afternoon as George Schermerhorn of Scotia, Schenectady County, a former resident of Albany.

Schermerhorn came to Albany yesterday and registered at a South Pearl Street hotel. He was shot as Antonio and Lingal Oleva, brothers, were fleeing from what they allege was a plot to kill them. Two others were shot and are in a critical condition.

The brothers were arraigned before a Police Justice to-day charged with murder, and their examination was fixed for Thursday.

OUR TROOPS TO STAY ON MEXICAN BORDER

Cavalry Will Remain at Nogales, Owing to Unfavorable Reports Sent to Washington.

CANANEA IS NOW QUIETER

But Capt. Marinda and Number of Soldiers Go to Hills — Germany Investigating Puebla Murders.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—As the result of an unfavorable report to the State Department on conditions in Mexico close to the Arizona border, the War Department to-day ordered the four troops of cavalry at Nogales to remain there until the situation clears. The detachment had been ordered to Fort Huachuca and was to leave Nogales to-day, but the department quickly changed its plans upon the receipt of disquieting news.

The disarmament of the Maderists is being watched with considerable interest in official quarters here. The most discouraging report comes from Cananea, where, the State Department is advised, the situation is bad.

CANANEA, Mexico, July 17.—After several days of trouble with soldiers who refused to lay down their arms until large sums of money were paid to them, Cananea is again quiet to-day and the civil Government is in control.

It was agreed between the citizens and officers that the soldiers must remain in their barracks or leave their arms there when they went out in the streets. The police proceeded to disarm the soldiers who appeared in the streets with weapons. That caused more trouble, about fifty soldiers leaving the barracks and demanding the return of their arms. They were persuaded to return to their quarters without them.

Capt. Marinda, accused of having liberated dangerous criminals from the city jail, started early to-day for the hills, accompanied by a number of soldiers who were prominent in the recent disturbances.

BERLIN, July 17.—The murder of four Germans in the rioting at Puebla, Mexico, has attracted general attention to the anomalous conditions in that country.

The German Government is awaiting the results of the investigation by the German Minister at Mexico City before taking definite steps in the matter.

There is little apprehension of serious international complications. Thus far the attitude of the Mexican Government has been satisfactory.

CLEMENCY FOR POMEROY.

Gov. Foss Lightens Sentence of Prisoner Who Tortured Children.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 17.—Gov. Foss has extended clemency to Jesse Pomeroy, who for forty years has been in solitary confinement in State prison for torturing to death children of his own age. Knowing that the public would not approve a pardon, the Governor will only lighten the burden of the sentence.

Pomeroy will be allowed first to go to chapel. He will be watched. If he does not abuse the privilege, he will be given others. If not, he will be returned to his cell.

"Public sentiment is not yet ready to let Pomeroy have the freedom of the other prisoners," the Governor declared. "This opinion is shared by the jail officials. I have talked with some of these. They do not believe Pomeroy would take proper advantage of his freedom. So first we will give him only that of going to the chapel exercises.

"This will break the long monontony of the years he has spent in solitary confinement and allow him to mingle gradually with the other prisoners.

"All this time he will be watched. If he proves worthy of the privileges accorded him, the change will eventually become permanent."

HIGHWAYMEN ROB AUTOIST.

Felix Ferio of Buffalo Held Up on Fishkill Mountain.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., July 17.—In a lonely spot on the Old Post Road, just south of Fishkill, Felix Z. J. Ferio, a Buffalo business man, motoring from New York to Buffalo, was held up at about 1 o'clock this morning by masked highwaymen and robbed of all his cash, $38, and two diamonds.

Mr. Ferio left New York yesterday. Just as he was driving down the Fishkill Mountain he spied two men in the road ahead of him. He was alone, and, seeing that they seemed to shift from one side of the road to the other, he shut down his power and tooted his horn. The next thing he knew both men were on the running board of his car, one pointing a revolver in his face and demanding "Hands up!" There was only one thing for him to do, and he did it.

While one held the gun so close to his face that he could feel the cold barrel the other went through his pockets and removed his rings from his fingers. Then they ordered him to put on full power and go on. The police here have been searching the country, but can find no trace of the highwaymen. Last year several similar hold-ups were reported near here.

WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER.

Coroner's Verdict Says Mrs. Hopkins Killed Jesse Hopkins Deliberately.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—Mrs. Pearl Hopkins must stand trial on the charge of murder in the first degree for shooting and killing Jesse Hopkins, who she says was her husband. The Coroner's finding asserts that Hopkins met his death at the woman's hands, and her trial will be immediately begun. She was arrested with the revolver in her hand after she had fired four shots at Hopkins.

Coroner Mix's report disposes of the woman's assertion that she was Hopkins's wife. It states that Hopkins left her July 9, taking away his belongings. She followed him to his place of business the next day and demanded money and a ring she said belonged to her mother.

Hopkins refused to give them to her, and she went to a gun store, bought a revolver, loaded it, and returned to Hopkins's place of business. She again demanded the money and ring, and when he again refused to give them to her she fired three shots at Hopkins. One struck him in the forearm.

Hopkins ran through the building into a stable, chased by the woman, who cornered him in a stall, and, standing over him, emptied another barrel into his body. The bullet entered his heart and lung, and he died on the way to the hospital.

The woman expresses delight at killing him. She says that he had abused her. Hopkins was shipping clerk in a brewery.

SHOCK THROUGH AEROPLANE.

Military Aviators Were Holding Machine on Ground in Thunderstorm.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONDSPORT, July 17.—Capt. Paul W. Beck of the army and Lieut. J. W. McClaskey of the Marine Corps, who are training at the Curtiss Aviation School here, were severely shocked by lightning to-day while assisting in preventing the blowing away of an aeroplane during a strong wind and thunderstorm.

The officers received the shock from handling the wire stays of the machine. Neither was seriously hurt.

INSPECTOR DALY ON TRIAL.

In Defense He Shows Men on Patrol Schmittberger Didn't See.

Inspector John Daly, in charge of the seven precincts west of Broadway, between the Battery and Fourteenth Street, was tried before Deputy Commissioner Dillon at Police Headquarters yesterday on charges of neglect of duty, growing out of Chief Inspector Schmittberger's tour of inspection through the district in June. Decision was reserved.

Inspector Schmittberger and Policeman Creamer of his staff told of finding men off post, and then Inspector Daly cross-examined them and brought out that there were twelve policemen on post on the night of June 20 whom the investigators did not see at all. On this night only two men were found off post, and Daly obtained the admission from Schmittberger that this was a good average patrol.

Daly read a statement in which he said that he had inspected the district with Commissioner Waldo, who was dissatisfied with the manner of patrol. He said he then called his Captains, Lieutenants, and Sergeants into conference, explained the Commissioner's ideas, and ordered them to see that the men patroled in the middle of the sidewalk, and when standing still did so on corners or in lighted places. He repeated these instructions at a second conference, and endeavored to show that he had done everything possible to improve the patrol. He said the men must be educated up to the proper point, and added:

"I believe before it can be brought about some of us will be hurt."

WOULD SAVE POLICE SQUADS.

Merchants' Association Fears Traffic, Bridge, and Harbor Men Will Go.

The Merchants' Association fears that the Traffic Squad will be abolished immediately unless the Legislature before adjournment this week amends the law recently passed providing for the three-platoon system in cities of the first and second class. The association has sent this telegram to the Senate Committee on Cities, before which is pending a bill introduced by Senator Wagner containing such amendments:

We earnestly urge immediate favorable report of Senate Bill Printed Number 2,168 to permit continued existence of New York Traffic, Bridge, and Harbor Squads, amending recent three-platoon law.

This bill in no way contravenes the general three-platoon principle. It merely adds to exempted class of detective Sergeants, already contained in the law, traffic, bridge, and harbor squads, whose duties are peculiar and special. If this bill is permitted to fail, the Traffic Squad must be abolished forthwith, with consequent confusion and loss of efficiency in traffic regulation. Such result would surely provoke indignation of millions of pedestrians, also of commercial interests, whose trucking efficiency has been greatly augmented because of effective regulation by the traffic squad.

In connection with this matter S. C. Mead, Secretary of the association, said:

"Nothing but immediate action can save for New York City its present Traffic Squad. The effective work of the Traffic Squad is largely due to the fact that it constitutes a separate squad of the department and that the men assigned thereto become technical experts in the handling of general traffic problems and become special experts in the handling of the peculiar conditions of traffic in the individual localities in which the respective men are placed.

"The application of the present law, abolishing as it will the Traffic Squad and providing for a change of tours of duty every thirty days, will destroy the value arising from this specialization and expertness in handling traffic problems. The result will be confusion and loss of efficiency in traffic regulation."

MANY POLICE TRANSFERS.

Sixteen Telegraph Bureau Men and 22 Detectives to Go on Patrol.

Sixteen men of the Telegraph Bureau at Police Headquarters, ten from Manhattan, three from Brooklyn, two from Richmond, and one from Queens, were transferred yesterday afternoon by Police Commissioner Waldo to patrol duty in Manhattan and the Bronx. Among those transferred from Manhattan was Emile S. Leidell, a draughtsman, who was considered one of the best informed men attached to the bureau. Sergt. John F. McGrath of the Brooklyn Telegraph Bureau was transferred to patrol duty in Manhattan. The other men were linemen.

It was announced that twenty-two Central Office detectives had been transferred also, but it could not be learned where they will be assigned. Four patrolmen, doing detective work at Headquarters, were transferred to precincts, and three from outlying precincts were sent to replace them. Otto E. Wagner, a first-grade Headquarters detective, was transferred to the Macdougal Street Station to patrol duty.

Capt. John F. O'Connor, who was attached to the Fifth Street Station, was transferred to the Newdorp Lane Station, and Capt. Cornelius F. Calalane, who was attached to that precinct, will replace O'Connor at Fifth Street.

Commissioner Waldo summoned all patrolmen now on sick leave to Police Headquarters to-day, if able to attend. No reason for the order could be learned.

STRONG BLACKMAIL CASE UP.

Grand Jury to Report To-day on Charges Against Detectives.

ERIE, Penn., July 17.—When the Federal court convenes here to-morrow morning, the Grand Jury will report its finding to Judge James S. Young in the cases brought against Gilbert B. Perkins of Pittsburg and Charles Franklin of Philadelphia, in which the Government charges the private detectives with using the mails to defraud, in an alleged attempt to blackmail Charles H. Strong of this city, in connection with the desecration of the Scott mausoleum.

The case was presented to the Grand Jury this afternoon, and a large number of witnesses were heard. When the ballot was taken Judge Young had left the court, and the report was held over until morning. Many witnesses who had not been called before the Grand Jury were excused, but notified to appear in court to-morrow.

Among those called before the Grand Jury were Charles H. Strong, S. C. Walker, his private secretary; Postmaster Isador Sobel, Mrs. Amelia Hertwig, who discovered the desecration of the Scott Mausoleum last Spring, and Post Office Inspectors James Cortelyou of Philadelphia and John F. Oldfield of Cincinnati.

The attorneys for Perkins and Franklin announced to-night that they were ready to go to trial at once if the Grand Jury returns a true bill.

A COMSTOCK ECLIPSE.

Life Size Picture in Seventh Avenue Cafe Hidden from Passers-By.

Anthony Comstock, President of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, paid a surprise visit yesterday afternoon to the Eldorado Café, on the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-second Street, and ordered the manager either to cover up or take down the life-size picture of a young woman, which, he said, could be seen from the street and was likely to shock passers-by.

Mr. Comstock said that he had called at the café owing to the number of complaints he had received from parents of children in the district. Immediately after he had left the café the manager had the window blinds drawn and the lights that shone directly on the picture switched off.

HALIFAX ASHORE IN FOG.

When Floated She Runs Into the Prince Arthur in Boston Harbor.

BOSTON, July 17.—The Plant Line steamer Halifax, from Halifax, N. S., ran aground on the easterly side of George's Island, in the lower harbor, early to-day, while entering port in a thick fog. She was floated at high tide shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but met with another accident on the way to her dock, striking the steamer Prince Arthur.

When threading her way up the Main Ship Channel in the morning she struck the sandy beach of the island and became so firmly grounded that tugs had to bring her passengers to the city.

There was considerable excitement, especially after the steamer began to list to starboard. Some of the women shrieked and a few fainted, while there was a scramble among all hands for the port side, as the steamer heeled further and further to starboard. A couple of tugs turned up after the steamer had been aground about two hours, and with difficulty the 100 or more passengers were taken down ladders to the level decks of the towboats.

Nearly all passengers were in their staterooms when the steamer struck

While feeling her way through the dense fog later in the day, the Halifax came into collision with the Dominion Atlantic liner Prince Arthur, outward bound. As the vessels were proceeding cautiously, neither sustained any serious damage. They struck nearly bow on, the Halifax having some of her plates indented and a small piece of the deck rail broken. The Halifax reached her dock here without further mishap.

BELIEVED EACH OTHER RICH.

Judge Says This Caused Marriage and Disappointment the Separation.

Supreme Court Justice Lehman in awarding $15 a week alimony yesterday to Mrs. Ida Berkman, who married David Berkman on May 30 and separated from him on July 2, says:

"I think the moving papers sufficiently show that the principal cause of the marriage was that each of the parties involved believed that the other was wealthy, and the principal cause of the dissension and consequent separation was that each of the parties was disappointed in this belief."

Mrs. Berkman is the daughter of a rabbi, and after the marriage went to live with her husband at 415 Grand Street, where, she said, Berkman's children abused her. Berkman denied this, and said that he was only earning $10 a week.

CAUGHT UNDER FIRE AUTO.

Three Men Pinned Down, but Escape Serious Injury.

Fire Chief Charles Greenfield of Kearny, N. J., with James Nagle, Chairman of the town's Fire Committee, were trying out a new automobile fire engine last night. It was driven by Arthur Stumps.

Passing through Harrison, N. J., Stumps drove onto the bridge over the Passaic River. The car skidded in the mud, slid into a support of the bridge and overturned, pinning the men beneath it.

Bridge tenders raised the machine and discovered that none of the three beneath it was badly hurt. All were bruised and Stumps was cut up somewhat. He was taken to the office of Dr. A. A. Mulligan, who dressed his wounds.

The car was damaged considerably, but was not put out of commission.

UNION BANK INQUIRY.

Official Investigators Announce the First Hearing for Next Monday.

The official investigators of the affairs of the defunct Union Bank of Brooklyn met yesterday in the Brooklyn County Court House. It was announced by Assemblyman Louis Goldstein, who was appointed a special investigator by Gov. Dix, that the first hearing will take place on Monday, July 24. Mr. Goldstein also announced that former Superintendent of Banks Clark Williams would be the first witness called.

Assemblyman Goldstein and Assistant District Attorney Mitchell May were sworn in as special investigators at the meeting by Superintendent of Banks George C. Van Tuyl.

"We intend to satisfy the 23,000 depositors of the bank that we mean business," said Mr. Goldstein. "We will spare no one, and we will summon to the hearing every one who can throw the least possible light on the matter."

Serimarco Dies in Electric Chair.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 17.—Giusseppe Serimarco was put to death in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison to-day for the murder of Antonio Sido at Mamaroneck a year ago. It was the quickest execution yet carried out in the death chamber. One minute after entering the room between two priests, the prisoner was strapped to the chair and the current turned on. In a minute and four seconds the current was turned off and the prison doctors pronounced him dead.

LORDS MAY REJECT ENTIRE VETO BILL

Unexpected Situation Arises in Quarrel Between the Two Houses of Parliament.

CONSERVATIVES ARE DIVIDED

Strange Feature of Crisis Is Small Interest Country Shows in the Revolution That Is Going On.

LONDON, July 17.—An entirely unexpected contingency confronts the career of the Veto bill to-night.

It is a possibility that the House of Lords, instead of passing the third reading of the bill with their amendments on Thursday, thus standing it back to the House of Commons for consideration, may reject it, even with the amendments, lock, stock, and barrel. In that event Premier Asquith is fully expected to announce that he has advised the King to create a large block of new peers.

The Liberty Party are no more onxious for an inflated peerage than the Lords themselves are, but will not balk at the creation of peers if the necessity is forced upon them. The Parliamentary programme of the Liberals is, as the Right Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Education, said in a speech on Saturday, "the bill, the whole bill, and nothing but the bill."

Two moves in the Lords' game to-day excited great speculation. One was a conference of the Conservative leaders—the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Earl of Selborne, Lord Middleton, the Marquis of Salisbury, and others. The second was a strong appeal by Lord Morley of Blackburn to the Liberals in the House of Lords. Lord Morley in a circular letter said:

"It is possibel that a certain number of Opposition peers may force a division on the third reading of the Parliament bill. The momentous results at stake, both immediate and in the future, make it in the highest degree desirable that no supporter of the bill should be absent from his place. I earnestl ytrus, therefore, that your lordship will not fail to give his Majesty's Government the advantage of your presence on what may prove so truly critical an occasion."

The rejection of the bill has never been part of the programme of the Conservative leaders. The report went around today, however, that they would assume the attitude that the bill, even with the amendments, is so dangerous and revolutionary that they will refuse to have any hand in its passage, but will compel the Liberal Lords to take all the responsibility for voting its third reading.

That aroused the fear that enough insurgent peers might be found to carry a motion to reject the bill outright instead of permitting, as Lord Lansdowne desires, the bill to go to its third reading as amended. It is Lord Morley's desire to have the Liberal peers vote with the adherents of Lord Lansdowne to support the third reading, because if the bill is rejected it would necessitate an Autumn session of the House of Commons to pass the Veto bill again through the necessary stages in order to return it to the House of Lords.

A group of extremist peers, estimated to number between fifty and eighty, are sworn to fight the bill to the last ditch, and if it came to a fight between them and the Liberals the former would have a chance of winning.

Lord Morley's unusual appeal is attributed by politicians to a threat to reject the bill. A great flurry spread in political circles for a few hours, but was succeeded by comparative calm. The best opinion late to-night is that the Lords will return the amended bill to the Commons on Thursday and give Premier Asquith an opportunity to show his hand when the lower house takes it up on Monday, and that the Premier will announce that the Government refuses to accept the amendments and will, if necessary, call on the King to create new peers.

Then a final struggle will come between the two factions of the Conservative lords—the stand-patters and those who believe that the lesser evil will be to swallow the bill, with the expressed declaration that the Conservatives will repeal it when they return to power. By accepting the bill they can stave off home rule for two years; by rejecting it they put the Liberals in a position to adopt all their extremist schemes of legislation without delay.

In the meantime there is no doubt that the Government has made up its list of possible peers, the number of them, according to the latest belief, being 350.

The most remarkable feature of the revolution which is going on is the small interest the country at large displays. The people have been kept at a high pitch by two elections, the coronation, and the campaign against the Lords for so long a time that no capacity is left for further excitement. They know that the Lords are going to have their wings clipped, but are indifferent to the details. Even the chamber whose future is at stake has seldom mustered more than two hunded members in the course of the debates, and frequently the attendance has dropped to a mere handful.

The Daily News (Liberal) will say tomorrow that the Government is devoting great efforts to averting the prorogation of Parliament, which would be bound to follow the absolute rejection of the Veto bill by the House of Lords, because in the event of prorogation, even for a single day, not only the Veto bill, but the Insurance bill and other important measures would have to be hurried through the various stages again in the new session and there also would be delay by the formalities of the King's speech and the debate on the address.

For this reason, says the Daily News, assuming that the Veto bill passes its third reading in the House of Lords on Thursday, Premier Asquith will ask for the creation of fifty peers immediately, who will take their seats by the time the bill again reaches the Upper Chamber in its original state, without the Lords' amendments. If Lord Lansdowne still declines to accept the unamended bill, peers will be created wholesale.

BARON ROSEN NOT TO RETURN

M. Bakhmetieff, Who Married an American, Likely to Succeed Him.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 17.—The Foreign Office to-day confirmed the report that Baron Rosen would not return to his post as Ambassador at Washington.

George Bakhmetieff is the nominee now in view for the American mission, but this appointment, like other diplomatic changes, will await the return in the Autumn of Foreign Minister Sazonoff, who is in the Vosges region in search of renewed health.

M. Bakhmetieff was formerly Ambassador to Japan, and before that Minister at The Hague and Diplomatic Agent in Bulgaria.

Baron Rosen will probably have a seat in the Council of the Empire.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The State Department has been informally advised of the approaching change in the Russian Embassy. Fully intending to return to his post in Washington when he left this city for a vacation in Russia, Baron Rosen found himself drafted into the service of the Foreign Office, soon after he reached St. Petersburg, as a result of the breakdown in health of M. Sazonoff, the Minister for Foreign Affairs. For nearly six months he has been at the head of that department.

The nature of the ailment from which M. Sazonoff is suffering does not encourage hope that he will be able to resume his duties in the Foreign Office, although as long as he lives any permanent appointment of a successor is improbable.

M. Bakhmetieff is well known in Washington, where many years ago he was one of the Secretaries of the then Russian Legation. He married a daughter of the late Gen. Edward F. Beall, and is a brother-in-law of Mrs. John R. McLean. Since leaving Washington he has made a brilliant record in the field of diplomacy, marked by steady and frequent promotion.

TREATY PLEASES AUSTRALIA.

Revised Japanese Alliance Gives Her Ten Years' Breathing Space.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, July 18.—A dispatch from Sydney to The Daily Mail quotes comments on the new Anglo-Japanese treaty in The Sydney Morning Herald.

The paper says that there can be no doubt that in expressing approval of the treaty as it now stands the Ministers of the Dominions faithfully represented their constituents. The treaty is proof of the pacific tendencies of Japan. It is proof that she is resolved, for ten years at least, to abandon ideas of the extension of her territory.

"In 1921," the paper adds, "we hope that the alliance will be renewed, but we shall also hope to be able to face with confidence the possibility of its denunciation."

The Sydney Daily Telegraph says the alliance has ceased to be an entangling alliance, while retaining its efficacy as a peace preserver in the East. The situation for Australia is clearly defined. She may count on a breathing space of ten years, during which to develop her defenses and encourage the influx of immigrants.

The Melbourne Argus and The Melbourne Age applaud the new treaty for similar reasons.

MANAGUA PRISONS FULL.

City in State of Siege—Telegrams and Even Letters Censored.

PANAMA, July 17.—Mail advices from Rivas, Nicaragua, forwarded under date of July 10 describe the capital, Managua, as in a state of siege.

The prisons are filled with political prisoners loaded with chains. Many are not charged with specific offenses, but are suspected of disloyalty to the Government of President Diaz. The wife of one such prisoner obtained his liberty, it is said, by paying those in authority 50,000 pesos, ($25,000.)

The advices further states that telegrams, cablegrams, and even private correspondence are rigidly censored.

The Government suddenly prohibited the circulation of $5 and $50 bills printed in Managua by ex-President Zelaya and Madriz, alleging that many spurious notes are in circulation. This action has caused much inconvenience.

J. W. GATES DOING WELL.

Dr. Gros Says His Condition Justifies Hope of Recovery.

PARIS, July 17.—The announcement was made at midnight that John W. Gates was doing nicely and that his family had great hopes of his recovery.

After his second visit to-day Dr. Gros said that, while it probably would be some days before the physicians could say that Mr. Gates was out of danger, his condition justified confident hope of recovery.

Dr. Pierre Tissier, a heart specialist, examined Mr. Gates to-day and said that he had a good heart, which he believed to be sufficiently strong to stand the heavy strain placed upon it.

KECSKEMET AGAIN SHAKEN.

Towers of Synagogue and Church Wrecked—Shocks Last Two Hours.

BUDAPEST, July 17.—There was a recurrence of severe earthquakes in the Kecskenet district, fifty miles southeast of here, from 5 until 7 o'clock this morning.

At Kecskemet the towers of the synagogue and of the Greek Church were wrecked and the walls of a number of buildings were cracked.

TELEPHONE GIRL DROWNED.

Sank in a Deep Hole at Far Rockaway While Bathing with Her Mother.

Florence Duff, 16 years old, of George Street, Inwood, L. I., went bathing at Far Rockaway yesterday morning and was drowned. Miss Duff, who is a night operator at the Far Rockaway telephone exchange, went to the beach with her mother, Mrs. Lewis Duff, and her cousin, Gladys Young. They waded out a short distance, when Miss Duff suddenly sank. As she did not rise to the surface, several men dived to rescue her, but it was fully twenty minutes before she was pulled out by Capt. Smith of Inwood, who caught her bathing suit with a pair of oyster tongs.

In the meantime a call had been sent to St. Joseph's Hospital for an ambulance, and Dr. Thomas responded. He partly revived her on the way to the hospital, but she died soon after reaching there. The place in which she sank is a deep hole, where dredging has been going on for some time.

EDINBURGH GREETS THE KING AND QUEEN

Decorations the Most Elaborate in a Generation—Visit to Last Five Days.

HOLYROOD IS READORNED

Ancient Home of the Stuarts Sees Revival of Its Former Glories—King to Visit the Castle To-day.

EDINBURGH, July 17.—King George and Queen Mary arrived in the Scottish capital to-day and received a rousing welcome. The city was bright with color, the decorations being the most elaborate that the present generation of Scotchmen have seen.

The way from the railway station to Holyrood Palace was lined profusely with obelisks, columns, and Venetian masts, with magnificent triumphal arches at various points.

On the station platform the Lord Provost presented to the King the keys of the city, made of silver in 1628 for presentation to Charles I. Subsequently the procession was formed, and their Majesties traversed streets lined with cheering Scots to the 800-year-old palace, which had been rejuvenated in the interior in anticipation of the royal visit. The old apartments of state used by Mary Queen of Scots have been readorned, and the historic home of the Stuarts will see a revival of royal pomp during the five days' stay of King George and Queen Mary.

Holyrood has been only occasionally used as a royal residence since the time of James I., who, as well as his predecessors, resided almost constantly there. Charles I., Charles II., James II., George IV., Queen Victoria, and Edward VII. all paid short visits to the venerable edifice.

Holyrood, as abbey and palace, has been connected with Scottish history ever since the days of Robert Bruce. After it had ceased to be a monastery it became the meeting place of Parliaments and State Councils. It was the birthplace and burial ground of many monarchs and witnessed scenes of great splendor, one of the most notable of which was the marriage of James IV. with Margaret Tudor, the union of the representatives of the Thistle and the Rose which later brought about the union of the two countries.

It was the father of Mary Queen of Scots, James V., who turned the abbey into a palace and built its famous towers. These were destroyed on two occasions, and there is reason to doubt whether any of the original palace, except perhaps the northwest tower, survives.

The royal apartments occupied to-day by the King are comparatively modern and without historical interest. That part of the palace which saw some of the most dramatic scenes and some of the strangest passages in the life of the unfortuante Mary Stuart, who suffered so many sorrows within its walls, lies in the old wing, which is now never used for residential purposes. Here every board in the flooring and every tapestry on the walls has its story. Plots and crimes which often changed the country's history were enacted in this portion of the palace, and these are brought vividly to mind by the preservation of many of the rooms in their original condition.

The audience chamber, with old, frayed furniture and hangings; Mary Stuart's bedroom, dressing room, and supping room, with their old furniture and fittings, and the small secret staircase often used by Darnley and Bothwell, all call up memories of dark deeds, among them the murder of Rizzio, which was done in the small supping room.

Amid these surroundings the King's famous Scottish bodyguard, the Royal Company of Archers, commanded by the Duke of Buccleuch, has now taken up its post, and will remain on duty during his Majesty's stay. It is soon to receive new colors at the King's hands.

To-morrow afternoon the King will pay a visit to the grim old castle where the Scottish crown jewels are kept, and the next day he will attend St. Giles's Cathedral for the dedication of the Chapel of the Order of the Thistle.

QUEEN GOING TO GERMANY.

With Prince of Wales and Princess Mary to Witness Naval Review.

BERLIN, July 17.—According to to-day's papers, Queen Mary of England, the Prince of Wales, and Princess Mary will witness the great German naval review at Swinemünde on Aug. 30, at which the Austrian and Turkish heirs and the Prince of Monaco will also be guests.

The British party will first visit their elderly relative, the Dowager Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, and after the naval review will proceed to Potsdam, to be present at the Autumn parade of the guard on Sept. 1.

PADLOCKED CHURCH DOOR.

Deacons Budd and Burrell Say Negro Rivals Stole Their Meeting House.

Locked out of their church by rival brethren, who put a padlock on the door, members of the new Union Baptist Church, all of them Long Island City negroes, led by Deacon W. H. Burrell, President, and "Back Number" Budd, Treasurer, obtained yesterday from Magistrate Fitch a summons for Deacon M. L. Bonner of St. Stephen's Baptist Church, of which the Rev. J. H. Wilkins is pastor.

Deacon Burrell said, and Deacon Budd, who has achieved fame and fortune as a dealer in old newspapers and periodicals, echoed that the Union Church, which is an offshoot of St. Stephen's, has not been kindly treated by the parent edifice. Deacons Burrell and Budd testified that for sixteen years St. Stephen's has been endeavoring to raise a building fund for a new church, but its treasury is still empty.

Becoming discouraged, Deacons Burrell and Budd, S. W. Wood, J. H. Hawkins, and W. H. Burrell, Jr., organized the Union Church. Harry C. Johnson, Jr., allowed them to use an old school building for their services, and they were getting along famously when, they say, Deacon Bonner borrowed the key of the school to hold a service. After the service, they say, Deacon Bonner went away, with the key in his pocket, leaving a brand-new padlock on the door. Since then the members of the new Union Church have been without a meeting place.

Deacon Budd referred to the brethren of St. Stephen's as "robbers," and to get to the bottom of the dispute Magistrate Fitch has set a hearing for to-day, when it is said the brethren and sisters of both churches will be present in force to aid the Magistrate in dispensing justice.

MONKEY IN A BARROOM.

Results Prove More Damaging Than Bull in a China Shop.

Before anybody was astir yesterday morning in Ike Hirschorn's hostelry in Second Avenue, near First Street, a lean monkey named Dare Devil Spike sneaked out of a room and stole downstairs. He belonged to John Hampton, who brought him from South Africa and who thought Sunday night would be a good time to have his simian chum share his room in the hotel. It was probably as good a time as another, but the monkey seized it as an opportunity to justify his name.

Directing his steps to the bar, with almost human intelligence, he reached out a scrawny arm for a bottle of Scotch. He took a little taste. He took a big taste. Then he hurled the bottle into the mirror. Pleased with the result, he ran up and down the counter, seeing how many bottles he could knock off at one time.

Dare Devil Spike was having lots of fun when the appearance of the lunchman created a diversion. The lunchman tried to chase him. Then the porter arrived, and around and around the barroom went the three, Dare Devil Spike leaving destruction in his path. It was only by an appeal to Hampton that he was recaptured.

When Hirschorn saw his barroom he asked Hampton casually how much arsenic he thought it would take to affect Spike fatally, and after Hampton had quieted down the proprietor posted this rule:

"No monkeys will be allowed in the rooms of this establishment. This rule will take effect at once."

TELLS OF JEWEL SMUGGLING.

Mrs. Jenkins Again Confers with Federal Assistant District Attorney.

Mrs. Helen Dwelle Jenkins went to the Federal Building yesterday afternoon for a long consultation with Assistant District Attorney Whitney. Since she testified before the Grand Jury ten days ago in regard to the alleged smuggling of many jewels, some of them destined to adorn Mrs. Jenkins, both Collector Loeb and Deputy Surveyor Parr have been witnesses.

Mrs. Jenkins is to appear again before the Grand Jury later on, and before she resumed her testimony there were several important points that Mr. Whitney wished to discuss with her.

HELD AS COCAINE SELLERS.

Detectives Got Two Men by Shadowing a Popular Place in Harlem.

Complaints made by priests, clergymen, and others have been lodged at Police Headquarters and the Harlem police stations that cocaine and opium have been sold in Harlem to a great extent. The police were told that at all times of the day and night men, women, and children could be seen coming out of a places in East 118th Street under the influence of drugs. Detectives Hughes and Trumpfeller of the Central Office were detailed to watch and make a general investigation of the evil in Harlem.

Richard S. Young, living at the Mills Hotel, Thirty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, a licensed pharmacist, and William Borden of 215 East 118th Street were arraigned in the Harlem Court yesterday afternoon, charged with vending drugs without a physician's prescription. They were held for General Sessions in $1,500 bail each.

Pierce Travers, chemist for the Board of Health, testified in court that he had analyzed the substance of four packages in possession of the prisoners and had found it to be cocaine.

The detectives said they had watched the 118th Street address for three weeks and had seen many persons of all ages and both sexes coming out, evidently filled with the drug. They also said that a yacht fitted up as a "dope joint" was found in the East River off 121st Street.

In the leading Brewers' Journal of Germany ("Zeitschrift fuer das gesammte Brauwesen," Muenchen), in issue No. 20 dated May 20th, 1911, the following excerpt appears in an article entitled:

"Reminiscences of America and Its Brewing Industry."

". . . The Piel Brewery was the first American Brewery which I visited right at the outset of my sojourn abroad, and hence it was really not surprising that I exclaimed: 'Why, all this is really the same as in our own German breweries, only somewhat more progressive and practical,' but, you see, at my first brewery inspection, I had happened into a typical German brewery. Later on in my visits, I was to discover essential differences from what I had here learned to know.

"As with the brewery, so were my experiences with their beers, and I repeat at this point what I have already stated (in an earlier installment of the article) that, of all pure malt-beers, which I tasted in America, the beers of the Piel Brewery received my highest praise. . ."

It is no less an authority than Prof. Dr. Adolf Cluss, Vienna, ord. professor at the College of Agriculture of Vienna, and lecturing professor at the Royal and Imperial Brewers' Academy of Vienna, who renders this verdict. During the past year he visited the United States in a mission of his government and went through all the breweries of importance in the United States; he describes them in his article.

And so we have the gratification of submitting to you the impartial verdict of a German scholar and expert, wherein you find our claim fully corroborated and endorsed—a claim that we have repeatedly made known to the public in our advertisements and circulars for the past twenty-five years—that our Real German Lager Beer IS America's Finest Malt Beer.

What Did the Hot Weather Do to Your Delivery System?

Did you promise deliveries you could not make? Did YOU, or did your COMPETITOR, using electric vehicles, deliver the goods?

One of our large department stores has replaced thirteen horses with a single electric truck of moderate capacity.

The electric is always clean, safe, dependable—and is more economical now than ever, since the Edison rate reduction of July 1st.

We sell nothing but electric current, but, if you desire, our vehicle expert will be glad to call to tell you more about the service or put you in touch with the various manufacturers of dependable vehicles.

Save the Little Children ON THE Crowded East Side

The sufferings of little sick children during the hot period are intense, and many lives will be sacrificed unless a benevolent public comes to their relief. The Sanitarium for Hebrew Children at Rockaway Park provides them and their mothers with pure air, surf bathing, medical attention and gives them excursions by rail and boat.

Help is urgently needed at this time. $10.00 makes you an annual member, $25.00 a year a patron, and $50.00 a year a donor.

A breath of pure air will save many a life. Will you take pity on those to whom such a breath is a luxury?

Remittances may be addressed to the Treasurer, Hezekiah Kohn, 356 Second Avenue, New York City.

TERRELL'S NAME OFF ROLL OF THE SENATE

He Insists on Making a Vacancy, Hoping to Force Hoke Smith to Take Seat.

HE'LL KEEP GOVERNORSHIP

Determined Not to Change Until Winter—Legislators Plan to Compel Him to Choose His Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—At the Senator's own request Vice President Sherman to-day directed that the name of Joseph M. Terrell of Georgia be stricken from the rolls of the Senate. This was Mr. Terrell's final move in his sharp controversy with his successor, Gov. Hoke Smith. Unless the latter resigns as Governor at once and assumes the duties of the office to which he was elected last week by the Georgia Legislature the Democrats will lose a vote in the Senate at a time when much legislation is hanging in the balance.

Mr. Terrell was appointed Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Clay. He was a candidate before the Legislature for re-election, but Gov. Smith was successful. The Governor then wrote to the defeated incumbent, saying that he wanted to retain the Governorship until the end of the present session of the Legislature in order to push through certain reform measures he had advocated, and asking Mr. Terrell to retain the seat in the Senate until that time.

Mr. Terrell charged, however, that the Governor merely wanted to have time to dispense patronage, and he replied sharply, pointing out that he felt it would be an impertinence for him to retain a seat given by the Legislature to another; that his term expired anyhow with the election of his successor, and that he could not retain the seat if he would. He suggested that if Gov. Smith felt it his duty to remain Governor he might relieve the situation and make possible the filling of the vacancy in the State's delegation by resigning the Senatorship and allowing another election to be held.

A copy of this letter he transmitted to the Vice President to-day announcing his resignation. A quorum was demanded by Senator Bacon, his colleague, and the letter was read in full, together with the request for the removal of his name from the rolls. As there was no objection to the request, despite the worry felt among the Democrats at the loss of a vote at this critical time, the Secretary was instructed to omit the name hereafter from roll calls.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, July 17.—Gov. Hoke Smith remains firm in his decision not to resign the Governorship until December, at which time he proposes to qualify as a United States Senator. He announced before the Legislature elected him that he would remain as Governor until Winter in order to get important legislation passed He holds that his presence in Washington is not necessary at present.

The Governor's enemies, including Mr. Terrell, now ex-Senator, charge that he wants to remain in the Executive office solely to dispense patronage and to strengthen his "political machine."

A resolution was prepared to-night to be introduced into the Legislature to-morrow asking Gov. Smith to resign the Executive office at once and go to Washington and qualify as Senator. Another resolution will declare that inasmuch as he refuses to qualify as Senator the seat of the late Senator Clay is vacant and another election shall be held.

These resolutions were determined upon at a meeting late this afternoon of legislators who object to Georgia being left with only one vote in the Senate at this important time. Several legislators who voted for Gov. Smith for Senator are said to have attended the meeting.

The resolutions will provoke a bitter debate, but it is generally believed that they will be defeated if they come to a vote. The House, at any rate, is absolutely controlled by Gov. Smith. In the Senate it is understood that he lacks one or two votes of control.

CROKER CONTESTS ALIMONY.

Wants Payments Lowered Because He's Not Making So Much as Formerly.

Former Fire Chief Edward F. Croker, now President of a fire prevention association, asked Justice Giegerich in the Supreme Court yesterday for a reduction in the amount of alimony he is now paying his wife for the support of his two children.

Justice Giegerich originally granted Mrs. Croker $300 a month, but the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reduced this to $200 a month, and her counsel, Edward S. Peck, said yesterday that the Appellate Division made no provision for Mrs. Croker's children.

Mr. Croker's counsel, David Neuberger, said that the situation in regard to his client's earning capacity had changed since the making of the last order, as he was then getting $10,000 a year, and was only getting $6,000 a year now as a pension. Mr. Neuberger further says that his client has twenty-five shares in the enterprise of which he is now President, and that they are valued at only $50 a share, and that the earnings of the company depend entirely upon Croker's individuality, and that he has no other interests in any other property.

He further stated that Mrs. Croker did not pay a physician for attending one of her children, and that his client had received no pay for a series of articles he had written about the Fire Department, and that therefore the alimony should be reduced to $100 a month.

Mrs. Croker's counsel opposed the motion, saying that Mr. Croker's position had not changed materially since he resigned from the Fire Department, and that he had made more than $10,000 a year ten years ago, when he worked as an agent for an independent powder company. Mr. Neuberger replied by saying that his client's concern had only twenty contracts, and that he had gone into it with hopes of making it a success, but that so far he has not made a dollar out of his new business.

Justice Giegerich adjourned the argument until Thursday, when there will be another hearing before him.

WINDS UP INSURANCE CO.

Cosmopolitan Solvent, Says Referee, but Its Business Unprofitable.

Referee George H. Tuttle, appointed by the Supreme Court to inquire into the financial condition of the Cosmopolitan Fire Insurance Company upon the application of the Directors of the company in order to wind up its affairs, recommended yesterday that the company be dissolved.

Mr. Tuttle finds that the various statements made to him by the company are true, and that the company is solvent and has $83,007, but on account of unprofitable business it is wise to dissolve.

The company has reinsured all its outstanding policies in the Royal Exchange Assurance Company of London, England. The Directors stated that no new business has been written since Dec. 31, 1908.

The report was filed with the County Clerk yesterday.

PROTEST NEW GARAGE RULES.

All Branches of the Auto Business Attend Fire Hall Hearing.

Automobile manufacturers and owners of garages were out in force at the hearing in Fire Headquarters to protest against the proposed regulations drafted by the Municipal Explosive Commission for the keeping of cars.

Mark Eisman, representing the New York Bicycle Dealers' Association, who had the floor first, said that the clause defining a motorcycle as a motor vehicle would wipe out every motor cycle dealer in the city.

Charles E. Terry, representing the Automobile Association of America, the New York State Automobile Association, and the Auto Dealers' Association of America, said the regulations involved too much red tape.

Alfred Ely of the Board of Governors of the Automobile Club of America said that the section of the regulations which forbids the keeping of more than one automobile or a gallon of inflammable oil in a building where cigars or drugs are kept or sold would mean the discontinuance of the club.

There were many objections against that part of the regulations forbidding a garage being maintained within fifty feet of a school, place of assembly, tenement, or hotel, or in any frame or wooden structure.

Arthur Wing, representing the Fifth Avenue Coach Company and the New York Transportation Company, said that there is no such thing as a fire-proof building, which the regulations insist shall house automobiles and gasoline. Fire-resisting building is the way the regulations should read, he thought.

David I. Kelly, Inspector in charge of the Bureau of Combustibles, said the private garage in which very little gasoline is kept is more dangerous than public garages, where it is kept in large quantities.

LEARNS TO PRUNE VINES.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, July 17.—New Yorkers who feast on cantaloupes shipped in great quantities yearly from Colorado will be rejoiced at news that hereafter they will be able to get the melon at least two weeks earlier than before, and that what they get will be of better quality. All this is due to a discovery made by Jess Frantz, the cantaloupe expert of the Grand Junction Fruit Growers' Association.

Franz many years ago decided that pruning would be useful in improving the quality of melons and other fruits of the vine, as it has been in the case of trees. He was not the originator of this idea, however, and he found, as others had found before, that a pruned vine would bleed to death from its wounds and no fruit would come. Unlike others, he did not give up, but conducted a long series of experiments. He has now learned how to do the pruning and save the vine. How he does it is a secret kept by him and his employers so far, but results prove that he has succeeded.

It has been the custom in planting melons to sow them in hills from three to six feet apart and thin out the plants when necessary. Franz drills his seeds in rows about a foot apart, and so is able to get at least treble the plants on the acre. The vines are thinned to leave only one or two on each hill. These are pruned so that only one or two vigorous shoots are left, and on these only two blossoms are permitted to mature. The melons grow to picking size about two weeks before the usual time, and are of better texture and flavor. As few blossoms ever come to maturity under the old system, he gets a larger yield from his plan, as well as saving of time and improvement of quality.

Franz has now pruned his vines twice and has succeeded both times. He plans to prune each vine three times during the season. He says his method can be applied to cucumbers and other vine products without trouble.

MISS SHACKFORD FOR DEAN.

Wellesley Alumnae Move to Have Her Selected.

WELLESLEY, Mass., July 17.—Alumnae of Wellesley College in all parts of the country are signing petitions, asking that Prof. Martha Dale Shackford be made dean of the college.

The Trustees are about to undertake the selection of a successor to Miss Ellen Fitz Pendleton, who left the deanship to become President. Miss Shackford is well known as an author, and has for many years been prominent in Wellesley alumni activities.

STUYVESANT'S LOST LEG.

Uncertainty as to Which It Was Shown in Painting and Statue Here.

There is no doubt Peter Stuyvesant had a wooden leg. The histories tell of how he stomped about the streets of Nieuw Amsterdam, leaving a dot and dash trail in the road like a Morse code. But there is one point on which historians seem perplexed—or it may be that the readers of history are unobserving—which leg had the good Peter lost?

In the Wall Street section of this city those who roam may see at least five representations of the late lamented Governor of the Dutch colony. Three of these are painted on the panels of signs and two are statues, like Peter's leg, made of wood.

One of the statues and two of the paintings represent the Governor wearing a chair-leg attached to his right nether limb, while in the others painters and sculptor have chosen to represent that it was his left leg he had lost.

All show the leg bedecked with ribbon bows, and all show him as a benign individual—not at all in keeping with the character given him by the historians in question—wearing knickerbockers and a felt chapeau and offering a roll of manuscript to whomsoever looks.

Broadway Hunts a Non-Existent Fire.

More than one thousand persons, police reserves, a Battalion Fire Chief, two engines, and a fire truck gathered at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway just before midnight last night as a result of a false alarm being turned in from a department store at that corner. Electricians at work in the store installing a new automatic fire alarm system said that a plug controlling the flow of water from a tank on the roof was accidentally withdrawn and short-circuited the electrical apparatus.

IN FIRE-GIRT LAKE WITH FOREST BEASTS

Porcupine Refugees Up to Their Necks in Water and Wild Animals All About Them.

ALL MEN FREE FROM ATTACK

Bear and Deer in the Swim and Rabbits Swarm on the Water's Edge Without Being Molested.

L. F. Jones, son of C. W. Jones of 45 West 105th Street, returned yesterday from the fire-swept Porcupine mining region of Ontario, Canada, where he and a number of fellow-prospectors had a narrow escape from death. Jones was in the employ of the McIntire Gold Mining Company of Porcupine, about 600 miles north of Montreal, and had his tent pitched in the wilderness on a claim about a mile from Pearl Lake. He said that he was warned by the dense smoke in the forests, but that he had no idea how serious it was until he smelled the fire, which was sweeping from west to east at the rate of a mile in 10 minutes.

"I was getting my supper in the tent," he said, "when the smoke got so thick that I could hardly breathe. I wrapped myself in a blanket, intending to await developments. Suddenly there was a creaking and a whistling all about me and I saw fire on all sides. I had time to grab my knapsack, containing an axe, a knife, and my blanket, and then I ran for Pearl Lake, which is about 2 miles long and a half mile wide and a mile from my camp. I got there only a few minutes before the fire, which was sweeping all the smaller trees down like so many straws.

"I hurled my knapsack into the lake aand got into the water up to my neck. My clothes were burned in many places where sparks had settled on them. Running toward the lake was a man whose beard was longer than my own and whose eyes seemed like those of a crazy man. He jumped right into the lake from the high bank, gun and all trailing behind him. He swam up to me and put his head under my blanket. For a long time he said nothing, and I could see that his face was burned. When he became quieted he told me that his name was Johnson, that he was a free-lance prospector from Montreal, and that he had almost been burned alive in his tent. He had brought nothing but his rifle and a belt of cartridges.

"It wasn't two minutes after we got comfortably settled in the water that we were both alarmed by seeing a big black bear looking down upon us from the shore. What was worse, he kept coming straight toward us, nor did he stop until all of his body except his eyes and nose were under the water. He eyed us and we eyed him. I wanted Johnson to shoot him, but Johnson said that he didn't think his cartridges would fit the rifle, or even explode if they did fit. So we just stayed right where we were, only ten feet from the bear, and he didn't make a move.

"It wasn't long before the lake about us was a regular menagerie. A big moose plunged in and swam all the way across the lake. Several small deer did the same thing. I never saw so many rabbits in my life. They were drowned by the score, but those who remained near the edge of the lake were safe.

"Then it began to get hot. The fire licked up evry blade of grass to the very water's edge. If the trees had not been so thick they would certainly have fallen over into the lake and killed us. We were almost scorched to death, but we frequently put our heads and the blanket under the water and thus kept as cool as possible. All the time the bear remained motionless, simply panting for life. We ceased to fear him, and he certainly didn't seem to mind us.

"About 100 yards from us, toward the centre of the lake, there were four men in canoes, with all their camp equipment safely tucked away. Suddenly one of the canoes upset. We couldn't see what happened because of the terrible smoke, but later we found out that the occupant of the canoe, a man named William Taylor, a squatter shoemaker, had gone to the bottom.

"We were in that lake up to our necks for just two hours. The bear, deer, and rabbits left us when the fire had passed. In fact, we could hardly walk when we got out of the water which had saved our lives.

"On the way out to Golden City we found the bodies of seven dead prospectors."

SOLD BEER IN CEMETERY.

Superintendent Was Doing Thriving Business Without License.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 17.—Joseph Joska, superintendent of the Bohemian burying ground on the Philadelphia Road, appeared before Justice Thompson at the Canton Court to-day on the charge of selling liquor in the cemetery without a license. He was released on $1,000 bail, to appear before the Grand Jury.

Sergt. Meise testified that Joska had been selling intoxicating liquors in the burying ground for more than a year. He said he received information on Sunday afternoon that a large supply of beer had just been delivered to the Joska residence in the graveyard. Sergt. Meise sent Patrolman Joseph Myland to Joska's house with instructions to buy six bottles of beer. After the alleged sale Sergt. Meise and Patrolman Myland placed Joska under arrest. Sergt. Meise stated that he found more than 200 bottles of beer in Joska's cellar.

Disregards Expert Testimony.

Disregarding the testimony of handwriting experts Surrogate Fowler yesterday decided that a note for $500, dated April 16, 1903, payable on demand to the order of William B. Keller & Brother, and purporting to be signed by the late Patrick Harris, had been signed by Harris, and that, therefore, the payees were entitled to recover the value of the note from the executor of the Harris estate.

LONESOME POLICE POSTS.

Bluecoat Tells of the Trial of an Assignment at a Crossing.

Of course there are various kinds of lonesomeness in New York despite the crush. One is always hearing the lonely souls looking for their mates and such things. It is a good wager, however, that about the lonesomest ones of all will be found to be some of our blue-coated guardians of the peace assigned to the stations at street crossings. There they are supposed to stand their tricks with beats that are not so very much larger than the fearsome dungeons of old.

"It's all right while things are busy with traffic," said one of them as he unburdened himself standing exactly in the centre of the square made by the corners of four curbs. "When things are moving you've got to be on the watch, and there's occasionally a bad driver to call down or a woman or a child to snatch out from under an auto. But when the quiet hours come and you can't make an objection even if an auto scorches by, because the streets are so deserted, then I tell you it's the limit. Then you are held down to a few square yards, and you can't do anything but walk around and can't talk to anybody. You daren't leave your post for a minute either because some inspector or somebody's likely to come along and catch you.

"Now I was always a pretty good officer on post, and watched the doors and was on the job all the time. But I'm human, and, rules or no rules, I needed to talk with the other boys I'd come across on post, or a friend who'd come along and chin or a citizen that didn't want to go home. Sometimes that idea of telling your troubles to a policeman got on my nerves a bit—but now, good Lord, how I'd like to have someone come up about every five minutes and tell me his troubles. When I get a chance to put in a pull it's back on the beat for me, even if it's in Hell's Kitchen. I'm just dead lonesome on this job. The man who invented it ought to get the solitary for life."

PRETENDED HE WAS ILL.

Process Server Saw the Doctor, but He Had to Pay a $2 Fee.

In West Side Court yesterday Magistrate Corrigan smiled as he advised Rudolph Hruska of 4,376 Martha Avenue to sue a physician for $2 after the physician had threatened Hruska with trouble upon the latter going to him to serve legal papers upon him on Friday night last. The physician, Dr. Maurice Sturm, who has an office in the Ansonia, was in court on a summons.

According to the statements of both complainant and defendant, Hruska had served papers on the physician early in June, and having another set to present went to the doctor's office. He told the doctor that he had cramps and was feeling badly. The doctor had him remove his outer clothing for an examination. When the examination was over the process server said:

"Well, doctor, I have a paper to hand you."

"But I want $2 for the examination and prescription I wrote out. And you'll give it to me before you leave this office or there will be trouble." Hruska demurred, but as the doctor weighed twenty-five pounds more than he did he laid a $2 bill on the table and made his exit. He had the doctor summoned to court, hoping by that means to recover the $2 from him. In his own testimony the process server stated that he was obliged to resort to some device to "get the man," and that this was the reason he pretended that he was ill. He denied, however, the examination and the writing of the prescription.

WILL FIGHT TO KEEP STREET NEWSSTANDS

Dealers Protest That McAneny Resolution to Clear Sidewalks Is Unjust to Them.

SAY PUBLIC WOULD SUFFER

Want to Buy Newspapers in a Hurry as They Pass—Space Limit Proposed Too Severe.

Newsdealers from all parts of the Borough of Manhattan gathered last night at Eldorado Hall, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-second Street, to protest against the resolution introduced in the Board of Estimate by Borough President McAneny with reference to street obstructions. This provides that all licenses authorizing any kind of obstruction of the sidewalks, including newsstands, stoops, and the like, within 100 feet of the intersection of any two streets or the entrance to any elevated or Subway station be revoked. The only exception made is in favor of the newsstands under elevated station stairs, and with regard to them it is provided that selling must be done from the inside and that no goods or advertising matter be exposed outside.

The dealers declare that not only will this wipe out a number of long-established stands, but it will mean the revocation without compensation of existing licenses, which are $10 for the elevated railway stands and $5 for other stands, and that they will suffer great hardship not only through having to pay a second time for new locations but in that they will run the risk of not having their permits renewed. They also urged that the amount of obstruction that they cause is not worth noticing compared with the habitual obstruction of the sidewalks in the wholesale districts.

William Merican, President of the Newsdealers' Association, presided, and introduced Dr. Michael B. Feeney, who was for ten years the counsel of the association. He declared that by this resolution Mr. McAneny was raising a hornet's nest.

"It provides," he said, "that not only newsstands but every obstruction, including showcases, storm doors, and bow windows, be removed from 100 feet from either side of a street intersection. It would alter the entire appearance of every street in the borough. In a general way the distance between the streets is only 200 feet and between each avenue 600 feet, while the distance between Third, Lexington, Park, Madison, and Fifth Avenues is very much less.

"In my opinion you newsdealers will not be so much affected as the house owners and the storekeepers, who will not be able to expose their goods in the customary way. Cigar stores, saloons, butchers, and grocers will all be affected just as much if not more than you."

He went on to point out that the stands under the elevated railway stairs would not be affected as they are protected by special legislation, and continued:

"The City of New York has sold to each one of you the license to do business at a certain spot as long as you are well behaved, and in the ten years that I was your counsel I never knew one of you convicted of a serious crime."

Joseph S. Schwab, President of the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association, promised the newsdealers the support of the real estate men.

"If President McAneny," he declared, "says we must make a beginning, why does he pitch on the poor man? Why does he not go down to the wholesale district and deal with the obstructions there?

"Why did he call Bingham back from oblivion only to have him throw up his hands and say that he can do nothing to remedy the streets, as they are in such an awful condition? Go to your Aldermen. You can speak to them as you never can to any Borough President. Ask them to help you by repealing the ordinance Mr. McAneny now wants enforced so stringently."

Mr. Merican denounced the condition in which the wholesale district on the lower west side is permitted to be with boxes piled on every street, to the danger of the passers by, and demanded that if any newsstands be interfered with it should be those in the elevated and Subway stations, as they belong, he said, to a monopoly.

"This ordinance would press harder on us than on any other class of sidewalk dealer," he declared. "It takes several minutes to get one's shoes cleaned or to buy soda or fruit. A man will not mind going into a store to get his shoes polished. But buying a newspaper is a matter of only a second and newspapers are a necessity to the public.

"Why, there are some men who cannot eat their breakfast without a newspaper. Think of the women in the crush of the subway and elevated. They are exposed to every kind of indignity and hardship. They buy newspapers to make them forget their misery. If the public cannot get their newspapers on the street, they will find the inconvenience intolerable."

Mr. McAneny has written to the Board of Aldermen calling attention to street obstructions and saying that in 1910 his office removed 26,709 on complaint, as against 18,632 in 1909. However, action on complaint he considers inequitable, and he intends to enforce the law strictly on all. He believes, he says, that 90 per cent. of the newspaper stands are in excess of the six feet permitted by law and that many of them sell other articles than the newspapers, periodicals, soda, and fruit to which they are supposed to restrict themselves.

He also has warned the Aldermen that he will not recognize any special permits granted by them, as in the past, as he is advised that they have only authority to make general regulations for the entire borough, except in the case of building operations.

FEWER SUBWAY RIDERS

Number of Passengers Nearly 3,000,000 Less in July Than in December.

The fact that the subway is not altogether a popular Summer resort is shown in a comparison of the ticket sales for eight days of the recent hot spell, with eight days last December.

For the eight days beginning Wednesday, July 5, the number of ticket sales, reported to the Public Service Commission by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, were:

July	5—Wednesday	549,448
	6—Thursday	505,084
	7—Friday	526,867
	8—Saturday	558,076
	9—Sunday	386,202
	10—Monday	560,661
	11—Tuesday	485,875
	12—Wednesday	495,755
	Total	4,047,418

For the eight days, beginning Dec. 5 last, the sales were:

Dec.	5—Monday	1,000,200
	6—Tuesday	823,443
	7—Wednesday	908,139
	8—Thursday	912,441
	9—Friday	907,296
	10—Saturday	906,086
	11—Sunday	488,504
	12—Monday	1,009,771
	Total	6,985,784

The daily average for the eight July days was 505,927; for the eight December days it was 873,223.

127 YACHTS RACE FOR LARCHMONT HONORS

Avenger and Joyant Among Well-Known Boats That Won on the Sound.

One hundred and twenty-seven yachts started yesterday in the second day's race of the Larchmont Yacht Club's "race week." This is thirty-two more than started on the corresponding day of 1910. The yachts were divided into twenty-four classes, representing not only all the clubs at the west end of the Sound, but several in Gravesend Bay. The race was started in a light breeze from south by east and a drizzling rain which continued most of the time. The yachts were sent across the Sound to Week's Point first, that leg of the course looking promising for windward work, but the wind soon shifted to the south, making it fair all around the course.

No schooners put in an appearance, the largest classes being L and M, in which Daniel Bacon's Avenger and Leo S. Herzig's Gardenia fought it out over the long course. They covered it once only, owing to the light breeze. The Avenger was the winner on corrected time by 4 minutes 41 seconds. In a special race with the Dorello, the Gardenia was beaten 4 minutes 14 seconds. All the yachts were stopped by the committee at the end of the first round on account of the light weather.

Commodore W. H. Child's Joyant was again the winner in the P Class. She defeated the Corinthian by 3 minutes 55 seconds, and in the New York Yacht Club's 30-foot class, in which twelve boats started, Ralph N. Ellis's sloop, the Caprice, won by 26 seconds from the Rowdy. In the Q Class the More Joy won from the Suelew by 6 minutes 1 second.

The winners in the other classes were the Alert, the Red Wing, the Essex, the Jolly Roger, the Yukana, the Ogeemah, the Mahaskah, the Edith, the Turquoise, the Cyric, the Twinkle, the Scaup, the Skylark, the Adios, the Gogo, the La Rochelle, the Iney, the Tautog, the Gitty, and the Cliphora. The summary:

Second day, Larchmont race week, July 17. Light wind, south by east; raining.

Venona Sails for Norman Cup.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 17.—Only two yachts of the Eastern Yacht Club fleet were entered for the Norman Cup race to Marblehead when the hour for the start arrived to-day, and only one, the Venona, owned by E. J. Bliss, left the starting point off Egg Rock when the gun was fired more than five hours late. The other entrant, Harold Vanderbilt's Vagrant, was withdrawn because of the heavy bank of fog which hung over the water.

150 Boats on Put-in-Bay Regatta.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 17.—More than 150 boats, both power and sail, have reported to the Fleet Captain of the Interlake Yachting Association ready for the races that begin at Put-In Bay to-morrow. This is the largest fleet that has ever assembled at the bay for a regatta. Weather indications are for brisk winds to-morrow.

EDGREN NOT ON RACK.

A. A. U. Fails to Get Evidence of Professionalism as Publicly Charged.

The Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association, Amateur Athletic Union, finished its arduous labors for the year last night at the Irish-American Athletic Club amid the most peaceful surroundings. The complete committee, consisting of Terence Farley, Chairman; P. J. Walsh, and E. J. Hart, were in attendance, as well as a host of athletes, who anticipated a tempestuous session because of the call on Robert Edgren to tell what he knew about the shortcomings of certain local athletes, in so far as their receiving money for competition was concerned.

Instead of the cyclonic period expected the proceedings could be likened to a gentle zephyr, so calm was the whole affair. Edgren was asked what he knew about the statement written by him and attributed to a well-known athlete who is a member of the New York Athletic Club, in which it was stated that "there's no satisfaction in competing, for an amateur athlete, when he knows that the men he competes against are out for the money whenever they can get it."

This and somewhat similar statements Edgren refused to account for, saying that they had been given to him in confidence, and that he would have to gain the permission of his employer before he could give the desired information.

The committee neglected to point out to him that he had written earlier in the month about some of the shortcomings of local track and field men in a much more forceful series of accusations than he had been questioned about.

It was the consensus of opinion that the whole affair will die a natural death, and it was conceded that it was a good thing that last night's tribunal, which was more like a pink tea than anything else in a legislative way, was the grand finale of the body.

There were a number of petty cases dealt with right up to the letter of the law, the victims being youngsters belonging to some of the minor organizations, which savored of spiteful tactics on the part of the clubs in attempting to practically blacklist boys who desired to sever their connection with these clubs.

PICTURES OF POOR FIGHT.

Wolgast-Moran Bout as Shown Here Mostly a Clinching Match.

The moving pictures of the Wolgast-Moran fight at San Francisco on July 4 were shown at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre yesterday. The contest, according to the pictures, was a hugging and wrestling match from beginning to end, with no apparent effort on the part of the referee to enforce the rules of boxing. Owen Moran was either ill-advised or failed to follow advice, by trying to fight Wolgast at his own game—infighting. Although the little Englishman is a clever two-handed boxer and as agile on his feet as a dancer, he never once tried to use these assets against the champion.

The hugging started at the beginning and continued until the end. Wolgast just waited for Moran to bore in and attack him with short punches. Then he mauled, tugged, and wrestled him, all the time shooting short jabs to his body and face until he finally wore him down. Strangely, Moran in the face of the hammering, never tried to stay away from Wolgast. He always came back for more and got it.

In the ninth round the fighters wrestled each other with their arms entwined about the body and neck. Wolgast wrestled him against the ropes and mauled him when he couldn't retreat. The tenth round also resembled a clash between two wrestlers rather than a glove fight. Moran's attempts to punish Wolgast at short range were futile compared with the piston-rod-like hammering which the champion delivered in the clinches. The pictures show the knockout a clean short smash to the body. The blow was delivered so quickly that there was no clear evidence of a foul, as stated by Moran's manager, Charley Harvey. Moran dropped like a flash and writhed about the floor with expressions of pain on his blood-stained face. The pictures are larger than life size and show clearly every move in the rough battle.

TENNIS STARS PLAY AT LONGWOOD NETS

McLoughlin and Long Show Up Strong in First Day's Matches in Boston.

BOSTON, July 17.—Lawn tennis of an especially high order marked the play to-day in the twenty-first annual singles of the Longwood Cricket Club in which ranking players of the United States started. Several of the players, E. P. Larned, brother of the National champion; N. W. Niles, Massachusetts champion, and C. F. Watson, Jr., were held up in outer Boston Bay on board the steamship Bunker Hill, from New York, on account of the fog, and did not arrive at the grounds until late in the afternoon. All except Niles started play, however.

To-day's elimination play showed the Pacific Coast players to distinct advantage. M. E. McLoughlin clearly demonstrated he has not lessened the speed that characterized his game last year. Raymond D. Little of New York was crowded hard in the first round by F. H. Harris, former New England intercollegiate champion, and in the Eastern doubles championship with G. F. Touchard, the only match played in this event, the New York pair were forced to their utmost in a five-set match by A. S. Dabney, Jr., and G. F. Gardner of Boston, a new combination in this meeting.

Melville H. Long of San Francisco, the clay court champion, defeated his partner in the Eastern doubles, C. R. Gardner, in the feature match of the day. This match was marked by brilliant exchanges and long rallies, and after Long got his strokes working smoothly his more finished game and speed enabled him to win. All the top-notch players came through the matches. The summaries:

FUTURE TENNIS EVENTS.

Under the leadership of Edwin Fuller Torrey, Jr., of the National Executive Committee, the third annual holding of the Central New York State championship lawn tennis tournament will be marked by a large entry list of representative competitors. A number of the players from this city will go to Utica to compete in the matches on the courts of the Yahnundasis Golf Club, beginning Tuesday, July 25. The winner of the singles will meet Neal C. Stevens for the Frisbie Challenge Cup. The prizes for the doubles, handicap singles, and consolations have been presented by D. Clinton Murray, President of the club. Cromwell Woodward, William D. Lyon, Samuel A. Beardsley, Jr., Dr. James E. Gage, and Edwin F. Torrey, Jr., will be in charge of the tournament.

The officers of the Westchester County Lawn Tennis Association, which will begin its annual championship next Saturday on the courts of the New York Athletic Club at Travers Island, were announced yesterday as follows: George B. Coughlan, President, Siwanoy Country Club; H. L. Gormley, Secretary-treasurer, Siwanoy Country Club; Lewis H. Freedman, New York Athletic Club, Chairman; David R. Todd, Bronxville Athletic Association; Harry H. Burdick, Park Hill Country Club; Lowell Lamb, New Rochelle Tennis Club. The entry list promises to be the best that the championship has ever brought together.

J. Lawrence Phipps of 432 Fifth Avenue is the Chairman of the Lawn Tennis Committee in charge of the open tournament which will hold the courts of the Woodmere Country Club, Woodmere, Long Island, for the week-end of Aug. 11, 12, and 13. A number of the leading competitors of the New York State championship have signified their intention of competing for the valuable trophies offered.

The week beginning Monday, Aug. 28, was awarded yesterday to the Powelton Club of Newburg-on-Hudson for the deciding of an open lawn tennis tournament. Five events will be contested, as follows: Men's singles and doubles, mixed doubles, women's singles, and a consolation. Edward A. Java will act as referee. The Tournament Committee includes Dr. W. W. Johonnott, Dr. P. R. Asphalt, Eduard A. Jova, J. L. Jova, and Dr. H. A. Waldron.

Hollywood Golf Club Tourneys.

W. E. Lauer, with a score of 98, 28—70, was the winner of the weekly handicap golf tournament at the Hollywood Golf Club, West End, N. J., Saturday. In the mixed doubles Mrs. J. S. Hess and M. E. Baudler, with a score of 109, 46—63, were the winners.

Two American Horses Second.

PARIS, July 17.—In the Prix Doina Baghtche, run at Maisons-Laffitte to-day, Thomas P. Thorne's Monsieur Guerin was second. W. K. Vanderbilt's Miramba finished second in the Prix du Lude.

BEACH CROWDS PLANT RICH CROP IN SAND

FALL HARVEST IS GOOD

Old Coney Islanders Do the Reaping in November, When Careless Crowds Are Gone.

Although the bathing beach season of 1911 is still young, hundreds of articles of value are already snugly hidden in the shifting sands. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, more will sift down into search-defying depths before the cool October breezes drive New Yorkers and New York visitors away from the near-by shore resorts.

"Check your valuables" signs plastered all over the offices of the bathing pavilons, have some effect in checking losses, but there are many who refuse to parade the beach or even go into the surf unadorned. Women will strip themselves of dress finery to don the skimpy, trying bathing costumes, but a surprising number—and these not all young—refuse to remove finger rings, ear-rings, necklaces, and the handsome and expensive hair combs which are certainly no help to the swimmer. When they come weeping to the office to record their loss on the chance that some honest person will find the prized article and turn it in for a claimant, they get little sympathy.

There are exceptions, of course. This one was young and beautiful, even as she wept. "My wedding ring, boo-hoo, my wedding ring," she sobbed, and then repeated the chorus.

With tender solicitude, the attendants drew out her story. She had taken off all her things—she blushed as she said it, glancing down at the knee-high bathing skirt—but her wedding ring she would not part with. She'd only had it four days, she confessed, and she wasn't going to trust it with anybody. Besides it was unlucky to take off the circle of gold that had been blessed as it was put on her finger at the altar. So she wore it into the surf when she and John waded in. Then they came out and sat on the sand, and John held her hand, and then somebody looked and she drew her hand away. The ring slipped off her wet finger and dropped on the sand right between them, and they both reached to pick it up, and it wasn't there. Boo-hoo!

It was the old, old tale. The speed with which the sand of the seashore can absorb small articles of great value is a mystery no one has yet satisfactorily explained.

In this case John was sitting right on the spot where the ring dropped, and couldn't the attendants bring shovels and rakes and recover it for her They brought sand rakes and went over the spot with great care, and one hundred feet of sand in addition in each direction, but they didn't find the ring.

It's not only the bathers who loss things on the beach. The many who sit in the beach chairs and pavilions, or who promenade along the line of the surf constantly add to the harvest of the sand Coins are dropped in the handling, and dress ornaments fall off, never to be recovered. Men's watch charms and lodge pins disappear in large numbers. Children at play on the beach shake off knickknacks of adornment that should have been left at home.

In fact, it's as well to leave all valuables at home when you're going to the beach, whether you're going into the water or not. Take enough money along to cover expenses, of course, for it's hard to find credit at resorts where the proprietors are out to get all that is coming to them in a hurry and in cash. But you don't need to take along $3,500 worth of jewelry, as Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Cavanaugh of Far Rockaway, L. I., did.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh went in bathing at Roche's pavilion late one afternoon. The gems were left with Miss Masterson, Mrs. Cavanaugh's sister, who did not go into the water. After their bath, Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh sat for awhile on the piazza of the bathing pavilion. The jewel bag was in its owner's lap. When she arose to start for home she forgot the receptacle and its valuable contents, which, it is supposed, must have dropped on the floor and been picked up by another patron of the place. Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh started home in their automobile. They had gone half way before they discovered the loss. They hurried back to the beach, but no trace of bag or jewelry could be found.

The beach crop is always harvested along with the pumpkins in the cool of October or the frost of November. The harvesters along New York's closest beaches are the-year-round Coney Islanders, who spend the hot months in quest of the coin brought by the swarms of pleasure-seekers who pass it over gladly, and when the thousands have passed on go back over the trail for the leavings. Armed with spades and sieves, a small army of gold and diamond seekers go over almost every foot of beach sand from Sea Gate to the Manhattan, paying particular attention to the stretches in front of bathing pavilions. At times the finds are fat; at others lean. But they are a patient people, these beach harvesters, and sifting sand is as good an occupation as any other in Coney's bleak days when the shutters are up on the man-eating lion's cage, and the barker's raucous voice is stilled.

ELKS REJOICE AT CONEY.

Grand Exalted Ruler Sullivan and Brooklyn Lodge 22 Have a Good Time.

It was Elks' Day at Coney Island yesterday, and despite the rain there were large crowds of visitors. At 7:30 P. M. the members of Brooklyn Lodge No. 22 landed at the Culver depot with their wives and families. The Luna Park band and a squad of mounted police met them and escorted them to Luna Park, Grand Exalted Ruler John P. Sullivan leading the procession, with Past Grand Exalted Ruler Garry Herrmann, the baseball magnate, in a carriage.

There was a reception in the Luna Park ballroom, and Mr. Sullivan made an address. Then everybody devoted himself to "doing the park" until 11 o'clock, when the Elks gathered in small parties to drink the customary toast to "absent brothers." All lights in Luna and in most of the restaurants on the island were dimmed while the toast was drunk, and the bands played "Auld Lang Syne."

Bresnahan and Coca-Cola

have Cardinal features in common. With Bresnahan in the game everybody is snappy, lively, "stick-to-itive." No leg weariness or brain slowness then. Same with Coca-Cola—its snap, vim, vigor and go make hot weather a joke; weariness a stranger and thirst only an excuse to quench it with the real palate tickler. So no wonder Bresnahan likes, drinks and recommends Coca-Cola.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, July 17.—The Naps broke two of their old-time hoodoos to-day and won their eighth straight game, defeating the New York Yankees in the third contest of the series by the score of 2 to 1.

Russell Ford, heretofore a stumbling block for the Naps, was defeated at last—Hoodoo No. 1, and then the Cleveland team won a game with a band in the stand—Hoodoo No. 2. The band belonged to the Maccabees, who are holding their National convention here. Members of the organization occupied a large part of the upper stands, and many of them rooted vainly for New York.

Ford and Cy Falkenberg engaged in a pitching duel distinguished by good work both in the box and in the field. Falkenberg allowed four hits and Ford six, and each had one bad inning when all the scoring was done. A base on balls helped defeat Ford and a wild pitch prevented Falkenberg from scoring a shutout. The Naps have taken three straight from the Yankees, tying New York and Boston for fourth place in the race will try hard to make a clean-up of the series, Krapp, the diminutive pitcher, being picked to pitch for the Naps to-morrow.

The Naps won the game in the first inning. Graney drew a base on balls and went to second base when Chase dropped the ball on Ford's attempt to catch the little Irishman napping. Olson went out on a fly to Knight, but Jackson doubled, sending Graney home. Stovall singled, sending Jackson home, the Southern star having taken second on the throw home to get Graney. Birmingham hit to Hartzell, who made a star catch of a liner and doubled Stovall at second base. After that the Naps did not have a chance to get a man to third base, Ford pitching gilt-edged ball and being backed by support that fairly glistened. Cree and Daniels killed off several hits by great work.

The Yankees scored their lonely run after two men were put out in the second inning. Cree and Knight fanned and Chase got a single. A wild pitch got him to second, from where he scored on Johnson's single. Johnson stole and Sweeney walked, but Falkenberg fanned Ford for the third strike-out of the inning.

From that time on the Yankees found Falkenberg even a harder nut to crack than Ford was for the Naps. In every inning except one from the second the Yanks went out in one, two, three order. In the fourth inning Chase got a clean two-sacker, but died at second base. In the eighth ining Lindsay, who was playing third base, fumbled Daniels's grounder long enough to give him a life, but Falkenberg caught the fleet fielder napping off first base for the third out.

Turner played second base in place of Ball, who has a sore leg, and did high-class work.

Coombs Breaks Long Tie in Game.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 17.—Coombs's home-run with a man on base in the fourteenth inning enabled Philadelphia to win from St. Louis to-day, by the score of 8 to 6. The visitors scored six runs to the locals' five in the first three innings. St. Louis tied the score in the seventh. Eight pitchers and three catchers were used in the game. The score:

Detroit Wins by Small Margin.

DETROIT, Mich., July 17.—Collins and Lafitte both pitched good ball to-day, but Crawford, who got one-half Detroit's hit total, sent out two of his drives with men on bases, and Detroit won, 3 to 2. Manager Donovan gave his line-up a severe shake-up and Boston played better ball. Both sides twice had bases full and failed to score. The score:

Chicago Captures a Double-Header from Tottering Bostons.

BOSTON, July 17.—Chicago won both games to-day, the first 5 to 1 and the second 7 to 6. In the first inning of the opening game a home run by Zimmerman following two passes netted enough runs to win, the locals not scoring until the final period. Hard hitting in the first inning of the second contest netted Chicago 5 runs. Boston bunched hits in the second, eighth, and ninth innings for two rus each time. In the last inning, with two out, Rariden tried to make third on Flaherty's hit to left, but was thrown out by Sheckard. The scores:

BOSTON NATIONALS SUSPEND PLAYERS

Herzog and Miller, Who Quit Team, Will Nurse Grievances at Home.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 17.—The defection in the ranks of the Boston National League team has not subsided, and both "Buck" Herzog and "Doc" Miller remain outside the fold, and if they live up to their expressed determination both will never play ball on the Rustlers' aggregation again, and perhaps not in organized baseball.

It was announced to-day that both recalcitrants had left here for their respective homes. They did not appear at the ball park to-day to see their teammates receive a double drubbing at the hands of the Cubs, but remained at their hotel packing for the trip home. President Russell to-day suspended both players indefinitely.

There does not appear to be any collusion between the pair of holdouts. President Russell, the New York owner of the club, admits that Miller is being paid a bush leaguer's salary. He added that he was willing to increase it, but was prevented from doing so by the Board of Directors. He spoke highly of Herzog, who, he said, had managerial aspirations and is a disturbing element.

It was said that Tenney had complained that Herzog had been a source of trouble to him, and that he enjoyed the reputation of being a trouble maker. This Herzog denies, and said that all he wanted was a square deal financially. He pointed out that his work was recognized all over the league as being of the top notch variety, and sententiously asked if figures lied. He said he would go back to his farm at Ridgeley, Md. Doc Miller also said that he would go West to practice medicine, and both men are evidently determined to remain outside the game.

President Russell said that he would refuse to sell Herzog, that the shortstop would either play with Boston or not play at all. Miller has been offered a number of propositions, but has refused them all.

TAYLOR MAY QUIT BASEBALL.

Rumor in Boston That Red Sox Club Owner Is Willing to Sell Team.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 17.—Boston fandom has been startled over the unexpected report that President John I. Taylor was ready to dispose of his local American League Club, and the news seemed incredible, but when he was interviewed he intimated that he was willing to sell the club. He qualified the statement, however, but there are many who are willing to believe that he is ready to get out of baseball.

When Mr. Taylor was asked about the truth of the story to-night he replied:

"All I have to say is that, in a business proposition, if I were offered enough money, I might be expected to sell."

"Will you say that a deal is pending?" he was asked.

"No, I won't say that," he said.

"Will you say that a deal is not pending?"

"No," he replied, "I won't say that, either."

"Then it may be assumed that there is a deal on to sell the club?"

"I can't say any more than I did at first," said Taylor.

"Who is looking for the club?" he was asked.

"I don't know that anybody is," he answered.

The hopes of Boston fans have been shattered because of the Red Sox present position in the present race. The team started off like a house afire at the start, but has been gradually slumping.

PRAISES SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Police Chief Cowles Says It Is Distinctly Helpful to the Moral Force.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—Sunday baseball by professional teams is a distinctly helpful moral force, according to Chief of Police Cowles of this city. In reply to a demand from church organizations that he suppress the Sunday games at Lighthouse Point, in the suburbs, Chief Cowles says:

"Sunday baseball by professionals will continue at Lighthouse Point so long as the game is conducted in an orderly manner, because it draws young men from the streets and lessens the number of arrests for drunkenness and disorder. Many young men are attracted to the shore by the Sunday games who would otherwise loiter on street corners, and from my own personal observation I know it lowers the number of cases in the courts Monday."

RAIN HELPS THE CUBS.

They Creep Up in Race When Giants and Phillies Are Stormbound.

Rain yesterday prevented the games between the Giants and Cincinnati at the Polo Grounds and Brooklyn and St. Louis at Washington Park. The Phillies were idle in Quakerville for the same reason. In the face of this inactivity opportunity knocked at the Cubs' door, and they opened the portal. They twice defeated Boston and shoved up closer to the first two teams.

Tie in Cricket League.

Van Cortlandt Park League cricketers have just completed half of their season's schedule, the Camerons and the Bronx United elevens being tied for first place, neither team having lost a game and each having eight wins to their credit. League's standing, including games of July 16:

POLO ON SLIPPERY FIELD.

Meadow Brook Magpies Defeat Philadelphia C. C., 9 to 8, at Cedarhurst.

Because the Philadelphia Country Club representatives had arranged to ship their ponies home last night they felt impelled to play off the final avent for the Rockaway Hunt Club cups against the Meadow Brook Magpipes yesterday, despite the fact that it was raining incessantly and the field was in such a soggy condition that it was absolutely dangerous to speed ponies over it. As matters turned out, however, not an accident of any kind occurred, an dthere was never even a slip on any of the turns when both teams were wound up to the zenith of enthusiasm. A. J. Drexel Paul, W. H. T. Huhn, Mitchell G. Rosengarten, and T. H. Dougherty, Jr., were the Quakers, and they took an allowance of 4 goals from Eugene S. Reynal, Raymond Belmont, John Cheever Codwin, and W. Goadby Loew, whose aggregate was 14. The latter, known as the Meadow Brook Magpies, won by a score of 10, less two halves—net 9 goals, as against 4 earned and 4 by handicap—total 8 on the Philadelphia score board.

BASEBALL NOTES.

As part of the deal whereby the Yankees allowed Wilbur Roach to go to the Jersey City team this year, Third Baseman Albert Dolan of the Skeeters will become the property of the Yankees at the close of the present season. The release of Roach was with the understanding that the Yankees be allowed to take their pick of the Jersey City players, and Dolan is the man selected.

Owner John I. Taylor of the Boston Americans has made an offer of $5,000 for "Tex" Jones, first baseman of the St. Joseph (Mo.) team of the Western League. Jones was purchased by the Chicago Americans last Fall, but was returned to the Western League at the beginning of the present season. The Boston offer is regarded with favor, and the deal will most likely be completed.

Manager Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati team has turned "Davy" Altizer back to the Minneapolis team of the American Association. It was Altizer's great work with this club last season which gained him this latest trial in major league society. He will join the team at once.

There is a strong feeling among those high in Yale baseball affairs that "Johnny" Evers will be secured to coach the Yale team next Spring. Prominent graduates are interested in the move, which seems to be meeting general favor among Yale men, and it is expected that an offer will soon be made to Evers. "Billy" Lush had had such little success in developing championship teams at the New Haven university that a new coach next season appears a certainty. The old theory of graduate coaching is again having its inning, but few regard it seriously in view of the fact that practically all colleges are now looking with favor on the professional system.

Pitcher Sherry, who did the box work for the Washington team in one of the games in the recent series between the Senators and Yankees on the hilltop, has been turned over to the Providence Club. His first game with the Eastern League tail-enders was a victory for his team.

President Comiskey of the White Sox has purchased Outfielder Ray Powell of the St. Joseph team of the Western League. The purchase price was $5,000. Powell is hitting above the .300 mark and leads the league in stolen bases. He will not join the White Sox until the close of the Western League season.

During his recent scouting expedition Manager Hugh Duffy of the Chicago Americans was attracted by the work of Third Baseman Paddock of the Dubuque team of the Western League, and his name has also been added to the White Sox family. He will finish the present season with Dubuque.

"Charley" Hickman, one of the greatest batsmen the game has produced and a player who has had extensive experience in several big league cities, is due for a drop to some small minor league club. Hickman has been with Toledo since his last major league service, and every club in the American Association has graned the waivers recently asked. Hickman has batted at a .372 clip this season, but his legs have gone back on him to such an extent he is now of little value except as a pinch hitter.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Connecticut League held at New Haven yesterday the season was extended one day, closing on Sunday, Sept. 10, instead of Saturday, Sept. 9.

"Johnny" Kling evidently does not figure that his release has weakened the Cubs to any great extent. In a recent interview "Johnny" picked the Cubs to win the pennant this year because "Chance has not a weak spot on the club." Kling adds that the Giants are likely to give the Cubs a battle, but he expects Chance's men will win out because they have it on the New Yorkers in aggressiveness and hitting and pitching. As for Philadelphia, Kling compliments Dooin on his hitting team, but says "Red" cannot hope to win the pennant with only Alexander and Moore to depend on, because they cannot and will not hold out. In conclusion, "Johnny" remarks that he is not trying to make himself solid with Chicago fans.

KALAMAZOO RACES IN STRAIGHT HEATS

C. The Limit Makes Fastest Time in Grand Circuit Events.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 17.—With almost ideal weather conditions prevailing, the Grand Circuit races started here to-day. Good time, on a track considered to be exceptionally fast, was made in all the races. The attendance was only fair. The best time made at Indianapolis last week, 2:04¼, was twice equaled to-day in the 2:07 pace, and horsemen predict that before the week is over new records will be made here.

The first heat of the 2:15 trot was a pretty race, the horses being closely bunched nearly all the way. Lewis Forest got away with a good lead, but broke at the first quarter, giving The Huguenot a lead maintained to the end of the heat.

The second heat was a procession, The Huguenot leading all the way. At the finish Charlie Mitchell slightly crowded Lewis Forest for second place. In this race John Benyon drove The Huguenot for Geers. The third heat was almost the same story as the second, The Huguenot winning easily.

To-day's best time was made in the 2.07 pace Class, C., The Limit going both miles in 2:04¼. Ginger, one of the sensations at Indianapolis, had a bad day, finishing the race well down the list.

In the 2:07 trot, Dudie Archdale had an easy time winning, Geers never being forced to drive hard. Dudie Archdale last year made a record on this track for 5-year-old mares, her record being 2:06¾.

In all three heats of the 2:15 pace Sister Florentine got away with a good lead, but she could not hold out, finally finishing outside the money. Brenham Baughman went to the front when ready and won in straight heats. The summaries:

Conflicting Statements on To-night's Bout.

The Twentieth Century A. C. announced yesterday that the bout between Joe Jeannette and Porky Flynn, scheduled for to-night at St. Nicholas Rink, would be put on as advertised as the feature event of its show. On the other hand, Joe Woodman, manager of Flynn, speaks differently. Woodman announced in Boston last night that he had wired the club officials asking that the bout be postponed. He gave no particular reason for his demand, but evidently figures that his man is not in proper condition at the present time for a bout with the clever negro. Woodman was positive in his declaration that Flynn would not appear against Jeannette here to-night.

Wilmington Team Coming Here.

The crack team from Wilmington, Del., which recently defeated the Metropolitans, will cross bats with the Lincoln Giants at Olympic Field, 136th Street and Fifth Avenue, on Thursday afternoon. This is ladies' day at Olympic Field, and Manager Red McMahon has arranged to have a band concert for his patrons before and during the game. Buckner, who has not lost a game this season, will pitch for the Lincolns.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

George McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, and Emil Thiery, manager of Packey McFarland, yesterday signed an agreement for a ten-round bout between Wells and McFarland before the Badger A. C. of Milwaukee during the last week of August, probably on Aug. 28. The boxers will weigh in at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock. McDonald last night sent $500 to the Milwaukee promoters, $250 for weight and $250 for appearance. McDonald has given up all hope of getting a match for his champion against Wolgast.

Battling Nelson and Lonnie Austin of the Seattle Athletic Club have been signed up for a ten-round bout at Aberdeen to-morrow night.

Cyclone Johnny Thompson has answered Billy Papke's demand for a side bet for their proposed twenty-round bout at New Orleans next Fall. Thompson agrees to a $1,500 side bet if Papke agrees to make 158 pounds ringside and will post the money immediately. Otherwise he will take Papke on at any weight, but with no side bet.

Champion Ad Wolgast, who announced that he would engage in no more bouts until his fight with Freddie Welsh in November, now states that he will probably figure in at least one ten-round bout. But it is not to be against any lightweight of the top rank.

Tom Kennedy, the former amateur heavyweight champion, has decided to turn his hand to the professional game, and is now training with Willie Lewis at Savin Rock. Kennedy's first bout as a professional will be against Al Palzer at the National Sporting Club on Aug. 4.

Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion, is planning a tour through England in the Fall. Johnny has become excited over the big purses offered to Jack Johnson, and decided to get in on a slice of the big money. He figures on a bout with Digger Stanley as the big contest while on the other side. Coulon has never fought outside of the United States, and considers that he would be a big drawing card in England.

Johnny Thompson, who is billed to clash with Willie Lewis before the National Sporting Club on July 27, is doing light training now at his home in Sycamore, Ill. He expects to arrive in New York to complete his training about July 20.

Matchmaker Jimmy Kelly of the Brooklyn Beach A. C. has secured Young Wagner, the east side bantam, and Jim Kendricks of England for the star bout of next Monday night's show at his club. Kendricks received the newspaper decision over Wagner in their last bout.

Andy Morris arrived in New York yesterday for his match with Jim Savage at Brown's gymnasium to-night. Savage has been training hard at his home in Orange to even the score for his last defeat by Harris, and says he will have no excuse to offer if he is defeated this time. The winner of this bout will probably be matched with Al Kubiak. Joe Phillips and Young Terry will do the honors in the semi-final. Terry claims the distinction of never having been knocked out or even knocked off his feet.

Jimmy Mitchen and Dick Howell complete their hard training to-day for their ten-round bout which will feature to-morrow night's show at the Long Acre A. C. The pair came together a short time ago and the result was a draw. The winner will be matched with Billy West for a bout at the Long Acre Club within the next two weeks. The usual preliminary card of a six-round semi-final and four four-round bouts will precede the main event.

Philadelphia lightweights will be the headliners in Thursday night's show at the National Sporting Club. The contenders in the main bout will be Young Nitchie, who holds a high rank in the lightweight class, and Young Loughery, brother of Frank Loughery, who recently fought Kid Henry before the same club. The youngster is a slugging and aggressive fighter, and many Quaker City experts figure him as a coming champion of his class.

Champion Frank Gotch began active training last week for his title match with George Hackenschmidt at Chicago on Labor Day. Gotch has secured Youssouf Hussane, a giant Turk, to act as his wrestling partner during his training. Hackenschmidt has just finished the work of equipping a gymnasium at Shoreham, England, and expects to begin hard training within a few days.

Matchmaker Tom O'Rourke of the National Sporting Club announces that he will stage another elimination white hope tournament at the club on Thursday, Aug. 11. The recent tournament was such a big success from a boxing standpoint that many of the members have asked for a second tournament.

White "30" five-passenger fore-door model

1912 The White Announcement 1912

THE White Company announce their complete line of gasoline-driven motor cars for the season of 1912. The White line for 1912 is rendered very complete by the addition of a new six-cylinder, sixty-horsepower car, with cylinders cast en bloc, engine of the long-stroke type, and all the general characteristics retained which have marked the White gasoline construction from the beginning.

The models for the coming season follow:

"30" five-passenger model, fore-door torpedo body, 34" x 4" tires, $2250
"40" five-passenger model, fore-door torpedo body, 36" x 4½" tires, 3300
"40" seven-passenger model, fore-door torpedo body, 36" x 4½" tires, 3500
"60" six-cylinder, seven-passenger model, fore-door torpedo body, 37" x 5" tires, 5000

On these various chassis, in addition to the touring bodies, enclosed bodies may be obtained as follows:

Limousine, on a 30-horsepower chassis $3800
Landaulet, on a 30-horsepower chassis 3800
Limousine, on a 40-horsepower chassis 4700
Landaulet, on a 40-horsepower chassis 4700
Berline Limousine, on a 40-horsepower chassis 5000
Limousine, on a 60-horsepower chassis 6200
Landaulet, on a 60-horsepower chassis 6200

THE MORE HASTE THE LESS SPEED WITH SUBWAYS.

Mr. MITCHEL promised yesterday to move to-day that the contract for the construction of the Triborough route should be awarded to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and that the Interborough negotiations should be dropped because of the exorbitant terms demanded. If it were a jury trial Mr. MITCHEL could "hang" the jury. The Board of Estimate is not a jury, and Mr. MITCHEL may be outvoted. There seems no other course, for his mind is not open to argument.

This appears from his preference for the Triborough route because of the Interborough's demand for $11,250,000 as a "preferential." Mr. MITCHEL figures out that by 1930 this > would pay not only the full dividends on the preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan, but also a dividend on the common stock—9 per cent. on the old and 9 per cent. on the new stock.

What has that to do with the merits of the bargain? The sole question is whether the city is paying too dear, not what use the Interborough makes of the money. President MCANENY has been quoted as saying rightly that he did not care whether the Interborough used the money to pay dividends or to buy peanuts. But to Mr. MITCHEL's mind it is more important that those obnoxious dividends should not be paid than that the city should receive what the city can not secure otherwise at any price, and what its welfare demands almost regardless of price.

As a matter of fact the Interborough could not offer terms which would be reasonable in Mr. MITCHEL's opinion. It is sure that the terms which he condemns are better than his alternative. the "preferential" which so affronts his sense of economy is not something to be paid by the city. It is infinitely surer to be earned from farepayers than the like sum by the Triborough, which he would gladly build without an operator in sight, after a demonstration that no private operator would take it as a gift. The refusal of the "preferential" to the Interborough, therefore, is the assumption of the risk by the city, plus the greater cost of construction for an inferior subway. It is necessary to admit that the sum named is large, but it is not large in comparison with the enterprise, nor in the method by which it is calculated. The cost of the capital must be paid, of course, and something must be allowed for the services of the operator. The amount of the capital and the rate of compensation are matters for arrangement, but must be considered in connection with something which can not be written in the bond.

The contract with the Interborough must relate merely to the traffic of the subway. But the city is more concerned with the effect on tax values through the facilitating of travel. A first-class subway, on the right route, can hardly be too dear, or even dear at all. On the other hand, a badly routed subway, built slowly from tax money, at the city's risk, not only of financial loss, but also of stagnated tax valuations, can not be considered cheap at any price.

THE TRAFFIC SQUAD.

The new three-platoon law stirred up some conflict of opinion while it was under discussion in the Legislature, and its enactment has not brought all men into agreement upon the point whether it is a good thing or a bad thing for the police force and for public order. But there are no differences of opinion, in quarters where opinions worthy of respect may be formed, as to the effect of the new law upon the traffic squad and the bridge squad and the harbor squad. Its effect there will be distinctly bad and disorganizing. A bill to exempt these squads from the operation of the law has made some progress in the Legislature and is now in the Cities Committee of the Senate, which displays some reluctance about reporting it for further consideration and passage.

It ought to be reported and passed at once. The city authorities, including the Police Commissioner and the members of the police squads we have mentioned, approve the purpose of the bill and desire its passage. Any interference with the traffic squad, in particular, would be mischievous. The policemen who regulate traffic in the public streets are very much in the eye of the people and the people are proud of them. The traffic squad does its work in a manner that is efficient and admirable, not merely in thoroughfares like Fifth Avenue and Broadway and the principal cross streets, but along the water front, where there is at times a very great congestion of traffic. That the traffic policemen enable pedestrians to get across the street in safety is the least part of their work. They keep the streets and avenues open by keeping the traffic moving. Without them there would be infinite confusion and a hopeless tangle and blockade of street vehicles. There is perhaps no commercial city in the world where trucks, drays, and loaded vehicles of all kinds have freer movement than in those streets of New York where they are most numerous.

In a matter of this importance the Legislature should, without question, pay heed to authoritative opinion in this city. We do not know what influence has been exerted upon the Cities Committee of the Senate to keep it from reporting the bill, but whatever that influence may be the committee should disregard it. The unanimous opinion of public officials and commercial bodies in New York that are entitled to speak upon this subject ought to have greater weight with the committee than any personal or political opinion. The bill amending the three-platoon law should be reported at once.

THACKERAY.

WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY was born 100 years ago to-day. "Vanity Fair," esteemed the greatest of all English novels, and holding its own bravely in spite of changes of taste and the shifting vagaries of criticism, was published thirty-six years later, and THACKERAY died nearly half a century ago. We may observe the semi-centennial of his death, if we care to, two years hence. Men who are still fairly active in the affairs of the world can remember "Vanity Fair" as a new book. Its author lived a busy life. As artist, journalist, magazine editor, essayist, versifier, and novelist he filled the years, after a youth of gay irresponsibility, with hard work.

Yet the books which come into mind when his name is mentioned, his indisputable master work and "Pendennis," "The Newcomes," and "Henry Esmond," belong to a brief period. Much else that he wrote was worthy. "The Virginians" lacks only a little the vitality and interest of its greater predecessors. For our own part we still cherish the discursive "Philip," the fragmentary "Denis Duval," the Roundabout Papers, and the observations of Mr. Jeames Yellowplush more highly than much else of lasting fame in English literature. "Barry Lyndon" is a novel of equal merit with the best of one of THACKERAY's most popular contemporaries, WILLIAM HARRISON AINSWORTH, and certainly superior in observation and contrivance to many of BULWER LYTTON's highly esteemed works. But the enduring fame of THACKERAY, the fame we are all celebrating with heartfelt acknowledgments to-day, rests on those four imperishable works in which his genius was most strongly manifested, in which his boundless human sympathy, his keen comprehension of his fellow-men, his observation of social life, his rich humor, and his irony have full play. They were accounted the greatest English novels in the hour of their birth, they are unapproachable to-day as portrayals of English character and manners in the nineteenth century.

We need not drop into the formula of criticism in remarking upon this notable literary anniversary. THACKERAY bore his share of adverse criticism in his lifetime, and much has been since bestowed upon him. Even in the tributes inspired by the centenary we find him now and then accused of cynicism. Yet only a quarter century ago a group of youngsters, who had inscribed upon their standard the well-honored name of the author of "Richard Feverel" and "The Egoist," called THACKERAY a "sentimentalist," and fancied that they spoke the last word. Neither charge is well founded. MEREDITH has his following and deserves all the praise he gets. GEORGE ELIOT, of whom it was once the fashion to say that she had lifted the English novel to a higher plane of philosophy and art than her predecessors had reached, may still be read; assuredly "Romola" and "The Mill on the Floss" ought never to be neglected. As for the once inevitable comparison between DICKENS and THACKERAY, now chiefly interesting to the incurably juvenile mind, it was always futile. The prodigious genius of DICKENS and his command alike of humor and pathos are not in question. Lord ROSEBERY, praising THACKERAY at the Charterhouse centenary, took occasion to state, sadly, that Amelia Sedley was a "failure." Amelia is to-day, on the one hundredth anniversary of her creator's birth, a living human entity, as real and true a woman as we ever meet in life. Narrow, unimaginative, perverse, silly—even a "bore" perhaps—but surely not, in the artistic sense, a "failure." What would Lord ROSEBERY say in appreciation of some of DICKENS's women, Lady Dedlock, for instance; Esther Summerson, Agnes Wickfield, Miss Wade? But ROSEBERY would doubtless decline to argue from that point of view.

The style of THACKERAY—almost matchless in English fiction—puzzled the commentators, too. It was indisputable and irresistible. It was, in short, style. Yet how could it be so compelling, when its author was obviously careless, in certain moods, when he defied the canons, and wrote, or seemed to write, as the whim dictated? The style remains, clear, buoyant, charming, and the obvious peculiarities which never marred it have become as the delightful foibles of a dear friend. In fact, in keeping the centenary of THACKERAY, all that one has to do is to think of the man and be grateful that he lived for a brief span of years, to give so much cheer and inspiration to the world of his readers, to quicken human insight, soften the asperities of life, and to portray the common joys and sorrows, the vulgarities and meannesses, the penalties of greed, the sacrifices, ambitions, and prejudices of his era with so great tenderness and verity. All the old anecdotes have been told again, in view of the anniversary; hidden Thackeray manuscripts, of no great value, but welcome as reminders of the man, have been brought to light and published.

That genial, gentle personality which bore affliction and reverse so bravely, which found so much enjoyment in the humbler comforts of life, has been effectively revivified many times. The personages of his vast "theatre" have been arranged across the stage and generously extolled. Once again Colonel Newcome, Gentle Rebecca, Joe Sedley, Warrington, Captain Costigan, Major Pendennis, Mrs. O'Dowd, Beatrix, Laura, Helen, and "My lady," the Fotheringay, Pitt Crawley, Barnes Newcome, and the Osbornes have had their day in court. But they are rarely far out of the minds of the generation that was "brought up" on Thackeray, and we like to think that they gain new appreciation as the years roll on.

CANDIDATES WILL PLEASE TAKE THE STAND.

Mr. W. J. BRYAN's Commoner has obligingly supplied to the press and to the electorate a series of questions to be put to gentlemen "who are in the attitude of candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination." Mr. BRYAN's publisher hopes that if the special questions do not meet with approval those who receive them "will pardon the intrusion which was caused by an earnest desire to promote the cause of true Democracy." Certainly, Democrats in many States might be inclined to put a question or two to Mr. BRYAN. He has just been roundly denounced as a traitor and a bolter by the Democratic Convention of Douglas County in his own State. The resolutions adopted by that convention deplored and condemned "the action of him who, having repeatedly received the loyal support of the Democratic Party of Nebraska, turned treacherously upon it in its hour of need and accomplished its defeat." Out of 600 delegates only three voted against this resolution. It might be asked what authority Mr. BRYAN has to concern himself about "the cause of true Democracy," when his own neighbors and those who have been among his most active supporters feel called upon to impale him with such a resolution.

However, it is as an examiner, not as a witness, that Mr. BRYAN appears in court with his Commoner questions. Most of them are easy even for the least experienced candidate. Any Democrat could answer his tariff question off-hand. When he asks, "Do you believe that the three branches of the Government are co-ordinate and that each one should keep within its constitutional sphere?" we imagine that most candidates would say yes without much hesitation. The Constitution will back them up in their affirmative answer. Mr. BRYAN's motive in putting this simple query appears when he challenges each and every candidate to say whether he approves "the recent Standard Oil decision wherein the United States Supreme Court legislated the word 'unreasonable' into the Sherman Anti-Trust act." Any man with a bee in his bonnet would be privileged to answer that the Supreme Court did nothing of the kind; that it read nothing into the act, but merely performed its judicial duty by giving a reasonable construction to the act, the first it has ever received. Only the lawyers will be upset by Mr. BRYAN's next question, "Do you believe that, in view of the Supreme Court legislation, Congress should make it clear that all restraint of trade is unreasonable?" Congress did make that perfectly clear in the act of 1890. Any and every restraint of trade is "unreasonable" and Congress did very properly make it unlawful. The lawyers, however, whose minds have been muddled by years of futile effort to draw the distinction between reasonable and unreasonable restraints of trade, a distinction which cannot possibly exist, will be troubled by this question. Mr. BRYAN himself, as he shows in an article he has recently written upon the Standard Oil decision, has less understanding of what the act means and what the decision means than any candidate possibly could have.

"Do you favor the income tax?" is one of Mr. BRYAN's questions, and "Do you believe in the support of State Governments in all their rights?" is another. No man who believed in one could believe in the other. He must either cleave to the income tax and forsake the rights of the States, or vice versa. There is a question concerning the "Aldrich currency scheme," another as to asset currency, and a third about the central bank. Probably the answer to these questions that would be received with most peculiar favor by Mr. BRYAN would be a frank reply that the candidate believed in the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver at 16 to 1. Inasmuch as he puts in a question relating to the immediate independence of the Filipinos, we see no reason why he should omit his other favorite doctrine.

We all know how Mr. BRYAN would answer his own questions, but he has not yet admitted that he is "in the attitude of a candidate." We also know how the genuine Democrat, like Gov. HARMON, would answer some of the Bryan questions. But Gov. HARMON's name was omitted from Mr. BRYAN's list of availables. That spares him the necessity of taking the witness stand.

RESPONSIBILITY DIVIDED, NOT LESSENED.

All that the general public and the newspapers knew with any definiteness up to the end of last week about the existence of cholera in Italy was what they could deduce from the fact that most of the steamers bringing immigrants thence arrived here with cases of the disease on board, and with reports of deaths, usually described as "suspicious," occurring at sea. From this it was clear enough that there was something like a cholera epidemic in several of the Italian cities. The absence of published reports from them naturally created the impression that the Italian Government was violating its international obligations and pledges by following the evil old policy of suppression in the interest of "business," tourist and other.

The resentment and criticism thus caused were not, it now appears, fully justified, for with mysterious reluctance the authorities at Washington now make the belated announcement that they have been kept fully informed of what was happening in Italy, and that their protective measures were taken with a complete knowledge of all the circumstances, derived from official sources as well as from their own agents abroad.

This information, while reassuring, and while freeing the Italian Government and sanitarians from the gravest charges that have been made against them, divides rather than decreases responsibility for the concealment from the public of facts which the public certainly had a right to know. Presumably the United States has been as well protected from infection as it could have been had the newspapers been permitted to print daily reports of deaths and cases from Naples, Venice, Palermo, and the other Italian cities, but the hundreds and hundreds of Americans for whom Italy is the great attraction of a foreign journey have had almost no warning of the dangers they would encounter there, and, being without that warning, those dangers have been very appreciably increased.

Why the Italian Government wanted to keep the cholera news within strictly official circles, at home and abroad, is easily comprehensible, especially when one notes the fierce dissatisfaction which has been aroused in Naples by the quarantine regulations enforced there. That is an excuse, though a poor one, but it is not even an explanation of concealment here, and the talk about not wanting to alarm people unnecessarily is mere nonsense. We all had a right to exercise our own judgment on the facts, and to be alarmed or not, as we chose.

We note with satisfaction Mr. BULGER's disclaimer of the mischievous stuff printed on Sunday as the report of a pretended interview with him. But we think the public interest requires that Mr. BULGER should consider, and that Gov. DIX should consider, the propriety of adjourning for a time the inquiry into the administration of the Health Office of the Port. With cases of cholera on Swinburne Island and with ships arriving from infected Italian ports, the present moment does not seem to be a proper or a propitious one for diverting the Health Officer's attention from his important duties.

If Dr. DOTY has done or permitted to be done things that merit censure and punishment there will be time enough to attend to his case when all danger from cholera has passed. Meanwhile the exclusion of cholera is a matter of graver public concern than the purchase of hydrangeas for some as yet unascertained amateur of that shrub.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Victim of the Lightning. There is hardly a trace of probability, if even of possibility, in the suggestion that Mr. JOHNSON, the newly appointed Solicitor of the Navy Department, who was killed by lightning on the golf course of the Chevy Chase Country Club, was struck because he carried his midiron over his shoulder as he walked across the field. Something or other, doubtless, made that particular "bolt" hit where it did, instead of a few feet or rods or miles away, but it could hardly have been the minute quantity of metal that formed a part of the club he was carrying. Other golfers have done hundreds and hundreds of times exactly what he was doing, and done it not before a thunderstorm arrived, but during its progress, and nothing has happened to them.

Indeed, the common assumption that metals, and especially steel or iron, "attract" lightning is based on most inadequate evidence, if it has any at all to support it, while there is much to warrant the belief that proximity to masses of metal is protective, and the more protective the larger the masses. We have yet to hear of an automobile that was struck by lightning, and railway trains are also apparently immune, the one supplying the condition of nearness to insulated metal and the other of nearness to it in conditions where the conductivity is good. Steel-framed buildings often have their wooden flagpoles splintered by lightning, and an instance can be recalled in which a few stones were dislodged from the coping of such a structure, but never once has an occupant of them been even slightly injured.

All the popular notions as to lightning are vitiated by the delusion that the thunderbolt is a definite something that comes down from the clouds. This inherited idea makes us think that we can see the lightning move from one part of the sky to another, but the direction, if there be any when the restoration of electrical equilibrium takes place, is as much one way as the other. Not without reason it is considered dangerous to stand under trees during thunderstorms, and yet the world is full of big trees that have stood, often in the most "exposed" positions, for fifty or a hundred years without being struck, and under any of them one could have stood all that time in what was perfect safety.

Mr. JOHNSON was not under a tree—he was out in the open, where everybody says the peril is least if one cannot be under cover, and the truth is that not even the wisest scientist can do more than guess why he was struck.

Convicted Him of Innocence. Lawyers whose clients have been convicted by finger-print evidence still have a little hope, especially when the conviction is for murder and means capital punishment, that some higher court can be persuaded to declare these mute witnesses incompetent. This expectation approaches nearer and nearer to the vanishing point every day, however, and nobody who knows anything about identification by finger-prints has any real doubt that such identifications, humanly speaking, are complete and indubitable.

There exists, of course, the possibility that there have been, are, or some day will be, two men with fingers marked by exactly the same lines. The number of these lines is finite, and finite are the mutations as to form and arrangement of which they are susceptible. Duplication of them is therefore in theory a present possibility and a future certainty if the race lasts long enough. Herein is involved the chance that some day finger-prints, standing alone, might convict an innocent man. Even that chance is too small to measure, and almost as small is the chance that they ever will be the only evidence which a man charged with a grave crime has to meet. As corroboration they leave no question at all, practically, when the accused cannot establish a convincing alibi.

The trustworthiness of finger-prints as evidence was curiously illustrated by the story of JAMES DOWDELL, in this paper yesterday. DOWDELL wanted, for private reasons, to get into the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, and he attained his end by surrendering himself as one HUNGATE, a deserter. He was accepted and locked up, but when in the regular prison routine his finger-prints were taken and sent to the War Department for filing, it was noticed that they did not correspond with those of HUNGATE, already there. A little investigation disclosed who DOWDELL really was, and as there is no legal penalty for the very uncommon deception of which the man had been guilty the only punishment that could be inflicted on him was to turn him out of the prison he had taken such pains to enter.

In other words, for once the finger-prints convicted a man of innocence, and in this case nobody suggests that an appeal be taken.

NOT FOR INTERVENTION.

Editor of Havana Paper Says He Is Out of Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The first thought that occurred to me upon reading this morning's newspaper regarding a conspiracy to provoke a new American intervention in Cuba, in which I appear to take a prominent part, was that the President himself does not believe in that conspiracy. He knows better than any one else and has proofs of it that I live without any thought whatsoever concerning the Cuban Government.

I can say this, because after knowing perfectly well who and what the men in charge of the Cuban Government are, I believed that the most practical thing to do was to live without any care whatsoever regarding the matters in which they might be interested.

The news published states that the Government has proof that there have been plans for some time past to provoke a new intervention, and in these plans they state that I am one of the initiators. I am absolutely ignorant of such a situation, but if it is true that Gen. Gomez has proofs it would be advisable for him to send them to the courts, in view of the fact that conspiring against the republic constitutes an offense which is provided for by our Penal Code.

The only thing that I can do, therefore, although the independence of the Cuban courts does not inspire me with any respect, is to go to Cuba and submit myself to their verdict.

I am not aware whether the other parties accused have any plans on hand as they have not asked me to join them, which, without any doubt, is due to the fact that they are very familiar with my opinion regarding the Cuban Government and those who want to substitute another for it.

ANTONIO SAN MIGUEL,
Editor of La Lucha, Havana.

Legislators' Wives.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Senator Hinman is reported to have explained his vote against equal suffrage by saying: "When I go home I do not want to be met at the door with a political discussion from my wife."

Senator Hinman's wife has just as much legal right to meet him at the door with a political discussion now as she would have had if the suffrage bill had been carried. It would be an effort to exert her "indirect influence" by talking to her husband at home. Moreover, it would be strictly in line with the precepts of the Anti-Suffrage Association, which says that women must not vote, but that it is their duty to influence their husbands to vote right.

Many years ago, before women were made eligible to serve on school boards, a Massachusetts anti-suffragist sturdily declared that, when a man came home tired from his business at night, he did not want to kiss a member of the school board or an overseer of the poor. Public opinion has now so entirely changed that the late President of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women (Mrs. J. Elliot Cabot) served for years in Brookline both as a member of the school board and as an overseer of the poor. Senator Hinman's mind seems to be still living in that prehistoric era.

When equal suffrage comes—and I hope he may live to see it—he and the other Senators will find the conversation of their wives just as pleasant as they do to-day, and perhaps even more so, just as the husbands of feminine holders of educational and charitable offices find them no less agreeable women, wives, and mothers than in the days when school children and paupers had to be under exclusively masculine care.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the article on the "First Battle of Bull Run" in the Magazine Section of THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sunday, July 16, the following may be of interest and give food for thought.

In the Federal army of about 30,000 men there were only about 800 regular troops—8 companies of infantry, 7 troops of cavalry, 6 or 7 batteries of artillery, and a battalion of marines. The fact that this handful of trained men covered the retreat of the Federal army, and was "wholly unaffected by the rout," may be substantiated by referring to authorities such as John Codman Ropes and Emory Upton.

RUSSIA'S DEFENSE.

Well to Show It, Says Bernstein, for It Defeats Itself.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have received numerous letters requesting me to answer "A Veteran Diplomat's" article on the Russian-American passport question. Some of my correspondents were even kind enough to send me suggestions as to how various points of that article should be answered.

As "A Veteran Diplomat," in his "Other Side of the Passport Question," though a reply to my article on the subject in THE TIMES, did not refute a single one of my statements of fact, I do not think it necessary to answer in detail. "A Veteran Diplomat," who is usually a well-informed and graceful writer, has blundered this time. Every statement he has made in his article is a misstatement, and every point a point against himself.

I stated upon the best authority that Russia is violating the terms of her treaty with the United States by discriminating against American citizens on religious grounds and that the Russian Government has for years been deceiving the State Department in Washington by various clumsy fictions and meaningless promises. These points were not touched by "A Veteran Diplomat." Instead, he has lauded the Czar as a liberal and a friend of the Jews. This is too childish and too ridiculous to be taken seriously.

It is but necessary to recall that it was the Czar himself who pardoned every one of the instigators and organizers of the massacres of the Jews after they had been convicted by Russian courts and sentenced to imprisonment; it is but necessary to recall that Russkoye Znamya, (Russian Banner,) the vilest anti-Jewish sheet ever published, the organ of the Black Hundreds in which the list of these pardons was published almost daily, has been supported financially by the Czar himself—and every fair-minded person will realize the astonishing misrepresentations by this defender of the Czar. But then there is no other way of defending Russia's attitude in this matter.

I think THE TIMES was fair in publishing Russia's side of this question. The arguments advanced by the defenders of the Russian Government in this matter defeat themselves.

ANSWERS TARIFF LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The American Protective Tariff League has been sending me letters urging me to write to Congressmen to vote against reciprocity. I am a Republican and a supporter of the Taft plan of protection. I believe the following reply to the American Protective Tariff League letter represents the sentiments of the majority of business men in this section. I have heard no opposition to reciprocity here except from a few Granger officials.

D. E. CLAPP.

Auburn, N. Y., July 15, 1911.

Mr. William Barber, President, American Protective Tariff League, New York:

Dear Sir: Your circular letter of July 11 urging me to write Congressmen to oppose the Canadian Reciprocity Treaty has been received. If I were to write any letter I would advise them to pass the bill and adjourn as soon as possible. I believe the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill would be a great advantage to both countries, and that the injury to people on this side of the line would be very slight, if any. I am decidedly in favor of the programme of President Taft, and believe that if the Republican Party is to be saved from utter defeat it will be by following his course rather than the American Protective Tariff League, which does not seem to have learned anything from the last election. If any United States Senators have, as you say, asked to be released from their promise to vote for Canadian reciprocity, I am confident that they would not care to have their names published in the papers. I do not believe anything can stop reciprocity from going through, and I think your efforts to interfere will be about as successful as those of Mrs. Partington with her broom. Yours very truly,

D. E. CLAPP.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I'd like to answer the question of that man who wished to know why girls don't like serious-minded men. One reason is such men are almost invariably bores. They go to a girl's house, wear out her parlor chairs and sofas, take up all her time talking about themselves and their grievances, and in return—give nothing. They think copious draughts of their society more than compensates the girl. Have you, Mr. Editor, ever been obliged to entertain a bore? I know you have—all of us have—so you can understand why girls don't long passionately for the society of serious-minded men. Why don't such men seek the women of their kind. But, no, they don't; they seek the brightest, cheeriest girls because they want some one to give them a good time. And why, pray, shouldn't girls also want some one who will give them a good time? Gay youth seeks gay youth the world over. Let serious youths seek serious maidens—who will gladly and patiently sit for hours listening to dry, dull facts.

The English Team's Victory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In one of the evening papers I read that a Yankee had beaten the American team, thus implying that the victories of the other members of the English team counted for nothing. The article went on to say that the English victories were very poor ones, and were caused by the Americans being under the weather; but the American victories were glorious.

Suppose the English newspapers had written that the polo match was lost because the Englishmen were under the weather, and that the American goals were very poorly won, &c., what an outcry there would have been against British sportsmanship. Furthermore, do the British claim the honor for all the victories won for the States by Irishmen?

No, the Englishmen did not object to the "Western Yankee" "butting in," because they play their games for sport's sake, and not only for the sake of winning.

Pension Legislation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The game of battledore and shuttlecock which both political parties are playing with pension legislation is not at all creditable. That such an iniquity should be allowed any consideration is a disgrace. The Republicans should have killed it when they were in power; the Democrats should kill it now that they have the authority. A pusillanimity is exhibited that does not augur well for the country. The Democrats should exhibit courage and do what they know to be right and rely upon the country to sustain them. Such action would inevitably strengthen them in the confidence of the people. Courage for the right always commands respect. Continually playing for party advantage is not always a wise course.

It is a great opportunity for the Democrats, and it is a pity they do not avail of it.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Not long since you referred to a paper issued by the United States Department of Agriculture treating of the prevention and cure of the mosquito pest. The Mint Julep.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Isn't there a mistake in your editorial article concerning the julep? MONEY FOR OFFICIALS IN FIREWORKS GRAFT

Fosdick Finds the Cost of Fourth of July Displays $31,630, and Value $13,800.

CENSURES ALDERMAN MARX

Commissioner of Accounts Thinks It Was Improper for Him to Accept a Free Display at Summer Home.

Commissioner of Accounts Raymond B. Fosdick handed in to Mayor Gaynor yesterday the report on his investigation into the award of contracts for supplying and setting off fireworks for the city's Fourth of July celebration. It was alleged that city officials profited largely through these contracts, and another investigation is now pending by the Board of Aldermen.

Contracts for fireworks, said the Commissioner, were awarded without regard to the programmes submitted or the professional standing of the competing firms. He also finds that the United Fireworks Company was recommended by Alderman Marx without adequate inquiry as to its ability to perform the contract, and that the city, for an agreed payment of $31,630 for fireworks displayed in all boroughs, received in actual value only $13,800, this figure including both expenses and reasonable profit. The Commissioner particularly sets forth that he considers it highly improper that Alderman Marx should have consented to receive from the contractors free fireworks for a private exhibition near his Summer home on Long Island.

The Commissioner finds that very little criticism is attached to the contracts awarded to the Pain Fireworks and the Nordlinger-Charlton Company for displays in Queens and Richmond. The report says:

> In regard to the contract held by the Lloyd Manufacturing Company, which furnished the displays for Manhattan, it appears from the investigation of our expert, that the programmes furnished by the concerns were substantially complied with in the various districts. The contract price, however, was greatly in excess of the value of the fireworks displayed. Making an allowance for all expense and a 50 per cent. profit, it appears that the city contracted to pay approximately $5,000 more than the reasonable value of the goods furnished in the Borough of Manhattan.

The United Fireworks Company, which received the city's contract for Brooklyn and the Bronx, the Commissioner states, is a New Jersey corporation, organized in 1909. He says that the contracts which this company received from the city this year represent a business larger than its total annual sales for any previous year. The fireworks it supplied to the city were purchased from two sub-contractors—the North Bergen Freworks Company of North Bergen, N. J., and the North Beach Fireworks Company of Astoria, L. I. The report goes on:

> An endeavor was made by this office to determine the actual value of the fireworksk furnished for Brooklyn and the Bronx. Frank Anzalone, manager of the North Beach Fireworks Company, testified that in the $1,750 which he charged the United Company for the Bronx fierworkks, there was a $500 profit. Victor Reisenberger of the North Bergen Company admitted a profit of $3,000, which he charged for the Brooklyn exhibition. He refused, however, to state its amount. Some idea of this profit can be had from the fact that one Michele Nanna acted as a sub-contractor for the North Bergen Company for four of the twenty-four displays used in Brooklyn. Nanna furnished therse four displays for $100 each. The North Bergen Company received from the United Company $125 each. Nanna's profit we were unable to ascertain.

It was found that in two Brooklyn districts the Chairman of the committee refused to use the fireworks assigned to them. In the Fifty-ninth District, where a $420 display had been planned, the actual value of the fireworks was $42.65, as Mr. Fosdick figures it. To this he thinks a profit of $15 or $20 should be added to get the actual worth of the goods.

For the St. Mary's Park, Bronx, exhibition, which was billed to cost about $500, only $88.12 was spent. For the Williamsburg Bridge Plaza a $420 exhibit, $75.62 was spent. The McKinley Square, the Bronx exhibit, billed at $250, cost only $68.40.

Of the programmes submitted by fourteen competing companies, says Mr. Fosdick, that furnished by the United Company "palpably shows to the poorest advantage."

The report points out that fireworks were sent as a gift to Aledman Marx by the United and the Nordlinger-Charitin Companies, while the Pain Company furnished a man to set off the displays. The report observes:

> It appears that this private display was given on the beach, about five hundred feet from Alderman Marx's Summer home. That it was of a private character is fully borne out by the testimony of the neighbors of the community. The representatives of St. Malachi's Church and Rockaway Park Sanitarium denied that they were notified in regard to the display.

When on the stand Alderman Marx testified that he had notified St. Malachi's Church and the Rockaway Park Sanitarium to keep their children up to see the display.

Mayor Gaynor would make no comment on the report.

Crowds Gather Before Her Altar, Hoping for Miraculous Cures.

Many people knelt before the shrine of "Good Saint Ann" in the little Church of St. Jean Baptiste in East Seventy-sixth Street yesterday, and kissed the reliquary containing one of the bones from the wrist of the Mother of Virgin. It was the beginning of the annual novena of St. Ann. During these nine days of prayer preceding the feast day of St. Ann, which falls on Wednesday, July 26, the faithful are looking for many miracles to be performed. The two racks of crutches and surgical supports on either side of the altar of the Saint, in the church, are witnesses of the ills they know to have been healed in years past.

At the early masses yesterday morning the little church, whose seating capacity is 800, was filled and empted nearly a dozen times and the pilgrims from distant cities kept away by the rain filled the church later in the day and again in the evening. The masses and other services are held in the upper church, which is bright with many lighted candles.

The altar of Saint Ann in the basement, on which is the figure of the saint, was decorated with Easter lilies. At the right of the altar is the reliquary which is exposed to the veneration of the faithful and applied to the sick from 8 o'clock in the morning, except on Sunday, until 9 in the evening. The worshippers who are in health, after performing their devotions in the body of the church and kneeling before the altar, venerate the relic—touch their lips to it—while a priest is always on hand to place it over the diseased parts of the sick or crippled. There were several of these who visited the church yesterday, but special demonstrations are not expected until the closing of the novena, the feast day of St. Ann.

That the annual novena was in progress at the church of St. Jean Baptistes was apparent as soon as one turned up the street yesterday, for in spite of the rain the dealers in crucifixes, medals, and little figures of St. Ann had their stands out and did a good business, though not all the medal sellers, it was said, were of the faith. Inside the church building on either side of the entrances were more medals, crucifixes and Church emblems, sold by sisters of the Church and lay workers.

Father Letellier, the pastor of the church, and Superior of the Order of Fathers of the Blessed Sacrament, by whom the relic was brought to this country and in whose charge it is, is out of town and will not take part in the celebration.

MRS. A. LADENBURG OUT AFTER OPERATION

BROKE DOWN LAST FALL

Strenuous Season at Newport Caused Trip to Europe — Friends Did Not Know Horsewoman Was in Hospital.

Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg, who underwent an operation for appendicitis shortly after her arrival here from Europe in June, was able yesterday to leave St. Luke's Hospital, where the operation was performed, and is now at the Hotel Belmont convalescing. She expects to be able within a day or so to go to Long Beach, and after a brief sojourn there, will leave for Newport, where she will occupy the Travers bungalow on Ocean Avenue for the season.

It was on Wednesday, June 14, that Mrs. Ladenburg, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Eugenie M. Ladenburg, arrived here from Europe, where they had spent most of the Winter. It was expected that Mrs. Ladenburg would proceed within a few days after her arrival for Newport, and announcement was made that her villa was being placed in readiness for her.

But as the days went on and she did not come to Newport as she had planned, her friends there became anxious. It was ascertained that she had not opened her house at Westbury, L. I., and at the Hotel Belmont, where she went after her arrival from the other side, it was said that she had gone to the country. It was not until a week ago that her friends learned that she had been operated on for appendicitis, but no one seemed to know just where the operation had taken place.

Altogether Mrs. Ladenburg was in St. Luke's Hospital twenty-eight days, having entered the hospital on Monday, June 19, following her arrival from Europe. Her case, it is said, was a grave one, as complications arose after the operation.

Mrs. Ladenburg had been in poor health since last September when she broke down after a strenuous social campaign at Newport. She went to French Lick Springs, Ind., to recuperate. Early in the Winter she went abroad with her daughter, hoping that the change of scene and climate would benefit her.

Miss Ladenburg was very attentive to her mother during her recent illness. It was in November last, just before sailing for Europe, that Mrs. Ladenburg made application in the Nassau County Surrogate Court for permission to use a part of the income of the estate of her daughter, who is now 16 years old, to complete her education abroad. The girl's annual income is about $21,000.

Mrs. Ladenburg is a daring horsewoman, and has spent much of her time at her farm at Westbury. She was Miss Emily Stevens, daughter of Alexander H. Stevens, President of the Sixth National Bank of this city. In 1884 she married Adolf Ladenburg, the banker, who was drowned at sea while returning to New York from Europe in 1896. He left an estate of $10,000,000.

LIDDELL-SLOAN WEDDING.

Captain in British Army to Wed Miss Ethel Sloan on July 22.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Donaldson Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sage Sloan, to Capt. John Sinclair Liddell of the Bedfordshire Regiment, British Army, will take place at 12:30 on July 22 in Trinity Church, Hewlett, L. I. A breakfast will be given, after the church ceremony, at Chilton Gables, the home of the bride's parents at Woodmere, L. I.

A train for Woodmere will leave the Pennsylvania Station at 11:07, and conveyances will be in waiting to convey the guests to Hewlett.

DOUGHTY—LEIMERT.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Harriette Hart Doughty, daughter of the late William Howard Doughty of Troy, N. Y., and Williamstown, Mass., to Walter H. Leimert of Oakland, Cal. No date has been set for the wedding.

Last month the engagement was announced of Miss Doughty's sister, Miss Marion Rutgers Doughty, to William Leonard Nicoll of this city.

WOMEN WILL FAST IN SUFFRAGE CAUSE

It Is Appointed That They Shall Forego Many Nice Things for a Whole Week.

TO AID CALIFORNIA FIGHT

Such Leaders as Mrs. William Warren Penfield and Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany to Make the Sacrifice.

A woman suffrage fast will begin in New York the 15th of next month and will last one week, and during that time several thousand New York women will abstain from everything except the necessaries of life, and will give the money thus saved to the cause of "Votes for Women."

It is the immediate need of suffrage work in California and the money to carry it on which has decided the New York women to take this step. The question whether or not women shall vote in California will be presented to the people on Oct. 10, and the suffragists all over the country are doing what they can to help along the fight. The women will take no cooling drinks—the soda fountain will be abjured by the fasters—no ices, there will be no roof-garden parties, no going away for the week end.

This will be the special work of the Woman Suffrage Party, which has organized the city by Assembly districts, with a leader heading each district, and Captains of the election districts under them. Among the leaders who will take part in the self-imposed fast will be Mrs. William Warren Penfield, taking the place of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Chairman of the party, now in Europe; Mrs. Martha Wentworth Suffren, Mrs. Margaret Chanler Aldrich, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. Charles Beard, Joseph O'Brien, Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Mrs. J. Hedges Crowell, Mrs. Robert H. Elder, Mrs. Grace B. Wolterbeek, Miss Elizabeth Lowe, Miss Amy Wren, Miss Grace A. Raymond, Mrs. A. C. Fiske, Mrs. Ralph Hickox, the Rev. Irene Earl, and Miss Mary Oliver.

In Queens Borough Mrs. James H. Ecob, Mrs. John J. Wynn, Miss Valentina Whiting, Mrs. Adele Miln Linville, Miss Edith M. Whitmore, Mrs. Helen Hoy Greeley, Mrs. W. J. Morton, Mrs. John Dewey, Miss L. L. Dock, Dr. Jane Robbins, Mrs. V. G. Simkhovitch, and Mrs. A. C. Hughston are promoting the project.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, who has been acting as organizer for the Woman Suffrage Party, coming from the West to undertake the task, will go to California in August, to remain for six weeks to help the California women, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw personally paying her expenses. Many of the California women have given up their Summer holidays to spend the time in preparatory suffrage work. Among the members of the Collegiate Equal Suffrage League who are doing this are Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, Mrs. Londa Fletcher, both of San Francisco, and Mrs. Eva M. Burlingame.

Miss Tyson Notified Relatives of Her Marriage to E. N. Gallagher on July 8.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 17.—Without saying a word of her intentions to any of her relatives, Miss Juliet Howard Tyson of this city was married to E. Norris Gallagher of New York on July 8 in New York. She telegraphed the news to her family here.

Mrs. Gallagher is a daughter of the late Benjamin Howard Tyson and a sister of Mrs. Walter P. Montague of Baltimore, and is connected with the Howard and Tyson families of this city.

Shortly after her father's death last Spring Miss Tyson went to New York to visit friends, and her relatives here were unaware of any romance or prospective wedding until the telegram was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher are living at 22 West Sixtieth Street, New York. The bride is a brunette and an heiress.

E. M. Shepard Continues to Improve.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 17.—Edward M. Shepard's condition shows little change to-day. Dr. T. I. Hennig visits his patient twice a day and spends the night at Erlowest. He said to-night that Mr. Shepard's improvement is so gradual that it is not noticeable, day by day, but that week by week the progress is seen. As to Mr. Shepard's ultimate recovery, he held out the strongest hopes and said that he thought without doubt Mr. Shepard would be able to return to New York in the Fall.

Dr. P. H. Friedman Going to Europe.

Dr. Peter H. Friedman, Money Order Clerk in the Post Office, will sail to-day on the steamship Niew Amsterdam of the Holland-American Line for Antwerp. He will visit the health resorts of Europe in the hope of regaining his health. The clerks in his department gave him a gold initialed fob, suitably inscribed. Dr. Friedman will return in October.

Admiral Schley at Lake George.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 17.—Admiral and Mrs. Winfield Scott Schley arrived at Lake George to-day. John Bullon Simpson of New York met them at the station with an automobile and conveyed them to Sagamore, where they will remain for the Summer.

GRAFT IN TWEED'S DAY.

"The 'tin horse and cart' brigade discovered by Commissioner Fosdick's men on the pay roll in Queens," said an old police captain yesterday, "was an improvement over the way the late lamented Boss Tweed grafted. It shows that even grafters are improving on the old methods.

"Tweed was at the height of his power when he met, one day, a friend of his boyhood. This friend—John Jones will do for his name—was out of work and after the two had talked over old times, Tweed asked how he was getting along.

"'You stop down at the city paymaster's office on the first of the month. There'll be something there for you. Ask for No. 347.'

"Jones did as he was bid, and the first day of the new month found him at the pay window.

"The clerk looked up the number and threw out an envelope containing $125. Jones gave a receipt for the money and after counting it said:

"'That's all right,' but tell me, Bill, what am I supposed to be doing? What's my job?'

"'What do you care, so long as you're paid?'

"'Oh, the wife might ask me and it's just as well to know.'

"The 'keeper' thanked the paymaster and was starting away when he returned and asked: 'Say Bill, where is Mount Morris Park?'

"'You're too particular. How do I know?'

"And so until Tweed fell Jones drew $125 from the city each month as keeper of a park, the location of which he never knew."

NEARLY $46,000,000 PASSED.

Mayor Fears That Corporate Stock Budget Will Reach $55,000,000.

The Corporate Stock Budget providing for expenditures of nearly $46,000,000 for 1911 was passed by the Board of Estimate yesterday.

"No doubt the committee did the best it could," said Mayor Gaynor, "but $46,000,000 is a whopping sum and before the end of the year they will come to us for more."

"Probably it will foot up to $50,000,000 or $55,000,000 before the end of the year," said the Mayor.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn strongly urged the appropriation of $500,000 for the construction of a new municipal building for Brooklyn. He was backed by a delegation from the Brooklyn League. He said that he regarded this matter as of more importance than the building of a new market, which is provided for in the budget. It was agreed to let the committee decide on the matter.

At the hearing action was taken regarding several resolutions, which were reported to the board after they had been referred to the Controller. One of these provided for the issue of special revenue bonds to cover $10,842, the amount of money needed to pay four new Assistant District Attorneys in New York County. Another provided $5,000 with which to pay two new Assistant District Attorneys in Kings County. Mayor Gaynor wanted particulars concerning this last appropriation.

"There are too many Assistant District Attorneys now," commented the Mayor. "They have nothing to do, or at least some of them."

The money was granted as the board had no legal alternative.

GEORGE MARION RETURNS.

Paris's Musical Successes Are Viennese Pieces Already Seen Here.

George Marion, general stage director for Werba & Luescher, who has been spending several weeks in Paris visiting the theatres there, has returned to New York, and yesterday began rehearsals of "The Spring Maid" company in which Mizzi Hajos will open in Atlantic City on Aug. 27.

Mr. Marion said that the principal musical successes in Paris this season are Viennese pieces which have been produced in America. A company from Vienna has been giving a répertoire of musical comedy at the Vaudeville Theatre. "The Spring Maid," he said, is the only one of the important pieces that has not been produced there yet.

While rehearsing "The Spring Maid" companies Mr. Marion will finish his adaptation of the English version of "The Jolly Peasant," which is to be produced by Werba & Luescher this coming season, with Mr. Marion as the star.

Grand Opera at Schenck Concerts.

The third week of Elliott Schenck's concerts on the roof of the Century Theatre began last night with a programme made up entirely of selections from Gounod, including the entire garden scene from "Faust." This programme will be repeated Friday night. All of the week will be devoted to grand opera, with Wagner to-night and Thursday, and miscellaneous modern grand opera on Wednesday and Saturday nights. The soloists include Mrs. Claire Wiseman, Paul Archambault, Amy Kay, Miss Roa Eaton, Charlotte St. John Elliott, and Lillian Conrad Jonason.

Ethel Barrymore Starts for New York.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17.—Ethel Barrymore and her company left Sacramento yesterday afternoon for New York. All engagements that Miss Barrymore had on the coast were canceled. No statement was given out here by Miss Barrymore or her manager further than that unexpected business affairs in the East forced her to make a hurried trip to New York. Miss Louise Drew, daughter of John Drew, accompanied her.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

The stock company at the Academy of Music began a week of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" yesterday afternoon.

Aida Overton Walker, lately co-star with Williams and Walker, and her company were at the top of the programme at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday. Others named on the bill included Raymond Zirkel's production of "The Naiad," Cunningham and Marion, Roberts, Hayes and Roberts, McAvoy and Sterling, the three Dooleys, John Romano and Maud Earl, and Richardson's dogs.

At Hammerstein's Roof Garden the programme included the appearance of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad in several songs, the first showing of pictures of the Moran-Wolgast fight, Sophie Tucker, Harry Fox and the Millership sisters, Hassan, Ben Ali's Arabs, Ben Welch, Elizabeth Brice and Charles King, the Great Richards, Jarrow, Martinetti and Sylvester, Cook and Lorenz, the Grecian Temple of Mystery, Romao and De Lano, and the Marshalls.

Ethel Levey, who is announced as making her farewell appearance in America, headed the list of entertainers at the New Brighton Theatre. Among the others on the programme were Eugene O'Rourke, Helena Frederick and company, Jewell's mannikins, Ashley and Lee, Bert Fitzgibbon, George B. Reno and company, Sharp and Wilks, the three Escardas, and the Asaki brothers.

"A Chinese Honeymoon" was presented by the Aborn Comic Opera Company at Palisades Amusement Park last night. The principals in the cast included Fritzi von Busing, Tom Hatherton, Sabrey D'Orsell, Edna Reming, Hattie Arnold, George W. Leslie, Thomas F. Burton, Sol Solomon, and William Schuster. New attractions were given in the free vaudeville theatre.

At the American Roof Garden the principal features of the bill yesterday included Barry and Halvers, McGinnis and brothers, Blake's circus, Harry Tsuda, Agnes Marr, Robert Holland, and Marie Dreams. A change of bill will be presented Thursday.

Among the performers at the Brighton Beach Music Hall were McIntyre and Heath, Lucy Weston, Bert Leslie and company, and seven other acts.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Grace Valentine, an actress known on the Pacific Coast, has been engaged by Wagenhals and Kemper to play the role of Kit McNair in "Seven Days" and later to have a part in a new comedy.

Ada Dwyer will continue in the role of Frisco Kate in "The Deep Purple" this season until the completion of a new play that is being written for her use.

Chauncey Olcott will end his engagement at the Columbia Theatre, San Francisco, Saturday night and will open in Portland, Ore., the following Monday in his new play, "Macushla," by Rida Johnson Young. He is booked for an appearance in New York in midwinter.

Margaret Dale has been engaged by Liebler & Co. for the role of Mrs. Travers in Louis N. Parker's "Disraeli" in support of George Arliss. Miss Dale has been leading woman with John Drew and also William H. Crane.

69TH REJECTS NAGLE BY A SINGLE VOTE

THE VOTE STOOD 14 TO 13

Tammany Leader Says a Broken Pledge and an Absentee Did It—New Officer a Spanish War Veteran.

Lieut. Percival E. Nagle, Tammany Leader of the Thirtieth Assembly District, was not elected last night Lieutenant Colonel of the Sixty-ninth National Guard Regiment as he predicted he would be. Nagle, who is a Second Lieutenant in the regiment, expected to be elected by about 15 to 12. Instead he was defeated by 14 to 13 votes, his successful opponent being Capt. Charles Healey, a veteran with twenty-five years' service in the regiment to his credit.

The election was the cause of much feeling in the regiment, and when the vote was announced last night Lieut. Nagle said that he had been defeated because an officer who was pledged to vote for him failed to keep his word, while another officer, known to be friendly to his candidacy, did not appear at the armory. The loss of these two votes, he said, made possible the election of Capt. Healey.

Until half an hour before the closing of the polls at 10 o'clock it was generally believed Nagle would be elected. Then it became known that Lieut. John Chiquette, who was counted as one of Nagle's supporters, failed to show up, and all efforts to locate him by telephone, telegraph, and automobile failed.

"What do you suppose happened to Chiquette?" Lieut. Nagle was asked.

"I cannot imagine," the candidate answered, "unless he was kidnapped. I don't mean that, however, and I guess he simply failed to show up. Had he voted it would have at least been a tie. As for the officer who promised to vote for me and then failed to do so, I have nothing to say. Had he voted as he promised I would have been elected, but he didn't, so what's the use talking about it? As for Capt. Healey, he is a good officer, and I want to be among the first to congratulate him."

It was Nagle's second defeat within less than two years for a high office in his regiment. On the other occasion he lost the Colonelcy by one vote. Col. Conley, the present Regimental Commander, getting fourteen votes to Nagle's thirteen. Under the National Guard law only field and line officers can vote and as Nagle is a Quartermaster he had no vote when he ran against Col. Conley, while the Colonel did. Last night the same situation existed, Conley having a vote while Nagle had none.

After Capt. Healey was found to have been elected, Col. Conley came out and talked with the reporters. He was not in the best of humor.

"Was Capt. Healey your candidate?" he was asked.

"I can't answer that," he replied, "but you can draw your own conclusions. Capt. Healey has the best company in the regiment and is a fine officer."

"Have you anything to say concerning the defeat of Lieut. Nagle?"

"No, I have not. I am the one officer in the National Guard who has to be very careful as to what he says."

Capt. Healey did not announce himself as a candidate for Lieutenant Colonel until 7:30 o'clock last night. It had been expected that Nagle would have opposition, but Healey's name had not been mentioned as among his possible opponents. Major Reville was the officer who was thought most likely to make the best showing against Nagle.

It was persistently rumored that Nagle was strongly backed by Tammany influences and that the reason the election was held last night instead of some weeks hence, as some of the officers wished it to be, was because a postponement was not considered favorable to the Nagle candidacy.

Col. Conley has always been counted as one of the officers most strongly opposed to Nagle for the Lieutenant Colonelcy. As Battalion Quartermaster, Nagle is a member of Col. Conley's staff. Col. Conley was asked last night if it was true that he had requested Nagle's resignation some weeks ago, but he refused to answer the question.

Lieut. Col. Charles Healey entered the Sixty-ninth Regiment as a private in January, 1886. He became a Second Lieutenant in February, 1891, and a Captain in January, 1893. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

COLUMBIA'S LARGEST LIST.

University Will Open Its New Term with 3,000 Students.

Morningside Heights has almost the appearance of the regular college season, with the largest number of Summer students Columbia has ever known. There are in round numbers 3,000 students, 300 more than last year. The greater number of the students are taking graduate courses, a noticeable change this year, with fewer teachers and school Superintendents registered. There is a considerable number of Columbia men, as well as those from other colleges, among the students, who are taking supplementary courses. History, psychology, and graduate studies in English for Master's and Doctor's degrees are the courses best attended. The science classes are large.

Recreation is playing an important part in the Summer course. This has been insisted upon by the director of the sessions, classes have been arranged to allow for it, and concerts, receptions, and trips about the city have been planned. There are weekly band concerts on the green at 120th Street, and the university chorus will give a concert before the close of the session.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Decline Fractionally in Last Hour—Trading Still Small.

BREAK IN COTTON AND CORN

Commodity Prices Reflect Favorable News of Further Rainfalls—Copper and Steel Trade Progress.

Further rainfall in the corn and cotton belts were among the developments which presented themselves for consideration in the financial district yesterday. When it is borne in mind how much emphasis was laid on the reports gathered from many sections of the crop-growing States at the end of the first week of July upon the need of more rain, particularly in the corn belt, it will be realized that the rains which have since fallen have been a factor of great importance in the general crop situation. It was the consensus of opinion at that time that relatively little actual damage had yet been done to corn, and that timely rains would prevent any serious impairment of conditions. These rains have now fallen in considerable abundance and the crop outlook has thereby been bettered even though the highest hopes entertained earlier in the season will not be full yrealized. Yesterday both corn and cotton declined quite sharply, the break extending in some corn options to over 2 cents a bushel, and in cotton to a maximum of close to $1.50 a bale. A decline in the price of cotton, holding promise of cheaper raw material for the cotton mills of the country, is particularly apropos at this time when advices from the cotton trade are laying such emphasis on the absence of reasonable margin between the cost of the new material and the prices which can be had for finished products.

The trading on the Stock Exchange was extremely dull up to the last hour when transactions expanded sufficiently to bring the total well above the small records of last week. It was during the final hour that the most pronounced movement of the day occurred in the shape of a general decline which, however, except in a few instances, was confined to fractions. In the inactive issues the narrowness of the present market was reflected in the size of the changes which resulted from very few transactions. Among these stocks which reported changes of a point or more about as many showed gains as declines. Until the appearance of moderate activity under the selling movement which occurred near the close of the market the trading was at times as dull as at any time last week. One of the hourly periods showed a smaller total than any recorded recently.

Supplementing the recent report of American stocks of copper the fortnightly European statement, according to yesterday's cable advices, showed a decrease of 1,323 tons in the stocks of copper on hand and an aggregate decrease of 2,273 tons in the visible supply. This carries the situation in the copper trade, so far as Europe is concerned, two weeks beyond the recent American report, and shows a continuance of the general influences which brought about the improvement which was reflected in the decrease in the stocks of copper in this country during the month of June. An unofficial estimate indicated yesterday an increase in the percentage at which the plants of the United States Steel Corporation are being operated, suggesting a continuance of the forward movement in the steel industry which has been a noteworthy feature of the recent general industrial situation.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

Two-thirds of the business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was done in the last two hours, the increase in activity being at the expense of prices. The market gave way sharply in the final hour, affected by scattered commission house liquidation as well as short selling by floor traders. An attempt was made in some quarters to engineer a "cholera scare" in the market. The decline was, however, generally attributed to a beginning of liquidation by holders of stock, who had become disgruntled over the long-drawn-out period of dullness. Transactions for the day totaled 20,390 shares, distributed among forty-four different stocks.

Second Selden Dividend.

Holders of the Selden patent certificates receive this month a dividend of 5 per cent. from royalties. The first payment, of the same amount, was made a year ago. This patent, which was supposed to cover an essential feature in all gasoline motor cars, and which was once upheld by the courts after a bitter fight, has been rendered of little value by a later decision, so that it is not likely that there will be any more dividends on the certificates. The patent was acquired by the Columbia Motor Car Company, control of which was obtained by the United States Motor Car Company in the latter part of 1909. In the days of the American Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers the Selden patent was thought to be an invaluable asset. There is a small amount of the certificates outstanding besides those held by the United States Motor Company.

Harriman Lines Steamships.

It was explained yesterday that the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company has not sold any steamships to Frank Waterhouse & Co., but only the charters to four freighters, which it leases. The Harriman system has operated boats to the Orient in order to handle the lumber and other marchandise routed through Portland, but it has been a losing business. The new owners of the charters will handle all of the Harriman business on terms more advantageous than have been obtained by the operation of the Portland and Asiatic Steamship Company. The latter will be kept alive, but it will not run any boats. The change was said to be of little importance aside from the benefits it promises to bring to the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company.

Good German Bank Statement.

Following the heavy cash loss and increase in loans which appeared in the report of the Bank of Germany at the close of June, the weekly returns have shown a substantial readjustment of these accounts. This movement reflects the same general condition with which both the London market and our own had to contend at the end of the half year, although the changes reflected in the German statement are usually heavier at this period than those reported at most other centres. In our own case the usual adjustments of accounts was complicated this year by the fact that payment had also to be made to the Government for the Panama Canal bond issue. Yesterday's statement of the German Bank showed a decrease of about $38,000,000 in loans and an increase of over $11,000,000 in cash. The circulation of the bank contracted about $39,000,000 during the week.

Cash at the Sub-Treasury.

On June 17, the day on which Charles S. Millington, the new Assistant Treasurer of the United States, took office, there was $133,471,617 in the vaults of the Sub-Treasury. This was determined by the completion of the count last Saturday night. The formal transfer of the funds from the custody of the Treasurer of the United States to the new assistant was made yesterday. The cash on hand balanced exactly. The auditors found $36,651,265 in gold coin, $80,797,488 in silver dollars, and the balance in subsidiary coin. Payments on account of the Panama bonds have increased this total since the count was started, and it is roughly estimated that there is now at least $180,000,000 in the Sub-Treasury.

Crops Here and Abroad.

Cyrus H. McCormick, President of the International Harvester Company, says shipments of agricultural machinery to Europe are the largest in the history of the concern, and that prospects for crops in Western Europe are exceptionally good. The indications are that Eastern Europe will have an average crop, while conditions in Great Britain are poor. He speaks of unusually good conditions in Western Canada, but says they are considerably below the average in the United States because of severe droughts. This is true especially of the small-grain sections. The hay crop is one of the lightest harvested for many years, and the trade in hay tools has suffered. While crop conditions have materially depreciated in the United States, he says, since June 1, indications point to a fair trade in machinery.

CUT IN PRICE OF MUSLINS.

A break in the price of muslins occurred yesterday when William E. Wall, selling agent for B. B. & R. Knight of Rhode Island, announced a cut from 8¾ cents to 8 cents, the lowest price, compared to cost, that has ever been made on their brand. The price does not apply to future deliveries, and was made solely in order to move the stock on hand.

This action was followed soon after its announcement by a cut of another ¼ cent on the same brand of goods by Marshall Field & Co., wholesale. No other reductions had been reported in the trade up to the close of business yesterday.

The new price made by the Knight firm is based on 10 cents a pound for cotton as against the current quotation of 14 cents, and is thought to discount a lower price of cotton, which is expected to result from the large crop this year.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

National Rice Milling Company.

Notice is hereby given that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the National Rice Milling Company will be held at the principal office of the Company, No. 1,019-1,022 Union Building Newark, New Jersey, at 11 o'clock A. FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF WESTINGHOUSE

Charles J. Canda Starts a Campaign for Proxies in Behalf of Assenting Shareholders.

WESTINGHOUSE WITH HIM

Circular Letter Says Earnings of the Electric Co. Are Ample for Dividends Which Directors Decline to Pay.

Another fight for control of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was brought into the open yesterday with the receipt by all of the stockholders of a circular letter written by Charles J. Canda of 5 Nassau Street, this city. Mr. Canda is himself a large holder of the company's assenting stock, and has been active for some time in a campaign for dividends on that issue.

With the recent improvement in the Westinghouse earnings many stockholders expected to see dividends inaugurated at a Directors' meeting held in the latter part of May. Following this meeting it was announced that the Directors were unanimously opposed to the declaration of a dividend at that time. This created dissatisfaction among some of the holders, which was heightened a few days later by a report that the board had not been a unit on the dividend question, but that former President George Westinghouse had fought for beginning of payments.

The company's annual meeting will be held in Pittsburg on July 26. At that time the terms of four of the sixteen Directors expire, and Mr. Canda is asking for proxies to be made out to Mr. Westinghouse and himself for the purpose of electing new men pledged to the early payment of dividends on the assenting stock.

Mr. Canda's letter follows:

"In the reorganization of your company, in 1908, the personnel of the Board of Directors was dictated by the bankers. Certainly its control is not in a Board of Directors which ignores the rights of the shareholders to receive reasonable dividends which were promised when you subscribed for shares at par to rehabilitate the company.

"At a recent meeting of the Directors, Mr. Westinghouse proposed a resolution to declare quarterly dividends of 1 per cent., requiring only 4 per cent. out of the 13 per cent. of net earnings which were made by the company on its assenting stock, over and above all fixed charges and the 7 per cent. dividend on the preferred stock during the last fiscal year. This is certainly very conservative, leaving fully 9 per cent. to the good of the company. This proposal was voted down by all the Directors except Mr. Westinghouse. Moreover, the report issued to the shareholders makes it quite clear that they need not expect dividends in the near future.

"The company is in excellent financial condition, and has a large cash fund ($6,634,677) on deposit in the banks. During the two last fiscal years the net income of the company has aggregated $7,941,770. Besides, the 1 per cent. quarterly dividends proposed would be paid from the current earnings of the company, so that its financial condition would not be changed.

"There are sixteen Directors, of whom only four are to be elected on the 26th inst. It is suggested that four new Directors should be elected to represent the assenting shareholders.

"If you agree with me, I ask that you sign the inclosed proxy and send it at once to George Westinghouse at Pittsburg. This proxy, when duly executed, will supersede any proxy you may have heretofore given—the last proxy given being the only one that is accepted.

"I need not remind you that Mr. Westinghouse's interests are entirely with the assenting shareholders and that he is earnestly desirous of making your property valuable."

Mr. Canda said yesterday that the present management gives no hope of an early resumption of payments on the preferred stock and has been acting inconsistently in making large appropriations to increase the capacity of the plants while saying that it was necessary to conserve all of the company's resources until the business outlook becomes brighter. He maintains that the company is earning 13 per cent. on its stock and could easily afford to pay 4 per cent.

Mr. Westinghouse has not been in accord with his fellow-Directors since the troubles that brought on the appointment of a receiver in 1907 and the election of Robert Mather as Chairman of the board. Friction between the President and the Chairman resulted in Mr. Westinghouse's removal from his position at the head of the company at a meeting a year ago.

TAXI COMPANY REORGANIZED.

Court Confirms the Sale of Its Assets—Capital to be $1,700,000.

Francis C. Huntington, receiver in bankruptcy of the Cab and Taxi Company of New York of 252 to 262 West Fortieth Street, has obtained an order from Judge Hand confirming the sale of the entire assets to Belvidere Brooks, W. B. Lasher, and T. Tilestone Wells, the Reorganization Committee. The assets were appraised at $374,420 as a going concern and at $218,501 at a forced sale.

The liabilities are about $3,000,000, of which $93,000 are to the first mortgage bondholders and $2,500,000 to the second mortgage bondholders. The plan of reorganization provides for a new company, with capital stock of $1,700,000, of which there is to be first preferred, $200,000; second preferred, $250,000, and common, $1,250,000.

There is also to be a bond issue of $250,000 to provide ready money. The stock is to be distributed as follows: To first mortgage bondholders, $183,000 first preferred stock; general merchandise creditors, $225,000 second preferred stock, and to second mortgage bondholders $1,250,000 common stock at the rate of 50 cents for each dollar of bonds.

For those who do not accept the plan it is provided to pay general creditors 10 per cent. of their claims in cash and to second mortgage bondholders 3 per cent. cash.

BANK FINANCES ITS LOANS.

Metropolitan Trust Sets Aside Special Fund to Cover Advances Made in 1907.

The Metropolitan Trust Company, which made loans of about $3,250,000 to the Williamsburg Trust Company, the Brooklyn Bank, and the Union Bank of Brooklyn, when those institutions got into difficulties after the panic of 1907, has set aside a special fund of $2,000,000 to guarantee the liquidation of the loans, which have been reduced by more than half since they were made.

Most of these loans and some others held by the Metropolitan are secured by real estate mortgages, and it was arranged, when it was admitted to the Clearing House Association, that it should set aside $2,000,000 to clear up the old loans. This amount was deducted from surplus and net profits, reducing them from $8,107,400 to $6,107,400.

This change in the item of surplus did not show, however, in the bank statements made immediately after the Metropolitan's admission, the figures being based on the statement made in response to the last call of the Banking Department a short time before, on June 7. In the Clearing House statement of last Saturday the reduction appeared.

President Brayton Ives said yesterday that since the Metropolitan went into the association there had been a reduction in the loans concerned of nearly $1,000,000, and added that even with this temporary reduction in the item the surplus and profits bore a higher ratio to the deposits than in the case of any other trust company in the city.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Considering the demoralization in the coarse grain list, the undertone to wheat values was very steady. Hedging sales against purchases of new wheat were again in evidence, but these appeared to be absorbed more easily, and some predictions of a decrease in movement next week had its effect on sentiment. Seemingly, however, the reports of frost in the Canadian Northwest, where the crop has been progressing under highly favorable conditions, and a reiteration of rust reports from scattered points in the American Northwest, were the main influences. The advices of low temperatures in the Canadian Northwest were not without denial, but the fact that Washington predictions were for a cool wave in the United States this week, which would probably receive its origin from Canada, led to a disposition to await more definite advices.

Slightly higher prices at the outset were the result of good cables, the foreign markets being favorably affected by the bullish Spring wheat advices issued late last Saturday. Lighter world's wheat exports were also a factor, with the total for the week 9,392,000 bushels, against 10,416,000 bushels last week and 6,464,000 bushels last year. On the other hand, European crop advices continue generally favorable, with Plate and Russia offering freely, although from the latter country crop reports continue extremely contradictory. Thrashing returns from the American Winter wheat belt are fully up to expectations and better in many instances, while prevailing weather in the American Northwest is ideal for the filling of the grain, and is surely not of a character to cause the spread of rust in the infected sections.

The visible supply was bearish, but had been fully anticipated, and consequently had little effect. The increase for the week was 2,635,000 bushels, against a gain last week of 2,665,000 bushels and a decrease last year of 779,000 bushels. The total visible at present in the United States and Canada is 35,000,000 bushels, against 15,000,000 bushels last year. Interior receipts for the day were 2,104,000 bushels, against 1,549,000 bushels last week and 867,000 bushels last year. There were no export sales, but some buying in the future market has recently been predicated on the idea that the export level is not very far below prevailing quotations. Cash No. 2 red is quoted at 90¼c in elevator and 91¼c for export: No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.07⅝; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.03½; No. 2 hard Winter, 96¼c.

CORN.—Rain since Saturday night, ranging from light to moderate in practically all sections of the corn belt that were most in need of precipitation, inspired considerable selling during the session. From the start the pressure was persistent, and interests which have been among the best buyers were conspicuous on the selling side. Prospects of further showers overnight restricted new buying, and although the cash situation continues firm, it was realized that with beneficial moisture the task of maintaining prices would be extremely difficult. The visible for the week decreased 1,210,000 bushels, against a decrease last year of 3,000,000 bushels. Movement of corn is light, but is expected to increase with the advent of better weather. Cash No. 2 is quoted at 69¼c for export, but foreigners did not appear interested.

OATS.—An overbought condition was revealed, and, on the attempts of the bulls to liquidate, stop-loss orders were uncovered, and bears were enabled to buy at practically their own figures at times. Prospect of reciprocity passing this week was a factor, while there were private advices indicating that the country was selling freely, and the movement would increase in the very near future, as thrashing is progressing rapidly. Cash demand was good. The visible decreased 2,307,000 bushels, against a decrease last year of 458,000 bushels. Cash standards quoted at 51c; No. 2 white, 50c, and No. 3 white, 51½c.

PROVISIONS.—With the decline in the coarse grain market, reflecting improved weather conditions and possibilities of lower feeding costs, the easiness was logical. Cash demand is not especially good.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Despite claims that the market was becoming heavily oversold, declines yesterday were the most severe of the season. Further improvement in crop conditions and the absence of support, with only limited buying by consumers, tended to intensify the bearish feeling generally pervading in trade circles. The decline in the corn and oats market, causing heaviness in provisions, was not without effect, while it was claimed that some Southerners are showing a willingness to sell, but are prevented from doing so in an important way, by the rapidity of the decline in the future market.

COTTON.

Good support was noticeable in the July option at the 14c. level, but other months were weak during the entire session, with the close at new low records. It was apparent that the market was not in so strong a technical condition as many have supposed, with utterly no incentive for new buying excepting possibly on technical conditions, while it was noticeable that brokers who were credited with buying for the principal longs when drought talk permeated all quarters were among the principal sellers.

Further beneficial rainfall occurred in many parts of the cotton belt, so that the expectations were for a bearish weekly Government weather report to-day. Crop advices were very optimistic in the main and it is evident that a bearish August Government report is being discounted. Even boll weevil advices were less numerous; in fact, private messages from official sources in the infested counties in Alabama claimed that the appearance of the weevil was less than expected, due to the cleaning of the fields last Fall. Other reports from agricultural experts in parts of Mississippi stated that the damage to date was unimportant and that the situation was well in hand, while The Memphis Commercial Appeal said that there was much complaint in regard to the insect but little damage.

The report of Miss Giles's prompted much selling, part coming from Wall Street, while the South continues to accompany some of their good crop advices with selling orders. The Giles report as of July 11 made the condition of cotton 88 against 89 on June 25, 87.5 a month ago and 80.5 in 1910. Deterioration in North Carolina was 3 points, South Carolina 2, Mississippi 1, Texas 2, and Oklahoma 9 points; but rains of recent date improved these conditions. Eastern belt was asserted to be highly satisfactory, while the boll weevil was appearing in the Mississippi Valley.

The less favorable trade advices were not without influence in the market. The slow demand for certain grades of goods was reflected in the cut made by a prominent concern in the price of fruit-of-the-loom of ⅜c. to 8c. per yard. It is claimed that this is the lowest price, compared with the cost, that has ever been made on this fabric and places it on the basis of 10c. cotton. Ostensibly, the best that can be said relative to trade conditions at present is that the foundation for the resumption of activity is good, and with each setback in the future cotton market the loss suffered by spinners in manufacturing is being gradually obviated.

Southern spot markets were irregular at unchanged to ⅜c. decline. New York spot cotton was .05c. decline, with middlings at 14¼c.

COFFEE.

Coffee developed a weaker tone, closing at a net decline of 16 to 22 points. Havre declined ¼ to ½ franc, while Hamburg was ¼ to ¾ pfennig lower. Rio declined 17 reis and Santos was unchanged to 50 reis lower. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were easier. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 122,121 bags, against 69,613 the previous week and 74,687 last year.

Spot coffee steady; 13⅝c for Rio No. 7.

St. Louis Southwestern Railway System

Central Arkansas & Eastern R. R. Co.

First Mortgage Guaranteed 5% Gold Bonds

Dated July 1, 1910. Interest January and July in New York Due July 1, 1940.
Authorized $3,000,000. Outstanding $730,000.

Coupon Bonds $1,000, with privilege of registration as to principal and interest. Registered bonds exchangeable for Coupon bonds. Subject to redemption at any time at option of the Company at 105 and interest.

St. Louis Union Trust Co., Trustee

Guaranteed Principal and Interest by Indorsement by the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company

The Bonds are secured by an absolute first mortgage on mileage forming part of the St. Louis Southwestern's through line from Little Rock, Arkansas, to points north. They also cover mileage extending north from Stuttgart to Hazen, penetrating the heart of the rice district of Arkansas.

The bonds are outstanding at the low rate of about $18,000 per mile and the balance can be issued only for actual cash expended for extensions and improvements at not to exceed $25,000 per mile.

The strength of the St. Louis Southwestern's guaranty is shown by the earnings reported by the Company for the eleven months ending May 31, 1911, the surplus after fixed charges, rentals, etc., exhibiting the phenomenal increase of nearly 29%.

We will send upon request a special circular, containing copy of letter from Mr. F. N. Finney, former President of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Ry., who at our request examined the Central Arkansas & Eastern R. R. and the St. Louis Southwestern Railway, and fully describing the property covered by these bonds.

Having sold the greater part of this issue, we offer the unsold balance, subject to prior sale, at

98 and interest, yielding about 5.12%

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

EFFECT ON NEW STOCK

Trading in Philadelphia Board Nearly Comes to a Stop During Voting.

Again in Monday's markets out-of-town interest centred in a very few issues, while the general list remained dull and inactive.

A spurt of activity in Houston Oil preferred in Baltimore yesterday was attributed to buying on account of New York interests, and resulted in an advance of over 2 points, with the last sale at the top. Houston Oil common shared moderately in the activity, but its advance in price was fractional.

The feature of the Boston stock market was the weakness of Calumet and Hecla. That stock dropped to 435, which is not only the low point of the present movement, but the lowest figure quoted in years. Only one share was sold at that price, but a few others sold at 440. On yesterday's quotation the new stock is worth, when issued, about 182, if the consolidation is ever brought about. The other stocks were dull. There was some trading in American Telephone stock and rights, but the changes were of no importance.

Easier prices predominated on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday, with a moderate amount of trading. Among the most marked concessions were the loss of more than a point in National Biscuit preferred and the decline of 2 points in Quaker Oats common, while there were smaller declines in Chicago Railways Series 2 certificates, American Can preferred, Commonwealth Edison, Illinois Brick, and People's Gas. There was a slight advance in Quaker Oats preferred. It was announced that 94 per cent. of the stocks of the elevated railways of Chicago have been deposited in accordance with the merger agreement. Slightly more than 7,000 shares have been received since the time for depositing the securities was extended from July 1 to yesterday. The latest figures on the number of shares deposited obtainable show 340,744 shares, out of a total of 362,949 outstanding, in the hands of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago and the National City Bank of New York, the depositories under the terms of the merger agreement.

Possibly owing to their satisfaction over winning the Stock Exchange removal contest, Philadelphia floor traders were inclined to take hold of the more active local issues, and bid them up Monday afternoon. Throughout the morning, while the voting was in progress, business was practically at a standstill, but once the result was known, trading became more animated, and prices for the most part ruled fractionally above last week's parity. Just before the end of the session the reaction which had developed in Wall Street was reflected by the arbitrage group in Philadelphia, and in turn spread to the general local list, causing a dull and somewhat heavy close.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Prices Drop in London—Firm Tone in Paris and Berlin.

LONDON, July 17.—Money and discount rates were easy to-day.

The Bank of England obtained the bulk of the $3,500,000 South African gold offered in the open market to-day.

The stock market was generally dull. Consols, Canadian Pacific, and Guayaquil bonds received the most attention and advanced, but the other sections lacked support and closed lower.

American securities opened steady and during the forenoon advanced from ¼ to 1¼ points under the lead of Canadian Pacific. Business was light in the afternoon, and after a series of narrow fluctuations the market closed dull, but steady.

Money, 1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1 11-16 per cent.; for three months' bills 1⅞ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.15; at Lisbon, 8.

PARIS, July 17.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Exchange on London, 25f 28c for checks.

BERLIN, July 17.—Prices were firm on the Boerse to-day.

Weather in Cotton and Grain States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Following is the forecast for the cotton and grain States, as issued by the United States Weather Bureau, for Tuesday and Wednesday:

North Carolina—Fair, not much change in temperature Tuesday and probably Wednesday; light variable, mostly westerly.

South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana—Generally fair, except probably local thunder showers Tuesday and Wednesday; light variable winds.

Western Texas and Oklahoma—Local thunder showers Tuesday and probably Wednesday; moderate temperature.

Utah—Overcast, probably local thunder showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

Arkansas, Missouri, and Kansas—Local showers Tuesday. Wednesday unsettled.

Tennessee and Kentucky—Fair Tuesday, probably followed by showers Tuesday night or on Wednesday.

Ohio and Indiana—Probably fair Tuesday, showers Tuesday night or on Wednesday; light variable winds.

Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota—Overcast, probably followed by showers Tuesday night or on Wednesday; cooler Wednesday; moderate variable winds.

Iowa—Fair Tuesday, probably followed by showers by Tuesday night or on Wednesday; cooler Wednesday.

North and South Dakota—Showers and cooler Tuesday. Wednesday unsettled.

Nebraska—Increasing cloudiness, probably followed by showers by Tuesday night and on Wednesday; cooler.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Tariff for "Household Effects" Does Not Include Cows and Poultry.

Cows and poultry, according to a decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers, are not "household effects" within the meaning of the Aldrich-Payne Tariff act of 1909. The issue came before the board in the form of protests by Ray Judd and G. W. Van Gilder. The animals were brought into this country from Canada and were claimed free of duty under the household effects provision of the law. Judge Hay states in his decision that the protestant failed to appear when the case was called for hearing. He thinks, however, that another case decided by the Court of Customs Appeals is controlling, although that case involved different animals. The present protests are overruled.

Marshall Field & Co. have been defeated in an attempt to secure lower duty on furniture composed of silk and wood. The local appraiser reported that as the merchandise is in chief value of silk, duty accordingly be exacted at 50 per cent. as "manufactures in chief value of silk." The contention of the firm was that the rate should be at 35 per cent., under the provision for house furniture of wood. Judge Howell fails to agree with this claim.

Judge Fisher denied a claim by Bernard, Judae & Co., protesting the assessment on beet shredding machine returned for duty at 45 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures in chief value of metal. The importers alleged that the classification should be as "machine tools" with a tax of 30 per cent. The machines are described in an official report as highly tempered steel file wheels and beet knives or shredders. On this account the protest is overruled.

The C. Wildermann Company, failed to receive a reduction in the duty assessed by Collector Loeb on rosaries. The articles were found to be in chief value of silver. The collector took duty under the silver provision of the law at compound rates equivalent to 65 per cent. ad valorem, whereas the importers asked for a rate of 45 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal. Judge Sharretts overrules the claim and affirms the collector.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—General showers fell within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic and Gulf States, the Ohio Valley, the Lake Region, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. Heavy rains fell during Monday in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Moderate temperatures will continue Tuesday and Wednesday throughout all districts from the Atlantic Coast to the Rocky Mountains with a change to even cooler weather Tuesday night and Wednesday in the interior. Generally fair weather will prevail Tuesday and Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate south, shifting to west; Middle Atlantic Coast, light west; South Atlantic Coast, light variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate to variable winds, becoming west, and probably fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY

Eastern New York, New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair, not much change in temperature Tuesday and probably Wednesday; light variable winds, mostly west.

New England—Clearing Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair; moderate temperatures; moderate south shifting to west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 71; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 74.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 74; at 8 P. M. it was 70. Maximum temperature, 74 degrees at 8 A. M.; minimum, 68 degrees at 3:45 P. M. Humidity, 83 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 90 per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Harlem Railroad Transfers Property to the City for New Vanderbilt Avenue Roadbed—Greenwich Village and Private House Deals—Weehawken Tract Bought for Development—Eleventh Avenue Factory.

The realty market was practically in a holiday condition yesterday, the transactions, both in number and importance, being the smallest of any day this season. Among the recorded transfers of interest was a large slice on the east side of the present Vanderbilt Avenue, 722.6 feet in length, from the northeast corner of Forty-second Street to the south side of Forty-fifth Street, title to which has been vested in the City of New York. This property, which is 25.8 feet in width, has been transferred to the city by the New York & Harlem Railroad in exchange for the present roadway, the change of the avenue a few feet to the east having been authorized as a part of the improvement plan by the railroad. The new Grand Central Station will cover the eastern front of the new Vanderbilt Avenue.

No plans for new structures in Manhattan were filed in the Building Department. Among the alterations were the filing of plans by Delano & Aldrich, architects for Cornelius Vanderbilt, for removing the front entrance, steps, and railing to Mr. Vanderbilt's home, at 677 Fifth Avenue, between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth Streets, to conform with the requirements for widening that part of the avenue north to Fifty-ninth Street. The cost will be $5,000. Plans for clipping off the projections on most of the residences in the immediate neighborhood, including the Huntington, Goelet, Twombly, Sloane, and Field houses, have already been filed.

A small deal in the old Greenwich Village section showed that investment buying in that locality is still active, and the private house market furnished several sales in different parts of the city.

Greenwich Village Deal.

Two three-story dwellings at 134 and 136 Charles Street have been sold to an investor by Mrs. John McLaughlin and Minnie H. Coffin, respectively. They cover a plot 52 by 95 between Greenwich and Washington Streets.

Private House Market.

The three-story and basement dwelling at 310 West 102d Street, on lot 18 by 100.11, has been sold by Dr. Charles S. Benedict to James McEvenie. The brokers were S. P. McCormick and J. E. Leaycraft & Co.

The three-story brownstone dwelling at 127 West 129th Street has been sold by Porter & Co. for Amelia L. Richardson.

John J. Kavanagh has sold for A. C. & L. C. Quackenbush the four-story dwelling at 53 East Ninety-second Street, on lot 17.4 by 100.8½.

John T. Maloney has sold 204 West Fourteenth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on lot 25 by 103.3. It is said that the property will be used as a private school.

Harlem Flats Sold.

The two four-story double flats at 64 and 66 East 106th Street, on plot 59.2 by 100.11, have been sold to an investor by Ferdinand Kramer for Herman F. Schlussing.

Bronx.

The new six-story apartment at 3,738 Third Avenue, on the northeast corner of St. Paul's Place, on plot 47.3 by 102 and irregular, has been sold to an investor by the Outhout Realty Company, Richard O'Gorman, President.

The four-story flat at 860 East 162d Street, on plot 25 by 100, has been sold for Gertrude Newman to a client by Alexander Selkins, in conjunction with D. Schoen.

Recent Buyers.

Morris Heinerdinger is the buyer of the five-story double flat at 1,223 Park Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Ninety-fifth Street, sold by John J. Kavanagh for Mark L. and Solomon H. Abrahams. The plot is 25 by 90.

J. M. Weissman is the buyer of the dwelling at 271 West Ninetieth Street, sold recently by Alice B. Simmons through Slawson & Hobbs.

Staten Island.

A plot at Eltingville Beach, S. I., has been sold by Cornelius G. Kolff to a client for John Hales. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on Sunrise Lane and a depth of 50 feet.

Big Weehawken Tract Sold.

A big tract of land in Weehawken has been purchased by George B. Bergkamp, a real estate broker of West Hoboken, for development purposes. The tract has a frontage of 1,241 feet on the easterly side of the Hudson Boulevard, between Bull's Ferry Road and Highwood Terrace, and is 102 feet deep. It was bought from Samuel E. Renner and Thomas Henry, the consideration being about $35,000.

Bridge Company Buys in Bayonne.

The Lackawanna Bridge Company is said to be the real buyer of 31 lots at Bayonne, just sold by Percival G. Cruder to Louis N. Creighton, a real estate broker. The priced paid for the property was about $16,000, and it is said the bridge company will establish a factory plant there. Two lots are located on the south side of Evergreen Street, three on the north side of Cottage Street, between Hobart Street and Isabella Avenue; two on the southeast corner of Fourth Street and Humphreys Avenue; five on the west side of Garretson Avenue, between Third and Fourth Streets; six on the east side of Humphreys Avenue, between Third and Fourth Streets; seven on the south side of Fourth Street, between Garreston and Newman Avenues, and six on the east side of Garreston Avenue, between Third and Fourth Streets.

Suburban.

The country home farm at Wayne, Passaic County, N. J., has been sold by Louis Schlessinger for Mrs. Anna Bush to E. E. Everard of Newark, and also a farm at Washington, Warren County, N. J., to Charles E. Haight of Montclair, for Mrs. Emeline Klafer.

$750,000 Eleventh Avenue Factory.

An important improvement for the river front section on the west side, north of Forty-second Street, will be the erection of the eleven-story candy factory for D. Auerbach & Sons. It will be one of the largest factories in the city, carrying the entire block front on the east side of Eleventh Avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets, having a frontage of 200 feet on the avenue and 200 feet on each street. Preliminary plans have just been filed by the architect, Robert D. Kohn and construction will probably begin early in the Fall.

When completed the new building will include an aggregate floor area of 500,000 square feet. Provision is made for the most approved fire protection devices—all the staircases being fireproof and inclosed, as will be the seven elevators in fireproof shafts. There are to be two smokeproof stair towers with outside connecting balconies at each floor, and the building will have an automatic sprinkler equipment throughout.

The manufacturing floors are to be very high, artificially ventilated, and more then 75 per cent. of the exterior wall will be of glass. The cost will be $750,000.

The BELNORD
BROADWAY TO AMSTERDAM AVENUE
Eighty-sixth to Eighty-seventh Street

¶ The Belnord has a number of exclusive advantages over other high-class apartment houses in New York.

¶ The building, which is 12 stories high, covers an entire city block and incloses the largest apartment house court in the world. This design makes every room an outside room.

¶ The expedient of locating the engine rooms under the central court and not under any portion of the building has done away with noise and vibration. Each suite of rooms includes such conveniences as self-cooling refrigerators, vacuum cleaning system, wall safes and fire-proof storage rooms.

¶ The suites contain from 7 to 11 rooms and yearly rentals begin at $2,400. Interested parties are cordially invited to inspect the Belnord.

HILL DID NOT WANT SLOAN.

Trustees of Metropolitan Temple Were Opposed to the Pastor's View.

The dissension in the Metropolitan Temple over the appointment of the Rev. Du Bois H. Loux to the position of associate pastor while the Rev. H. P. Sloan was under contract to fill that position, is due, it seems, to the Rev. John Wesley Hill himself, pastor of the church.

Enough was said yesterday by members of the church to show that there was a long contest between Mr. Hill and the Trustees over the appointment of Mr. Sloan, who came to this city on March 25. Members of the board wanted Mr. Sloan and Mr. Hill did not want him. The Trustees yielded to Mr. Hill, while continuing to pay Mr. Sloan his salary. They acquiesed in the appointment of Dr. Loux last week, but will provide for Mr. Sloan financially until he obtains another pastorate. There was no new development in the situation yesterday.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

BARNET WERNER, manufacturer of antiques, 224 Centre Street. Judge Veeder has appointed Theophilus Parsons receiver; bond, $1,500.

SURROGATE CITATION.

PROBST, HERMAN.—The PEOPLE OF THE State of New York, by the Grace of God Free and Independent, to MARGARET SPRICKERHOFF, Louisa Krueger, Carl Probst, Frank Probst, Marie Martin, Gustave W. Probst, Agnes May, Gertrude Newell and Herman Probst, the heirs and next of kin of Herman Probst, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Elizabeth Probst, of the City of New York, has lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York, to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Herman Probst, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 28th day of July, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of 21 years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the Seal of the Surrogate's Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County of New York,

DANIEL J. DOWDNEY,
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.

Environment of Respectability.

The other day a man asked, "Why does not The New York Times accept advertisements of 'salary loans' when they are a necessity to certain classes?"

Recent investigation shows that "loan sharks" take advantage of loosely constructed laws to mulct victims who turn to them in times of need. Recognizing this, The Times does not publish their advertisements.

The New York Times maintains a strict censorship over all advertisements offered for publication. If they do not meet the requirements, they are rejected.

Advertisements accepted by The New York Times appear in an environment of respectability not obtainable in any other New York newspaper.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM, PART 1, OF THE Supreme Court of the State of New York, held at the County Court House, in the county of New York, on the 6th day of July, 1911.—Present: Hon. Alfred R. Page, Justice.

In the matter of the application of the EKATERINOSLAW LADIES' CHARITY SOCIETY for authority to change its name to THE LADIES' CHARITY SOCIETY OF NEW YORK.

Upon reading and filing the notice of motion dated May 23, 1911, the petition of the Ekaterinoslaw Ladies' Charity Society, a domestic corporation, duly verified the 13th day of June, 1911, by Mary Rozenoer, its President, wherein said petition prays for an order authorizing it to assume another corporate name, to wit: Ladies' Charity Society of New York; the certificate of the Secretary of State annexed thereto, bearing date the 20th day of May, 1911, certifying that said name which said corporation proposes to assume is not a name of any other domestic corporation, or a name which he deems so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive; the letter of Edward Lazansky, Secretary of State, dated the 26th day of June, 1911, proving that a copy of the petition herein, certificate of Secretary of State annexed thereto, and a copy of the notice of presentation of such petition and of application for this order were duly filed with the Secretary of State: affidavit of Joseph F. Macdonald, verified the 12th day of June, 1911, and the affidavit of John H. Cosgrove, verified the 12th day of June, 1911, proving that notice of presentation of the petition herein and application for this order were duly published once in each week for three (3) successive weeks, beginning from the 29th day of May, 1911, in the New York Times and in the New York Law Journal, daily newspapers published in the city and county of New York, certificate of Secretary of State dated May 20, 1911, and the Court being satisfied by said petition and by the affidavits and certificate presented therewith that the petition is true, and that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed, and that the petition has been duly authorized, and that notice of presentation of petition as required by law has been made;

Now, on motion of Myron S. Yochelson, attorney for the petitioner, and no one appearing in opposition thereto, and upon filing the opinion of the Court, it is

Ordered, that the said petition be and the same hereby is granted, and that the petitioner herein, EKATERINOSLAW LADIES' CHARITY SOCIETY, be and it hereby is authorized to assume another corporate name, to wit, the name LADIES' CHARITY SOCIETY OF NEW YORK, from and after the 10th day of August, 1911, and it is further Ordered and directed, that said order be entered and papers on which it was granted be filed within ten (10) days from the date hereof in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, the county in which the certificate of incorporation of said corporation is filed, and that a certified copy of this order within ten (10) days after the entry thereof be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and thereafter that a copy of this order be published once in each week for four (4) successive weeks in the New York Times and in the New York Law Journal, daily newspapers published in the county of New York, beginning within ten (10) days after the entry hereof. Enter A. R. P.,

Justice of Supreme Court.

GENTLEMAN BURGLAR WILL BE DEPORTED

Judge Dike Offers It as an Alternative to a Long Term in Sing Sing.

FATHER WILL RECEIVE HIM

Lieut. Karl von Metz Meyer, Who Kept Brooklyn in Terror for Two Months, Will Sail to Norway on Thursday.

While he may not find a fatted calf roasting for his entertainment when he gets back to the old homestead in Norway, not a few folk in the County Court in Brooklyn yesterday were of the notion that Karl von Metz Meyer, the gentleman theif who disturbed the exclusive Heights section of the borough for some weeks, had reason to view himself as an exceedingly lucky young man. Unless he so elects, Meyer will not end his interesting career in an American prison. Deportation to his native land and banishment from this country forever was the punishment meted out to him by Judge Dike, with a stay in Sing Sing of not less than two and one-half nor more than five years as the alternative.

Karl von Metz Meyer likes the United States, but he is not so enamored of it as to prefer limbo here to liberty in Norway. So he chose banishment, and on Thursday, under a cabled guarantee from his father that he will return no more to these shores, he will sail for Christiania on Thursday next.

The arrest of Karl von Metz Meyer, who is only 23 years old, solved a mystery which for nearly two months had puzzled the police and the residents of Brooklyn Heights. Night after night homes of many of the borough's wealthiest and most prominent citizens were entered. The burglar was never seen by any one, and so successfully did he cover his tracks that the city's detectives, as well as private sleuths, were baffled. With a swarm of detectives from Headquarters and private policemen on the watch for him, the mysterious burglar continued his operations until there was something akin to panic among wealthy residents there.

All this time young Meyer, handsome, educated, well-groomed, and polished of manner, was rooming in 185 Columbia Heights, where he was looked upon as a gentleman of money and leisure. From the window of his room he could look across the street upon the home of County Judge Norman S. Dike, who sat in judgment upon him. One night he robbed a house adjoining that of Judge Dike. The discovery gave the detectives a shock, and they reached the conclusion that they had to deal with one of the boldest, most skillful, and most experienced of burglars.

One night Meyer, carefully groomed, his natty attire topped with a silk hat, opened an unlocked window in the home of Charles J. Peabody in Willow Street and quietly stepped inside. When he stepped out again he had under his coat a silver loving cup belonging to Mr. Peabody. A policeman was approaching down the street, so Karl von Metz Meyer coolly tossed the loving cup into an areaway and pleasantly saluted the policeman.

"Fine night," said he.

"It is that," agreed the officer.

"It's a fine night for sleep, but I can't sleep," pursued Meyer. "Insomnia, you know. Have to get out and walk to quiet my nerves."

Being a policeman, the other did not suffer from insomnia, but he was sympathetic, and told the nocturnal stroller of a certain cure for the trouble. Later the loving cup was found and the policeman told of his meeting with the insomnia victim, who, as he described him, "was some swell looker."

The detectives hunted out Meyer, and when they arrested him he admitted having robbed a score of homes on the Heights.

Then, too, it developed that the young man had advertised several months before for an American bride with money. In his room were found hundreds of letters from women who had offered themselves as candidates.

The prisoner said he came from a family that was of the Norwegian aristocracy, that he had been in this country less than four years, had lost his funds dabbling in stocks, and had taken to burglary to raise money. He pleaded guilty last Friday before Judge Dike, who told him that because of the many robberies in the neighborhood he had kept a loaded rifle ready in his home for use in case the burglar appeared there.

When word of his arrest was cabled to Christiania his father, who is said to be a wealthy and prominent lawyer of that city, engaged counsel for him, and Christopher Ravn, the Norwegian Consul here, also took up the case. A cablegram from the father received yesterday by Judge Dike through Mr. Ravn said that if the young man was sent home the father would receive him and promise that he would not return to this country.

TO ENTER EPISCOPAL FOLD.

Methodist Assignments Steadily Reduced the Rev. R. A. Brown's Salary.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 17.—Consternation and regret spread among the officials and parishioners of the First Methodist Church of Rahway last evening when the pastor, the Rev. Robert A. Brown, handed in his resignation, to take effect immediately.

The Rev. Mr. Brown resigns to enter the Episcopal ministry, having received notice of his acceptance in that denomination on Friday afternoon and also of his appointment to the assistant rectorship of St. Bernard's Church of Bernardsville.

The resignation of Mr. Brown is due in part to the fact that during the last few years the assignments of pastorates which he has received have steadily reduced his salary. He was appointed to the Rahway church in April and went there under protest from a Newark church, where he was receiving $1,200 per year. The salary of the pastor at Rahway was $800. Previous to that time he occupied pulpits in New York City, and only a few years ago was receiving $3,200 per year.

CAPT. JOHN KELLY A SUICIDE.

Retired Oysterman, Fearing Paralysis, Shoots Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 17.—Fearing that he would be stricken with paralysis, Capt. John Kelley, a retired oyster dealer of New York, fired a bullet into his abdomen last night at his farm in Pompton Plains and died several hours afterward. Before he became unconscious from loss of blood, he talked with members of his family and told them why he had shot himself.

For a long time, he said, he was apprehensive of a paralytic stroke. Recently he had taken cold and was indisposed. Finding that medicines which had been given him afforded no relief, he became alarmed. Finishing his supper, Capt. Kelley walked quietly from the dining room, betraying no sign of emotion and went to his room.

Placing the rifle to his abdomen and leaning over, he discharged the weapon with his thumb. Then he sat down in a chair, where his wife found him dying.

Capt. Kelley was 65 years old. He was born in New York. He leaves a wife and a son.

THINKS HIRSCH HER HUSBAND

Woman Telephones to Hotel Manager About Man Missing Since July 7.

Joseph Nemro, manager of the Navarre Hotel in Newark, reported yesterday to the police that he received yesterday a telephone message regarding the identity of "H. J. Hirsch," who, with his wife and two children, disappeared from the hotel on July 7.

Nemro said that the person at the other end of the wire was a woman, who said that her husband, Mr. Hirsch, had deserted her five years ago in Chicago, leaving her with three small children. She said the initials "H. J." were the same as her husband's, and the description the hotel man gave of the missing man, she declared, corresponded so exactly with that of her missing husband that she said she would call on him.

On Friday morning, July 7, Hirsch left the hotel to go to business, and his wife and two children departed, after making inquiries about a park with a lake in it. Persons occupying a room near the Hirsch suite said that the couple had been quarreling.

TRY TO CONTROL COMMISSION

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 17.—Marked ballots, bearing a set of names, which is said to be favored by various special interests and the machine politicians, were distributed to-day in many saloons to be voted at to-morrow's special primary election for Commissioners, under the new form of City Government.

The "slate," as indicated by these tickets, comprises County Chairman James H. Mulheron, and City Treasurer Harry E. Evans, Republicans, and Fire Commissioner Thomas F. McCormack, and City Assessor George B. Labarre, Democrats. The fifth place was left vacant.

The candidates are rebelling at the alleged effort to force a ticket and deny that they are parties to any combination. The Commission Government League is still in existence and will warn the voters if any attempt is made to control the new commission improperly.

DENIAL BY DR. AKED.

Never Said New York Is Cold to Religion, He Asserts in a Telegram.

The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked has sent to The Associated Press the following telegram dated San Francisco, July 17:

> The statement in to-day's papers, said to be telegraphed from New York, attributing to me offensive observations as to coldness of New York people, is sheer invention, and I am under such life-long obligations of gratitude to New York that I deplore this pargraph.

"New Yorkers are as cold as their wintry weather. Chilled by the atmosphere of my congregation in New York I came West. Here is found warmth. The West responds to religion; the East only tolerates it."

18 Strikers Tie Up Trolley Line.

TRENTON, N. J., July 17.—In an effort to force their demands for a flat rate of twenty-four cents an hour and recognition of their union, about eighteen employes of the New Jersey & Pennsylvania Traction Company, known better as the Johnson line, went on strike here to-night, tying up the system between Trenton and suburban points in this State and Bucks County, Penn. It is said the day men will resume operation of the cars in the morning.

TWO GAS EXPLOSIONS HURT 16 AT FACTORY

Eleven Firemen and Five Employes Bruised and Burned, but None Mortally.

GIRL TELEPHONIST'S PLUCK

Under Instructions She Quietly Told the 100 Men at Work on the Various Floors to Leave.

An employe of E. G. Webster & Sons, silver platers, at Fifth and Atlantic Avenues, Brooklyn, started to look for a leak in a gas meter with a lighted match in the cellar of the factory building yesterday morning. The odor of gas was very strong there. The fumes were ignited by the match, and immediately there was an explosion that shook the building and hurled William Leggett of 188 Lexington Avenue, an employe, several feet backward. He was carried a few minutes later to the street, dazed and burned on his face and arms, by other employes, who rushed into the cellar to see what the trouble was.

Five minutes later, while three companies of firemen were in the cellar fighting a blaze caused by the first explosion, there was another, louder than the first. The firemen were knocked in all directions. Eleven of them were injured, and eight were taken to the Brooklyn Hospital, suffering from burns on the face, arms, and hands. Four of the factory employes who were in the cellar were also injured, and three of them were taken to the hospital.

No fire was caused by the second explosion. Firemen were in the street, and some of the less injured in the cellar assisted their unfortunate comrades out into the open. A call to the Brooklyn Hospital brought two ambulances, and as fast as Ambulance Surgeons Scott and Robinson could attend to the injured they were removed to the hospital or were taken home.

The second explosion occurred because some one carelessly forgot to turn off the gas in the main leading from the street into the building. The force of the first explosion opened a feed pipe in the cellar, and during all the time the firemen were there the gas flowed freely from this brak. Deputy Fire Chief Lally, who was directing operations from the street, as soon as he learned that there was a leak somewhere in the feed pipe, ordered the men out of the cellar. His order came just a minute too late.

Battalion Chief John A. Dooley and Lieut. Daniel Harrigan of Engine Company 126 entered the cellar at the head of the men of the engine company and Truck 55. Dooley was burned slightly on the hands. He returned to his quarters after he was treated by the ambulance surgeon. But Harrigan and Foreman George Kline of Truck 55 were burned on the face, arms, and hands, and were removed to the hospital.

Charles O'Connor of Truck 55, and James A. Kiernan of the same company, were slightly burned on the face and hands. They were able to go back to their quarters after the ambulance surgeons treated them.

Of the employes who were injured, Leggett's injuries did not appear serious enough to cause his removal to the hospital. Three others were taken there. They are Edward Whipple, 41 years, a plater of 1,542 Bushwick Avenue; J. Willmot, 41, a foreman of 1,504 Bergen Street, and Robert Cole, 35, a plater of 175 Seventh Avenue.

William Schruger, 51, a plater of 26 Edsall Avenue, was taken home. All were burned on the face and hands.

Sixteen persons altogether were more or less injured.

There were about one hundred employes at work in the factory, a four-story building, when the first explosion occurred.

Ella Windhorst of 259 St. Mark's Avenue, a telephone operator employed by the firm, retained her presence of mind during the excitement. The employes on the upper floors did not know there was a fire and under the direction of the senior member of the firm she called up all the departments and instructed the men to get out of the building quietly, which some of them did.

Many others who looked out of the windows did not see any sign of smoke below took their time. When the second explosion occurred there was a wild scramble to get to the street. The damage to the building by fire and explosion is slight. The factory resumed work in the afternoon.

KILLED IN FREIGHT YARDS.

Engineer Who Dashed His Locomotive Into Another Is Under Arrest.

One man was killed and another was seriously injured in a collision early yesterday morning between a freight train and an engine coupled to a caboose in the Waverly freight yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Frelinghuysen and Evergreen Avenues, Newark. The man who was killed was Isaac Walker of Trenton, N. J., engineer of the freight train. His fireman, J. L. Hopkins, is in St. Michael's Hospital, so badly scalded that he may die. None of the crew of the other train was injured.

If information obtained by Detective Walter Godfrey of the Essex County Prosecutor's office is true, Engineer J. Williams of Engine 799, to which a caboose was attached, was responsible for the wreck. He is said to have been going west on Track 3 without observing a distant caution signal, and also to have passed a home red signal. He had orders to stop until Freight 2,544, which was leaving the yards, crossed Track 3.

As Walker drove his engine across Track 3 the engine with the caboose crashed into its side. Walker was crushed between the rear of his engine and the front of the tender. He was dead when taken out of the wreckage.

Capt. Samuel Brown of the Sixth Precinct Station will make a complaint to-day against Williams, who was arrested by Detective Godfrey.

COURT NOT TO SUPPLY SENSE

Vice Chancellor Garrison heard in Jersey City yesterday the application of Edward Russ against the Majestic Realty Company for a receiver to collect the rents pending the foreclosure of a first and second mortgage. Counsel for Russ declared that the realty company had failed to pay taxes and water rents and make repairs and was pocketing the rents, which amount to $100 a month or more.

The motion was opposed on the ground that the property was worth more than enough to satisfy all liens upon it. Mr. Perkins said that it was not common sense to let the property deteriorate and let taxes run when 10 per cent. interest had to be paid for arrears.

"If a man doesn't want to defend a foreclosure, what is there that is inequitable in his getting all he can out of the property before it is taken from him?" asked the Vice Chancellor. "If the property is worth more than the mortgages it is not common sense," said Perkins.

"I never knew that the Court of Equity was supposed to supply sense to litigators. All it has to supply is justice," was the court's retort.

JERSEY CITY VOTES TO-DAY.

A special election is to be held in Jersey City to-day to decide whether that municipality shall adopt the commission form of Government. The polls open at 6 A. M., and will close at 7 P. M.

Chief of Police Monohan has ordered that all the saloons be closed. The Commission Government League is confident of victory, while the leaders of both the Republican and Democrat machines say that commission government will be beaten by eight votes to one. The Socialist Party and the labor organizations are opposed to commission form of Government, contending that if adopted it would be centralizing power and will be welcomed by the corporate interests.

One of Nature's Best Gifts

is a perfect set of teeth. Yet how many men and women are there who are so generously endowed? To meet the exigencies of the less fortunate people we make teeth that are as near the natural ones as it is possible, scientifically, to come, and at the same time to preserve those that show slight as well as fully developed signs of decay.

If you have lost teeth, our interchangeable bridge gives you new teeth, impossible to distinguish from your own, and takes good care of those that remain.

Unlike what other dentists do, we ask for no payment, in advance or otherwise, unless the work performed is to your entire satisfaction. This we make very plain in our written guarantee, which we give with all dental work here. Come in and consult us. We make no charge for advice.
